5 Die In State Wreck; Monroe Boy Is Shot

Blast Hits 4-Block Area, 14 Are Hurt

Explosion Is Heard 25 Miles Away; No Dead

WARSAW, Ky. (AP) — A blast tore apart a soft drink and beer storage house and damaged offices, stores and homes in a four-block area Friday.

At least 14 persons were injured, including Jack Smith, 32, operator of the plant.

Most of the injured were taken 30 miles to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, across the Ohio River from Cincinnati, where hospital aides turned the auditorium into an emergency ward.

MAJOR HIGHWAY

The plant was in the center of this community of about 1,000, and was on U. S. 42, a major north-south highway.

Smith, burned from head to ankles, was the most seriously injured. Most of those injured were hit by flying glass or hit by flying debris.

Walls of the plant, built last spring, were blown out and the roof fell in.

Some residents of Walton, 25 miles away, said they heard the blast.

Kenneth Kenner, a telephone lineman, said he was in a truck driving toward the building when it exploded.

"A puff of blue and grey smoke rose 300 feet in the air and my truck was blown sideways about 10 feet," he said.

"This place looks like a war-torn town."

Charles Adams, a local newsman, said Smith was pulled from the ruins after the blast, apparently caused by the explosion of bottled gas containers.

Adams said fire departments were called from nearby cities "but the only fire seemed to be in the rubble that was the storage house."

Police said searching parties were going through the debris to make certain that no dead or injured had been overlooked.

Ambulances rushed to the scene from nearby towns and several fire departments in the area also answered the alarm, but no fire was reported other than in the debris of the warehouse.

Mrs. Beth Abbott, who lives near the site of the explosion, described everything as being a "wreck."

She said it blew out the windows, the storm doors and the door frames in her own house which is two blocks away from the plant.

Mrs. Abbott said her grandson, Bill Bradley, 29, who lives near the site of the blast "was blown clear out of his house. He had just gotton out of the bathtub—and the bathtub was blown out too."

France Sends Reinforcements To Martinique

PARIS (UPI)—France sent police reinforcements and a warship to the Caribbean island of Martinique Friday where at least three persons have been killed and dozens injured in a week of nationalist violence.

The disturbances started last Sunday and continued until Thursday, when police slapped on a tight 8 p.m. to dawn curfew in Fort DeFrance, capital of Martinique where the troubles have been centered.

A communique issued by the office of Jacques Soustelle, minister in charge of the overseas territories, said that police reinforcements have been sent to Martinique from the neighboring West Indian island of Guadeloupe and from France.

At the same time, the 8,500-ton cruiser De Grasse sailed from Brest for Martinique with 910 men aboard.

The Martinique Communist Party, which at first was believed to have spearheaded the demonstrations, Friday night joined officials in appeals for calm.

The communique issued here said the trouble started when two cars collided on a Fort DeFrance street last Sunday. Unofficial reports said one was driven by a Frenchman, the other by a Martinique citizen.

Republican security guards called to the scene were attacked by a mob which had assembled around the accident. The police used tear gas and fired over the heads of the crowd to extricate themselves.

The troubles increased Monday, when groups of rioters attacked shops and automobiles, breaking windows and setting them afire.

REKINDLES FAITH

Christmas Leaves Hope For World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Christmas of peace and hope was celebrated in nearly all places around the world Friday as Christmas rekindled their faith from the age-old story of the humble birth of the Savior.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's Christmas gift to the world — even though it was wrapped in Red ribbon and tagged with marks — cheered those who hoped an East-West summit conference would ease world tensions. But it gave Western statesmen a new puzzle on how to fit the conference in with dates already crowding their calendars.

PEACE

Khrushchev managed to remind the world that May Day is the big Soviet holiday, not Christmas.

Hope was not undimmed and peace was not universal.

In France's rebel-torn Algeria, a series of incidents left four dead and 65 injured. The worst was a bomb explosion Christmas Eve that killed two and injured 51 shoppers in front of an Algiers department store.

France had other troubles in her West Indies island of Martinique where security troops were rushed to quell a series of disturbances that have killed three persons and injured several. They began with an auto accident last Sunday when a crowd attacked police. No reason has been given for the flare-ups.

Another danger area was along the Irainan-Iraqi frontier where Tehran was reported to have sent additional troops. Other Iranian troops are said to have been posted along the Soviet frontier in the north. Iraq has denied it is moving troops to its frontier with Iran, and Moscow claimed Iran was starting the trouble to divert public attention from economic woes.

At Quemoy, the nationalist Chinese-held island o'f the mainland, the Chinese Communists also broke the peace of the day by peppering the island with 53 shells. It was an odd-numbered day of the month, a day for shooting, and the Communists kept to schedule regardless of Christmas.

But mostly it was a day for Christian religious services, family gatherings, and feasting—even behind the Iron Curtain.

For the first time in several years, a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Louis F. Dion, Worcester, Mass., conducted midnight Mass for Moscow's foreign residents of his faith. He was let into the Soviet Union last winter. Episcopal services were held in

10 Tank Cars Derail, Police Fear Explosion

COALING, Ala., (UPI) — Two Southern Railroad gfreight trains derailed a mile from here late Friday, igniting an undetermined number of gasoline tank cars.

Police at nearby Tuscaloosa said 10 butane tanks cars were derailed near the fire and in danger of exploding at anytime. They said, however, this east-central Alabama town of 500 was not in danger.

It was not determined whether there were any residences near the tracks, which run through a heavily wooded section.

Police said firefighting equipment called from as far as 25 miles away would not reach the fire because of the terrain. Heavy equipment was summoned in an effort to cut a path through the woods to the blaze.

The wreck occurred about 6 p.m., c.s.t., and the blaze still roared unchecked two hours later.

The Alabama highway patrol reported one train jumped the track as it was passing the other. Both were wrecked. One of the trains was composed of 195 cars, the other of 175 cars. However not all the cars were derailed.

IN JAIL AGAIN

It Happens Almost Every Christmas

ROOSEVELT, N.Y. (AP)—Percy (The Painter) Ostermann, an off-beat symbol of Christmas Day at the Nassau County jail, was back behind bars again Friday—right on schedule.

Only once in the past 35 years has the 61-year-old Ostermann failed to spend Christmas Day in Nassau County's bastille.

That was last year. He was in Sing Sing Prison on a burglary charge then.

Most of Ostermann's Christmas Day sojourns in jail followed a losing bout with the bottle.

The charge Friday was burglary.

Police said Percy broke into St. Paul's Episcopal church Thursday night and stole a heavy, 12-inch altar bell.

He was indignant. Never in his life, he protested, had he committed larceny inside a house of worship.

Police replied they had found his cap inside the church. Also there was the matter of the alter bell in his possession.

All right, Percy said resignely, "I don't remember it anyway. I was drinking."

Percy, the painter derived his name from his work as an inmate of the Nassau County jail. Authorities estimated he had painted the old jail "from top to bottom many times."

He found himself Friday in a new jail—built only two years ago.

"The place could use a lot of painting by spring," one jail custodian said pensively.

But Percy will not be around. After he sobers up, authorities said, they'll return him to Sing Sing as a parole violator.

Sing Sing's a big prison, though. Perhaps Percy will find some spring painting there.

Gun Goes Off During Rabbit Hunt

BOSSIER CITY (Special) — Billy R. Gullette, 11-year-old Monroe youth, was shot to death about 11 a.m. yesterday when a shotgun accidentally went off in a companion's hands, striking young Gullette in the right chest and resulting in almost instant death.

The fatal accident happened during a rabbit hunt near Bossier City, where the youth was living temporarily with his grandmother, Mrs. Ida Taylor.

The boy's father, William I. Gullette, 1511 Myers, Monroe, reportedly has nine other children and is a widower. He had sent Billy to his grandmother's home to live for a while.

RETURNING

According to investigating officers, the fatal accident happened as the youth was returning from a rabbit hunt with his grandmother's son, Wayne, 19, when a .410 shotgun misfired and struck young Gullette.

Wayne Taylor, suffering from a heart ailment, officers said, became hysterical after the shooting and last night was still unable to make any statements on the shooting.

As near as officers and Bossier Parish Coroner Dr. C. H. McCuller could determine, the two boys were crawling through a wire fence when the gun went off in Wayne's hands.

Deputy Tom Beasley said the Taylor family was in the process of moving from Shreveport to the new home on Filmore - Haughton Road, and Mrs. Taylor had returned to Shreveport for another load of household goods when the youths decided to go hunting.

Mrs. Taylor told the two that she did not want them to take the gun, but they did so against her wishes after she left. They were apparently on the way back from the hunt at the time of the accident.

According to reports, the Taylor youth was very fond of the Gullette boy. Taylor was taken to the Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport, where he was being treated last night for shock. He was unable to be questioned by authorities.

The dead youth was taken by Wellman ambulance to Wellman Funeral Home in Shreveport,

Dies After Falling Ill At Jail Here

Archie Pickering, 59, whose address was listed as Tourist Hotel Monroe, died en route to Conway Memorial Hospital yesterday a ter falling ill at the city jail, according to parish coroner Dr. John Burton. Pickering was being held on a charge of public drunkenness.

An autopsy was performed last night by Dr. N. Klam pathologist at St. Francis Hospital, who attributed the cause of death to a blood clot on the brain.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but will be announced later by Hixon Brothers Funeral Home.

Interment is scheduled to be held in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

Business As Usual Today

Businesses throughout the Twin Cities will fall back into normal routine today, with merchants opening doors for a regular day's schedule.

The return to regular business hours today follows a relatively quiet day of holiday observance in Monroe and West Monroe, with practically every establishment closing for Christmas yesterday.

All municipal offices, on the other hand, will be closed today, with doors scheduled to open at the regular hours Monday. This includes court house offices in both Monroe and West Monroe.

The post offices in the Twin Cities are opening today on a regular basis, after closing down operations yesterday for the Christmas observance. Today, full services are to be underway on regular schedule.

Traffic Toll Runs Above '58 Christmas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	217

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's Christmas weekend traffic death toll ran some 20 per cent higher Friday than for the early part of last year's holiday.

The rate, if unslackened, could bring the traffic death count for the three-day period above the 530 estimate of the National Safety Council.

It would also pass the only comparable toll of recent years, the 1953 three-day Christmas count of 523. Last Christmas weekend, a four - day holiday, brought 559 deaths in traffic.

The council said heavy traffic and treacherous road conditions were factors in the high mortality rate.

With approximately seven fatalities an hour during the first day of the current holiday, the possibility loomed that this year's three-day toll could be as heavy as that for the four-day period in 1958.

During the 102-hour Christmas period last year, the death count reached 145 at 7 p.m. That mark was passed at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

The figures and percentages were significant in pointing up increased deadliness of heavy holiday traffic over normal weekend experience. The council estimated that a nonholiday weekend at this time of year could be expected to bring 370 deaths on streets and highways.

Actually, a 78-hour span, from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday, was used in three-day surveys.

The Associated Press, during such a period from Thursday evening, Dec. 10, to midnight Sunday this year counted 324 traffic deaths. During the same survey, 22 deaths in fires were noted, and 68 in accidents of all other categories — a total of 414 accident deaths.

FATHER GOES BERSERK

'Torch Death' Revenge Sought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A grieving father went berserk Friday and set fire to the home of one of two boys he blamed for the "human torch" death of his eight-year-old son.

Police charged Harry Allen, 31, of Clendenin, W. Va., with arson pending an investigation.

Allen also allegedly threatened to burn the home of another neighbor and brandished a shotgun at firemen who answered the alarm.

Authorities said Allen went into a rage after his son, Harry Wayne Allen, died earlier Friday in a hospital here after being admitted Christmas Eve with burns over 95 per cent of his body.

The youngster was reported to have told his father before dying that two playmates poured crude oil over him and then set his clothing afire deliberately.

WRESTLED

After the child died, Allen went directly from the hospital to the one-story home of one of the boys named by his son and set the place on fire. When firemen arrived, Allen pointed the shotgun at them. One fireman struck him with a hose and another wrestled him to the ground, but he broke free and fled to the home of a relative.

Several hours later, Allen telephoned state police and then surrendered voluntarily.

Fishing Boat Goes Down

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A fishing boat ran aground and sank in heavy seas some 200 yards off Grand Isle, spilling its crew into the water.

But ground swells fought back efforts from a life raft, a patrol boat and a helicopter.

Burro Is Rescued From Sea

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A burro named Jennie Sue was rescued Friday from a fantastic fix she got in at sea.

Coastguardsmen found the animal standing bewildered, bedraggled and seasick amid a clutter of spilled groceries, religious articles and a tinseled Christmas tree on a disabled cabin cruiser.

It certainly was not Jennie Sue's idea to spend Christmas reeling around on a tether aboard a boat. The burro, with a dog, was being taken to South Andros, Bahamas, by two boatmen when the little craft developed trouble Christmas Eve.

A tanker took off the dog and the men, Don Wallace of Hallandale and Nelson Shaw of Miami early Friday, but the seas became too rough to risk hauling Jennie Sue aboard also. She was left tied in the cabin cruiser's stern while a Coast Guard boat tried to tow it to land 30 miles distant.

A towline broke and Jennie Sue was off on a solo voyage in early morning darknes. Another cutter located the small craft and towed it late Friday into Port Everglades, north of Miami.

Jennie Sue and the ocean-tossed supplies were bound for a mission school conducted on Mangrove Key, South Andros, by the Rev. Donald Powell.

Powell said the Christmas tree was to have been the first his flock ever saw.

The provisions and a quantity of clothing also were to have been presented to the islanders for Christmas.

USED THREE TABLES

He Ate Alone, But Yule Dinner $840

LONDON (AP)—Bachelor Lynn Porter flew in from New York Friday for a traditional English Christmas dinner. He then flew back after downing a solitary feast that cost him over $840.

The 44-year-old restaurant owner from Penn Yan, N.Y., dined alone at three tables in London's fashionable Mayfair Hotel. His dinner consisted of: 16 creamed oysters, two Dover soles, roast Norfolk goose, a two-pound Christmas pudding smothered in brandy, black English tea, champagne liqueru.

Puffing on a cigar after the last dish had been cleared away, Porter said, "I am more than delighted."

He flew into London Friday morning by jet. A couple of hours later he was back on a plane for New York.

Before leaving the United States, Porter said the trip started taking shape several months ago when a visitor to his New York restaurant told him he had eaten lunch that day in London.

"Just making small talk, I said I was going to London for Christmas dinner," Porter said, adding that the trip became "kind of a joke" and before he knew it, he was committed to make it.

"I've wanted to do this for years," he said.

"The closest I have ever come to London was a trip to Edinburgh last summer," he added.

Although he complained he was broke, Porter distributed pound notes—about $2.80 each—to waiters, tari drivers and cashiers and invited British newsmen to join him in champagne.

Two-Car Head-On Collision

DEQUINCY (Special) — Five persons, including one from Winnsboro and three others formerly of Winnsboro, were killed early Friday about six miles from here in a two-car head-on collision.

The dead were identified as James A. Cupp, 18, of Winnsboro; William B. Howington, 39, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Audrey Howington, wife of William Howington; Opal Howington, 14, daughter of the couple; and Jerry Wayne Hollie, 18, of Beaumont, Texas.

The three Howingtons were former residents of Winnsboro. Mrs. Howington was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McVay of Monroe.

Cupp was identified as the driver of the car carrying the Howingtons, and Hollie was the driver and only occupant of the other auto involved.

Two other children of the Howingtons were seriously injured, and remain hospitalized in Lake Charles. They are Billy, 12, and Wayne, 15.

EVIDENCE

According to state police investigating the accident, there was evidence that at least one car was traveling at high speed. Bodies were badly mangled. The accident happened on state highway 12.

Sgt. Robert Vines of Troop D in Lake Charles said the people in Cupp's car were carrying several Christmas packages, which were scattered along the highway.

SERVICES

Funeral services for Cupp will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday from the chapel of Mulhearn Funeral Home in Winnsboro.

Officiating will be Peter DeNuci and Oliver Pountney. Interment will follow in the Winnsboro Cemetery.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Cupp; three sisters, Mary Alice, Carolyn and Georgia Sue Cupp, all of Winnsboro; and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cupp, Baskin.

Pallbearers will be DeVoyd Boutwell, Buddy Rhodes, Buddy

Khrushchev Agrees To Summit Meet

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev agreed Friday to a summit meeting in Paris but urged the Western powers to choose a different date so it would not conflict with the Soviet May Day.

President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillian, and President Charles de Gaulle of France meeting in Paris last weekend proposed that the top-level East-West conference convene in Paris April 27. May Day is May 1, and a summit meeting is expected to last at least a week.

Khrushchev, in letters to the three leaders Friday, said the April 27 date unfortunately was "inconvenient for the Soviet government." He suggested either April 21 or May 4 as alternate dates and said he hoped his proposal would not "create any complications."

Immediate complications were noted in Paris and London, however. There was no comment in Washington. The British Foreign Office said the May 4 date would interfere with a British Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference in London beginning May 3.

The French Foreign Ministry noted that the April 21 date

The boy's father, William I. Gullette, 1511 Myers, Monroe, reportedly has nine other children and is a widower. He had sent Billy to his grandmother's home to live for a while.

RETURNING

According to investigating officers, the fatal accident happened as the youth was returning from a rabbit hunt with his grandmother's son, Wayne, 19, when a .410 shotgun misfired and struck young Gullette.

Wayne Taylor, suffering from a heart ailment, officers said, became hysterical after the shooting and last night was still unable to make any statements on the shooting.

As near as officers and Bossier Parish Coroner Dr. C. H. McCuller could determine, the two boys were crawling through a wire fence when the gun went off in Wayne's hands.

Deputy Tom Beasley said the Taylor family was in the process of moving from Shreveport to the new home on Filmore - Haughton Road, and Mrs. Taylor had returned to Shreveport for another load of household goods when the youths decided to go hunting.

Mrs. Taylor told the two that she did not want them to take the gun, but they did so against her wishes after she left. They were apparently on the way back from the hunt at the time of the accident.

According to reports, the Taylor youth was very fond of the Gullette boy. Taylor was taken to the Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport, where he was being treated last night for shock. He was unable to be questioned by authorities.

The dead youth was taken by Wellman ambulance to Wellman Funeral Home in Shreveport,

Archie Pickering, 59, whose address was listed as Tourist Hotel Monroe, died en route to Conway Memorial Hospital yesterday after falling ill at the city jail, according to parish coroner Dr. John Burton. Pickering was being held on a charge of public drunkenness.

An autopsy was performed last night by Dr. N. Klam pathologist at St. Francis Hospital, who attributed the cause of death to a blood clot on the brain.

Interment is scheduled to be held in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

Business As Usual Today

Businesses throughout the Twin Cities will fall back into normal routine today, with merchants opening doors for a regular day's schedule.

The return to regular business hours today follows a relatively quiet day of holiday observance in Monroe and West Monroe, with practically every establishment closing for Christmas yesterday.

All municipal offices, on the other hand, will be closed today, with doors scheduled to open at the regular hours Monday. This includes court house offices in both Monroe and West Monroe.

The post offices in the Twin Cities are opening today on a regular basis, after closing down operations yesterday for the Christmas observance. Today, full services are to be underway on regular schedule.

Traffic Toll Runs Above '58 Christmas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	217
Fires	19
Miscellaneous	19
Total	255

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's Christmas weekend traffic death toll ran some 20 per cent higher Friday than for the early part of last year's holiday.

The rate, if unslackened, could bring the traffic death count for the three-day period above the 530 estimate of the National Safety Council.

It would also pass the only comparable toll of recent years, the 1953 three-day Christmas count of 523. Last Christmas weekend, a four-day holiday, brought 559 deaths in traffic.

The council said heavy traffic and treacherous road conditions were factors in the high mortality rate.

With approximately seven fatalities an hour during the first day of the current holiday, the possibility loomed that this year's three-day toll could be as heavy as that for the four-day period in 1958.

During the 102-hour Christmas period last year, the death count reached 145 at 7 p.m. That mark was passed at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

The figures and percentages were significant in pointing up increased deadliness of heavy holiday traffic over normal weekend experience. The council estimated that a nonholiday weekend at this time of year could be expected to bring 370 deaths on streets and highways.

Actually, a 78-hour span, from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday, was used in three-day surveys.

The Associated Press, during such a period from Thursday evening, Dec. 10, to midnight Sunday this year counted 324 traffic deaths. During the same survey, 22 deaths in fires were noted, and 68 in accidents of all other categories — a total of 414 accident deaths.

FATHER GOES BERSERK

'Torch Death' Revenge Sought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A grieving father went berserk Friday and set fire to the home of one of two boys he blamed for the "human torch" death of his eight-year-old son.

Police charged Harry Allen, 31, of Clendenin, W. Va., with arson pending an investigation.

Allen also allegedly threatened to burn the home of another neighbor and brandished a shotgun at firemen who answered the alarm.

Authorities said Allen went into a rage after his son, Harry Wayne Allen, died earlier Friday in a hospital here after being admitted Christmas Eve with burns over 95 per cent of his body.

The youngster was reported to have told his father before dying that two playmates poured crude oil over him and then set his clothing afire deliberately.

WRESTLED

After the child died, Allen went directly from the hospital to the one-story home of one of the boys named by his son and set the place on fire. When firemen arrived, Allen pointed the shotgun at them. One fireman struck him with a hose and another wrestled him to the ground, but he broke free and fled to the home of a relative.

Several hours later, Allen telephoned state police and then surrendered voluntarily.

Burro Is Rescued From Sea

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A burro named Jennie Sue was rescued Friday from a fantastic fix she got in at sea.

Coastguardsmen found the animal standing bewildered, bedraggled and seasick amid a clutter of spilled groceries, religious articles and a tinseled Christmas tree on a disabled cabin cruiser.

It certainly was not Jennie Sue's idea to spend Christmas reeling around on a tether aboard a boat. The burro, with a dog, was being taken to South Andros, Bahamas, by two boatmen when the little craft developed trouble Christmas Eve.

A tanker took off the dog and the men, Don Wallace of Hallandale and Nelson Shaw of Miami early Friday, but the seas became too rough to risk hauling Jennie Sue aboard also. She was left tied in the cabin cruiser's stern while a Coast Guard boat tried to tow it to land 30 miles distant.

A towline broke and Jennie Sue was off on a solo voyage in early morning darknes. Another cutter located the small craft and towed it late Friday into Port Everglades, north of Miami.

Jennie Sue and the ocean-tossed supplies were bound for a mission school conducted on Mangrove Key, South Andros, by the Rev. Donald Powell.

Powell said the Christmas tree was to have been the first his flock ever saw.

The provisions and a quantity of clothing also were to have been presented to the islanders for Christmas.

Fishing Boat Goes Down

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A fishing boat ran aground and sank in heavy seas some 200 yards off Grand Isle, spilling its crew into the water.

One man swam ashore. The Coast Guard tried desperately to save a second crewman, floating in a life jacket.

But ground swells fought back efforts from a life raft, a patrol boat and a helicopter.

USED THREE TABLES

He Ate Alone, But Yule Dinner $840

LONDON (AP)—Bachelor Lynn Porter flew in from New York Friday for a traditional English Christmas dinner. He then flew back after downing a solitary feast that cost him over $840.

The 44-year-old restaurant owner from Penn Yan, N.Y., dined alone at three tables in London's fashionable Mayfair Hotel. His dinner consisted of: 16 creamed oysters, two Dover soles, roast Norfolk goose, a two-pound Christmas pudding smothered in brandy, black English tea, champagne liqueru.

Puffing on a cigar after the last dish had been cleared away. Porter said, "I am more than delighted."

He flew into London Friday morning by jet. A couple of hours later he was back on a plane for New York.

Before leaving the United States, Porter said the trip started taking shape several months ago when a visitor to his New York restaurant told him he had eaten lunch that day in London.

"Just making small talk, I said I was going to London for Christmas dinner," Porter said, adding that the trip became "kind of a joke" and before he knew it, he was committed to make it.

"I've wanted to do this for years," he said.

"The closest I have ever come to London was a trip to Edinburgh last summer," he added.

Although he complained he was broke, Porter distributed pound notes—about $2.80 each—to waiters, tari drivers and cashiers and invited British newsmen to join him in champagne.

Two-Car Head-On Collision

DEQUINCY (Special) — Five persons, including one from Winnsboro and three others formerly of Winnsboro, were killed early Friday about six miles from here in a two-car head-on collision.

The dead were identified as James A. Cupp, 18, of Winnsboro; William B. Howington, 39, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Audrey Howington, wife of William Howington; Opal Howington, 14, daughter of the couple; and Jerry Wayne Hollie, 18, of Beaumont, Texas.

The three Howingtons were former residents of Winnsboro. Mrs. Howington was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McVay of Monroe.

Cupp was identified as the driver of the car carrying the Howingtons, and Hollie was the driver and only occupant of the other auto involved.

Two other children of the Howingtons were seriously injured, and remain hospitalized in Lake Charles. They are Billy, 12, and Wayne, 15.

EVIDENCE

According to state police investigating the accident, there was evidence that at least one car was traveling at high speed. Bodies were badly mangled. The accident happened on state highway 12.

Sgt. Robert Vines of Troop D in Lake Charles said the people in Cupp's car were carrying several Christmas packages, which were scattered along the highway.

SERVICES

Funeral services for Cupp will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday from the chapel of Mulhearn Funeral Home in Winnsboro.

Officiating will be Peter DeNuei and Oliver Pountney. Interment will follow in the Winnsboro Cemetery.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Cupp; three sisters, Mary Alice, Carolyn and Georgia Sue Cupp, all of Winnsboro; and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cupp, Baskin.

Pallbearers will be DeVoyd Boutwell, Buddy Rhodes, Buddy

Khrushchev Agrees To Summit Meet

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev agreed Friday to a summit meeting in Paris but urged the Western powers to choose a different date so it would not conflict with the Soviet May Day.

President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillian, and President Charles de Gaulle of France meeting in Paris last weekend proposed that the top-level East-West conference convene in Paris April 27. May Day is May 1, and a summit meeting is expected to last at least a week.

Khrushchev, in letters to the three leaders Friday, said the April 27 date unfortunately was "inconvenient for the Soviet government." He suggested either April 21 or May 4 as alternate dates and said he hoped his proposal would not "create any complications."

Immediate complications were noted in Paris and London, however. There was no comment in Washington. The British Foreign Office said the May 4 date would interfere with a British Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference in London beginning May 3.

The French Foreign Ministry noted that the April 21 date

Eisenhowers Spend Quiet Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower spent a quiet holiday in an almost empty White House Friday without the four grandchildren who have shared their past Christmases.

The President and his first lady relaxed amid gay holiday decorations which decked out the executive mansion. But the shouts and laughter of children which have echoed through its rooms in prevous years were absent.

The grandchildren and their parents, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, were celebrating the day at their Gettysburg, Pa., home. Between here and Gettysburg were 80 miles of wet, and in some spots icy, roads.

Eisenhower has not seen the four children since he left Dec. 3 on the 19-day, 23,000-mile peace mission to Asia, Africa and Europe which he completed last Tuesday night.

Unannounced, the President and Mrs. Eisenhower slipped away from the White House Wednesday night to attend a candlelight service at the National Presbyterian Church.

They heard a brief sermon, received Communion and listened to a Christmas choral program before returning to the executive mansion shortly after midnight.

His holiday was interrupted by receipt of a Christmas message from Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, accepting Western proposals, but suggesting different dates for a summit conference. The note was translated for presentation to Eisenhower, but there was no immediate White House comment.

The White House, closed through New Year's to the usual throngs of visitors, was gaily decorated with 26 Christmas trees. They ranged from little table models to an 18-foot Canadian pine standing in the east ballroom.

A creche, depicting the Nativity Scene in Bethlehem, nestled near the big tree, which was festoond in silver and surrounded by big cones around its base. Tiny Santa Claus figures glistened behind the busts of Jefferson, Washington Franklin and Lincoln.

Poinsttias, wreaths and ribbons trailed from the wall and light fixtures.

The Presidential couple plan to attend church here Sunday and board a plane soon afterward for a year-end holiday at the Augusta, Ga., National Golf Club.

This will permit Eisenhower to rest up after the grind of his world tour, but the White House said the chief executive will be working at Augusta, too, getting set for Congress' return Jan. 6.

He will be putting the finishing touches to the State of the Union Message, the budget for the year beginning next July 1, and his economic report. All three will be submitted to Congress next month.

Criticize Girl For Posing In The Nude

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Stella Stevens, former Memphis State coed turned Hollywood starlet, was criticized by her hometown newspaper Friday for posing nude for a national magazine.

The Memphis Press - Scimitar, in an editorial headed "Stella's mistake," said "we are sorry to see Stella Stevens fall victim to the cruel Press - Agentry of Hollywood."

The pretty blonde Miss Stevens has been in Hollywood for two years. She is featured in her first big movie as the seductive Appassionata Von Climax in "Li'l Abner."

The Press-Scimitar, which supported Miss Stevens in her efforts to obtain Hollywood fame, observed in Friday's Christmas edition:

What a crime it is to persuade hopeful young actresses that they have to pose in the nude for magazines to have successful careers.

"We hope Stella has the force of character to make this mistake the last of the sort. She has the looks and, according to reviews, the talent, to do very well without cheapening herself."

The nude photo, covering three gate-folded pages, shows her in the traditional baby-on-bearskin-rug pose — tummy down, head raised and resting on hand.

Edwin Howard, Press-Scimitar amusements editor who has followed Stella's career in Hollywood, said "it may be noted, however, that Stella makes a rather large baby."

Critic Howard said that actresses who pose in the nude don't cause much of a stir in Hollywood, New York or Paris these days . . .

"But in little old Memphis-on-the - Mississippi, where until a year and a half ago, Stella was a Memphis State co-ed and model —well, you can almost hear the eye-balls popping."

Ike Is Best Equipped Golfer

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Golfer Dwight D. Eisenhower has never been known to smash his putter after a bad shot and vow to quit the game. But he could afford to.

As the most noted of White House linksmen, Eisenhower probably has received golfing gifts galore. Putters for sure.

"He has enough putters to start a pro shop." White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty estimates.

Although Eisenhower hates to muff a stroke, he should rarely have reason to punish his putter. Companions report he's at his best when near or on the greens.

While the golf collection provided by well wishers has not been publicly inventoried, Eisenhower could be the most amply equipped player in the land.

Southern California was especially generous when he visited Palm Springs this fall. For transportation along the fairways, golf clubs in the area presented him a cream - colored electric cart with a fringed canopy. It retails for $1,395. The mayor of Palm Springs greeted him with — here we are again — a putter. This at least was different — gold-plated, no less.

Eisenhower already had a golf course runabout, although not as spiffy. He keeps it on the farm for use at Gettysburg Country Club.

If putting is all the president has in mind, he can stay at home wherever he is. The U. S. Golf Association fitted the back lawn of the White House with a practice green. This is par for the trade. The Professional Golfers Association furnished the front lawn of his Gettysburg estate likewise. And there is still another green at Camp David, the presidential retreat in the Maryland hills.

The Democratic Digest once valued the Gettysburg green at $3,000. The same opposition party publication reported he had a $500 golfmobile at Gettysburg.

Since many gifts are bestowed without ceremony, the donors of sticks, bags, balls, caps or whatnot are often unidentified. They may be host clubs, manufacturers, eager - to - please members of congress, politicians or plain admirers.

A Vineland, N. J., doctor contributed a bunch of golf balls in an apothecary's jar after Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in 1955. The chief executive was advised on the label to "use with discretion whenever weight of workaday problems hang heavy."

Some of the balls that Eisenhower slams 200-plus yards off the tee are stamped "The President."

Newsmen who seldom get to watch him play except on the first tee or the 18th green have seen the President picking his sticks from a red and blue bag. A reminder of Army days, it bears his name in gold and the five stars of a general. It could never be confused with one he received in 1956.

This stirring creation of a Flint, Mich., couple was shaped like the Washington monument. Tooled on the sides were pictures of the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, Unknown Soldier's Tomb, St. John's Episcopal Church of Presidents, the White House, Capitol, Supreme Court building, a map of the United States, the preamble to the Constitution, and Old Glory.

Eisenhower got another bag inscribed "We also like Ike" this fall from Mexican newsmen accompanying their president on a visit here. This was presented at the same dinner when White House correspondents gave Eisenhower a silver duplicate of Calamity Jane, the putter made famous by his Augusta crony, Bobby Jones.

Another historic club, donated by a Detroiter, was made by the late Tom Morris, who won the British Open four times a century ago and was pro at old St. Andrews in Scotland.

David Eisenhower, the President's grandson and pupil, has been a beneficiary, too. Bobby Jones sent David a set of sticks several Christmases ago.

Eisenhowers are not always recipients. The President pulled a switch in 1957 and gave Japanese Prime Minister Kishi a bag of clubs before they played together at nearby Burning Tree. Hagerty, answering the inevitable question, said Eisenhower had paid for the goods out of his own pocket.

Cuba Releases Manager Of Picture Agency

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban army Friday released the manager of a Havana newspicture agency who was seized Thursday while on assignment for United Press International.

Nicholas Ruiz, of the Pan-American News Agency was held more than 24 hours on charges of taking photographs of military installations.

He was seized while photographing the jail where James Buchanan, a reporter for the Miami Herald, had been held for 13 days pending his trial last Tuesday on charges of complicity in the escape of convicted counter-revolutionary Frank Austin Young. Buchanan was tried and sentenced to 14 years imprisonment. Sentence was suspended and he has returned to Florida.

Ruiz had covered the trial of Buchanan at Pinar del Rio.

Joseph A. Taylor, UPI Havana, manager was detained for 2½ hours when he went to Cuban military intelligence headquarters to find out what happened to Ruiz.

Ruiz, who spent the night in the same bunk Buchanan had used, was not permitted to speak to Taylor until he was released.

Southern California was especially generous when he visited Palm Springs this fall. For transportation along the fairways, golf clubs in the area presented him a cream - colored electric cart with a fringed canopy. It retails for $1,395. The mayor of Palm Springs greeted him with — here we are again — a putter. This at least was different — gold-plated, no less.

Eisenhower already had a golf course runabout, although not as spiffy. He keeps it on the farm for use at Gettysburg Country Club.

If putting is all the president has in mind, he can stay at home wherever he is. The U. S. Golf Association fitted the back lawn of the White House with a practice green. This is par for the trade. The Professional Golfers Association furnished the front lawn of his Gettysburg estate likewise. And there is still another green at Camp David, the presidential retreat in the Maryland hills.

The Democratic Digest once valued the Gettysburg green at $3,000. The same opposition party publication reported he had a $500 golfmobile at Gettysburg.

Since many gifts are bestowed without ceremony, the donors of sticks, bags, balls, caps or whatnot are often unidentified. They may be host clubs, manufacturers, eager - to - please members of congress, politicians or plain admirers.

A Vineland, N. J., doctor contributed a bunch of golf balls in an apothecary's jar after Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in 1955. The chief executive was advised on the label to "use with discretion whenever weight of workaday problems hang heavy."

Some of the balls that Eisenhower slams 200-plus yards off the tee are stamped "The President."

Newsmen who seldom get to watch him play except on the first tee or the 18th green have seen the President picking his sticks from a red and blue bag. A reminder of Army days, it bears his name in gold and the five stars of a general. It could never be confused with one he received in 1956.

This stirring creation of a Flint, Mich., couple was shaped like the Washington monument. Tooled on the sides were pictures of the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, Unknown Soldier's Tomb, St. John's Episcopal Church of Presidents, the White House, Capitol, Supreme Court building, a map of the United States, the preamble to the Constitution, and Old Glory.

Eisenhower got another bag inscribed "We also like Ike" this fall from Mexican newsmen accompanying their president on a visit here. This was presented at the same dinner when White House correspondents gave Eisenhower a silver duplicate of Calamity Jane, the putter made famous by his Augusta crony, Bobby Jones.

Another historic club, donated by a Detroiter, was made by the late Tom Morris, who won the British Open four times a century ago and was pro at old St. Andrews in Scotland.

David Eisenhower, the President's grandson and pupil, has been a beneficiary, too. Bobby Jones sent David a set of sticks several Christmases ago.

Eisenhowers are not always recipients. The President pulled a switch in 1957 and gave Japanese Prime Minister Kishi a bag of clubs before they played together at nearby Burning Tree. Hagerty, answering the inevitable question, said Eisenhower had paid for the goods out of his own pocket.

Cuba Releases Manager Of Picture Agency

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban army Friday released the manager of a Havana newspicture agency who was seized Thursday while on assignment for United Press International.

Nicholas Ruiz, of the Pan-American News Agency was held more than 24 hours on charges of taking photographs of military installations.

He was seized while photographing the jail where James Buchanan, a reporter for the Miami Herald, had been held for 13 days pending his trial last Tuesday on charges of complicity in the escape of convicted counter-revolutionary Frank Austin Young. Buchanan was tried and sentenced to 14 years imprisonment. Sentence was suspended and he has returned to Florida.

Ruiz had covered the trial of Buchanan at Pinar del Rio.

Joseph A. Taylor, UPI Havana, manager was detained for 2½ hours when he went to Cuban military intelligence headquarters to find out what happened to Ruiz.

Ruiz, who spent the night in the same bunk Buchanan had used, was not permitted to speak to Taylor until he was released.

Government Hit For Its Expert Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said Friday the government should start tending to its own business, and stop hiring "experts" to do the job.

Virtually every department of government has its own personnel division, he said, but an increasing number are seeking help from management experts outside government and paying for it.

"They're hiring consultants to tell them what to do with their personnel," Gross said. "The government is one of the best customers these business experts have."

Last year, he said, Johns Hopkins University reported receiving 25 million dollars in federal research contracts and grants.

"And you can bet they're cost plus fixed fee contracts," Gross said.

He said the efficiency-promoting organizations hire their "experts" away from the government, "using federal government money to compete for personnel."

Congress itself is infected with the same ailment, Gross said.

"This year Congress proposed to spend 17 million dollars on research and development in the field of coal," he said.

"There would have been a commission with three $20,000-a-year commissioners, 10 scientific and professional employes at $19,000 a year, plus a staff of secretaries and stenographers, office space and furniture—and the government already is studying the coal situation.

"I was pleasantly surprised when President Eisenhower vetoed the bill."

DEAR ABBY

Good For Mothers To Get Away From Home

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have four children and two of them are still in diapers. The oldest just turned five. My husband works a split shift and sleeps most of the time when he's at home.

I am with the children 24 hours a day. I would like to know if I am the only mother who is just about out of her head. The children drive me wild at times. I would like a few hours one day a week to be by myself. To see a movie or just get away from the house.

How do you make a husband understand that you love your children, but you need a little break once in a while? Or am I wrong?

BROWN EYES IN TEARS

DEAR BROWN EYES? You are NOT wrong, so don't compound your problems by feeling guilty. EVERY mother needs "a break" away from her children occasionally. (It's good for the children, too.) If your husband can't take over to give you this necessity, (not "luxury" — necessity) swap an afternoon with a friend, relative or neighbor, and arrange it yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is 74 years old, and believe it or not he still thinks the "grass is greener on the other side of the fence." I am 69. What do you do in a case like this?

SONIA

DEAR SONIA: Don't worry. A man his age could never jump the fence.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle an argument once and for all? Is it considered okay for a girl to put her make-up on and comb her hair at the table? There are four of us who want to know.

DAPHNE, MARGE, NELL AND KATE

DEAR GIRLS: It is "okay" to apply a little lipstick (quickly) while sitting at the table. But powdering the face and combing the hair—never!

Pretty Redhead Finally Cries After Jailing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The pretty redhead had not cried since she was jailed nearly two months ago on charges of murder.

But emotion overcame Carole Tregoff Friday as she observed her 23rd birthday and Christmas in the bleak, gray women's quarters of the Los Angeles jail.

She wept openly when jail officials told her she would not receive birthday nor Christmas cards Friday. It was the jail censor's day off.

The striking former model and receptionist dabbed at her eyes as she first met with reporters, then met briefly with her father and stepmother in the visitors' room.

There was no mention between daughter and parents of the charges she faces, that of slaying the wife of her lover, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42. Finch, too, is charged with the murder of his wife and both are now on trial. He spent a quiet Christmas in his cell, minus the special privilege—as a trusty — awarded Carole.

The visit from her parents was the special privilege.

ONE WEEK LEFT

BIGELOW, Kan. (UPI)—Only one week of life remained Friday for this tiny community nestled in the Blue River Valley, soon to be transformed into a giant lake. The last of Bigelow's residents, who once numbered several hundred, must be gone by New Years Day. Most already have complied with the deadline set by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, builders of the multi-million dollar Tuttle creek Dam—conceived to protect the rich Kay Valley, and richer Kansas City industrial districts, from flood. Bigelow's death will end a life span of 79 years. The town was born with the establishment of a rock quarry nearby, in 1881.

Airliner Loses Race With Gun

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Pan American jet airliner raced the sun in a record-setting flight across the Atlantic Friday and lost by only one hour and 21 minutes.

Pan Am said its Boeing 707 Intercontinental jet clipper took off from London at 6:06 a.m. e.s.t. and landed at New York's International Airport at 12:27 p.m. e.s.t., bettering by 24 minutes the previous transatlantic commercial flight record set by a Pan Am jet last May 10.

Guards Become Pickets

Shame was cast upon Minnesota national guardsmen when they were required to take the place of labor union pickets in preventing workers from entering the Wilson Packing Company plant at Albert Lea, Minn.

Commenting on a situation which struck directly at the heart of free enterprise, as he gestured at the bayonet-bearing guardsmen, a union man said:

"It makes a beautiful picket line, doesn't it?"

This man was absolutely right when he said the guardsmen were being deployed in such a way as to promote union objectives.

An outbreak of union terriorism seemed to make it imperative that Governor Orville Freeman take drastic action.

Non - strikers attempting to leave the strike-torn packing plant were set upon by union pickets. According to Associated Press dispatches, "a thousand massed pickets blocked non-union workers from leaving the plant, overturned cars and hurled rocks. Three or four persons were injured. During the previous day non-union workmen had to run through a rain of rocks both going to work in the morning and going home at night."

Governor Freeman's decision to send in the guardsmen may have been justified as a means of preserving order but his simultaneous decision to close the plant constituted action designed to favor the law violators, rather than the non-violators. So far as has been shown, the owners of the plant had violated no law and there was no reason to take punitive action against them. Neither had there been any law violatons by the men who wished to continue working. Only those who attacked the workers were violating the law.

Under ordinary law-enforcement procedure, the only person to be restrained or punished should have been the law-violators. In this case, the non-violating plant, the non-violating workers and the non-violating public were punished, while the state's national guardsmen joined forces with the strikers.

Minnesota's governor should be as much ashamed of his misuse of the troops as of the violence itself. The guardsmen should have been used only to preserve order—not to close the plant.

The guardsmen did make a "beautiful picket line" in the eyes of the union because they accomplished what the mass picket line had set up to accomplish—to keep those who wanted to work from working and to keep the plant from operating unless it met union terms.

It is the duty of government to protect individuals in the peaceful pursuit of their livelihood and to protect property of the owners. When public officials fail to do this they violate their oaths of office. In both respects, in the packing company case in Minnesota, local and state officials not only failed to do this but acted against the interests of the company. Use of national guardsmen would not have been needed if local officials had taken the proper steps to preserve order.

It may be that this sort of favoritism for union bosses in the northern and midwestern states is what is driving business firms into the south.

The right to work, which is guaranteed in most southern states, is a constitutional right that all Americans should enjoy.

They won't be able to do this, however, until congress curbs the massive power of interstate monopoly unionism.

Even in a presidential election year, when politicians have an eye on the power of the union bosses, congress may not be able to ignore public demand for a real labor reform law.

Europe's Trade Disputes

One of the issues concerning President Eisenhower's visit abroad has been the hope for settlement of increasing tensions between western Europe's trade blocs.

Since the end of World War II, two trade associations have built up, one led by France and West Germany and the other by Great Britain. The former is called the six-nation Common Market and the latter is the seven-nation Free Trade Association.

At first, the common market system seemed to be a solution to a problem which had worked to Europe's disadvantage for over two centuries. During the era of colonial expansion, treasuries were full or empty and wars were fought over trade areas and the nations which could gain and maintain control over them.

The working out of common markets for two or more European countries — throwing historical enemies as Germany and France into the same unions—was a new twist indeed.

With these plans in effect for more than a decade now and with European recovery from the war years on the upswing, the commercial rivalry could develop into an all-out trade war similar to the old national conflicts.

The United States is concerned chiefly because of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance. If the two European trade camps become too far apart, there is always the chance that life-and-death economic struggle will lead to military conflict. And with Russia already entrenched in Eastern Europe, this would only assist her march to the European Atlantic coast.

The "big four" of NATO--Chancellor Adenauer of Germany, President De Gaulle of France, Prime Minister Macmillan of England and President Eisenhower, all agree that there must be some plan to curtail western economic rivalry in order to combat a Soviet-led economic and propaganda offensive now building up for the 1960's.

But the details of solving the various differences within the two economic camps cannot be worked out in one sitting. A special negotiating committee was set up at Paris early this week which will meet and make recommendations to an economic cooperation session slated for January 13 .

The negotiating group is made up of France, Germany Belgium and Italy for the Common Market, and Great Britian, Denmark, Portugal and Switzerland for the Free Trade Association. Holland and Sweden representing the "6" and "7" group respectively will alternate at sessions of the group and Greece, Canada and the United States will also sit in.

Along broad lines, the group headed by England extends from Sweden around to Portugal--all seafaring nations--while that headed by West Germany and France comprises a continental bloc., Again, the traditional "balance of power" arrangement bears the British stamp.

It has fallen to the United States to constantly remain both "blocs" that they must combine their economic weight in order to maintain some sort of "balance" with Soviet Russia and the east-European satellites.

Wildlife experts at Virginia Tech tell hunters to judge the age of a squirrel by looking at the flattened underside of its tail.

Bone showing one-third of the way up the tail means the squirrel is less than six months old and much more tender for stewing. The adult squirrel has a bushier tail.

When state police opened the door of a car near a Central Vermont Railway crossing, the driver toppled out. He told police he had been deer hunting all day and fell asleep while waiting for a freight train to pass.

Lagging In Space Race

Will Set Stage For Red - Hot Election Year Oratory When Congress Reconvenes Next Month

WASHINGTON — America's lagging position in the space race will set the stage for red-hot election year oratory when congress re-convenes next month.

Already, the Democrats are blaming the Republican administration for the ineffective way in which the United States is trying to take the space lead away from the Russians. And the Republicans are chipping away at the Democratic - controlled congress for not letting the administration run the space show the way it knows best.

Congressional investigations will pop out all over Capitol Hill and both parties will try to write a record designed to sway the thinking of the 1960 presidential voter. None of this may help launch a single American missile but the voter will be bombarded with a hundred and one reasons why the blame should be placed on this or that party.

The first investigation is scheduled to get off the congressional launching pad on the day congress resumes business — Jan. 6. Rep. Overton Brooks, Dem.-La., chairman of the house committee on science and astronautics, is planning a month - long series of hearings to investigate all aspects of both the civilian and military space programs.

Hearings haven't been ordered on the senate side but a major speech here last week by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas leaves little doubt of what to expect from that body. Johnson, who is also chairman of the senate committee on aeronautical and space sciences, threatened to take the space program out of President Eisenhower's hands and let congress take charge if missile failures persist.

The congressional investigations won't end there. The appropriations committees of both houses will make sweeping reviews of the space program to determine if enough money is being spent and if that money is being spent wisely.

For example, the house military operations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chet Holifield, Dem. - Calif., has indicated it will look into the transfer of the Army ballistic missile agency to the national aeronautics and space administration. It may even go further and investigate the over - all military role in space and its relationship to the civilian space agency.

A wide range of questions will be asked and many of them demand answers. Here are a few:

1. Is the administration providing the proper leadership to help this country catch up with Soviet Russia in the missile race?

2. Should the military and civilian space programs be brought under a single agency similar to the atomic energy commission?

3. How much money is really necessary to give the United States a space program capable of matching that of the Russians?

4. Is our space program bogged down in too much red tape, resulting in costly duplications of effort?

Unfortunately, the United States, unlike Russia, is made to look bad in the eyes of the world every time it has a missile fizzle. That is one of the prices we must pay for a free press. The Soviets grab the big headlines only when they achieve some new success in outer space; nothing is mentioned when they fail. This country, on the other hand, reveals all and so the box - score is nothing to boast about.

In this same vein, the timing of our space shots leaves something to be desired. We seem to have our failures at the most unpropitious times. During Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States we fired a dud at Cape Canaveral. And we did it again during President Eisenhower's global good - will tour.

The United States was pinning a lot of its hopes on "Project Saturn" — development of a rocket engine with a thrust of 1½ million pounds. The time - table called for a static firing this month but now that has been called off. Latest word is that it has been postponed until spring.

This, of course, is disturbing, to say the least. While we have no evidence the Russians have already developed a rocket engine of this type we can certainly assume they must have one approaching it. For how else would they have taken pictures of the back side of the moon?

Housewives Riled

Join With Federal Government Against Deceptive Practices

(Sylvia Porter is on vacation)

The consumer can feel more secure because the battle with the unscrupulous operator has been joined.

Throughout the nation, aroused housewives are united with government in a massive counterattack on deceptive practices.

The unconscionable promoters, like carriers of an epidemic, respect no state lines. Driven from one state they implant themselves in another, victimize rich and poor and reap harvests before they are exposed and prosecuted.

There are many fronts to this battle and the forces of decency and ethical business conduct have many allies. The following story may show you how you can do a tremendous amount to help safeguard yourself and your neighbors against the racketeers.

Within a few weeks after the establishment of the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection in my office — perhaps the first of its kind in any state — housewives enlisted in an all-out war against fraud.

Today, a Committee of 100 Housewives, with representatives in every one of New York State's 62 counties, functions as the "eyes and ears" of the Bureau.

Is an outmoded refrigerator or one with rebuilt parts labeled as "new" being sold?

Is a salesman, dealer or merchant misrepresenting merchandise?

The vigilant members of the Committee of 100 Housewives channel the information to us for investigation and action. That is "preventive" action of the highest order.

In addition, the Committee — all members serve without pay—carries on a consumer education program.

The housewives are backed up by an Advisory Board on Consumer Problems which helps us draft measures to protect the consumer and legitimate businessman. The Board comprises representatives of business, labor, industry, women's clubs, Better Business Bureaus, trade organizations, newspapers and financial institutions.

The attorneys general in many other states have created similar watchdog consumer units.

On the national scene, the frauds section of the United States Attorney General's office, the Postal Inspection Service and the Federal Trade Commission are intensifying their endless war against frauds.

The National Association of Attorneys General has named me to head a committee on the problem of consumer frauds and protection.

Finally, we are on the verge of establishing a national clearing house of information concerning unscrupulous operators.

The Department of Justice is considering a conference of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies to plan establishment of such a national clearing house of information.

The agency would function in a manner similar to the FBI which documents the identity and modus operandi of criminals. It would provide full dossiers on those guilty of questionable practices and frauds.

The battle against deceptive practices and outright fraud in the sales of goods and services has now been joined on the local, state and national levels.

An alert and informed public is our most effective weapon in the campaign to uphold the integrity of American business.

"Buying Guide" for Consumers:

DON'T accept an oral agreement. Get it in writing. Make sure you understand what the agreement says and that it protects you fully.

Be sure that installations of appliances and such furnishings as carpeting are guaranteed by a dealer, because a manufacturer can claim that a product's warranty has been voided if it has not been installed properly.

DON'T be misled by the dealer who lures you to his establishment with an attractive advertisement of a standard brand item and then tries to talk you into a higher priced off-brand article Beware of the story that he is all out of the advertised item, or that there will be a long wait for delivery, or that what he now is trying to sell you is better than the advertised article.

Wrong On Castro

Year Ago Americans Rapped Batista Who Favored Capitalism

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "Whatever happened to that upper-brow, two-party politico-intellectual attitude that believed the foreigner-is-always right?" demanded the Returning Traveler, who'd been away from America for a while.

Well, maybe the Returning Traveler, having executed what Historian Toynbee calls a withdrawal - and -return, was seeing things that to the rest of us . . .;

"How could it be any plainer?" retorted the Returning Traveler. "This time last year it was all the style to hate Batista, the pro-American dictator of Cuba, and to whoop it up for Fidel Castro who was destined to become a full-time Liberator by New Year's Day 1959. In those high-toned, opinion - making newspapers, it didn't help Batista's case a bit for him to be on the side of capitalism and of the realities which force USA to dominate the Western Hemisphere. Although there were some honest doubts about Castro, he got a great press and a lionized visit to the USA, despite the fact that he was changing a system which has always worked best for our side."

Yes, it's true this time in 1958 Castro benefitted from a foreigner-can-do-no-wrong assumption and Batista wasn't given any credit for resisting a small country's natural temptation to socialize American holdings, humiliate American tourists and tweak (knowing it was safe to do so) Uncle Sam's nose. Times have changed, come to think of it, in the past year.

"They've changed much more profoundly than is easy to detect," said the Returning Traveler. "Earlier this month Gen. Nathan Twining, our head military man, went to Paris and called NATO what many of us have known it to be — a military boondoggle on American money. Here's a 15-nation alliance which has been in existence for about a decade, under our very best American commanders, yet 14 of those nations have been letting Uncle do it. The NATO force hasn't got the muscle to stop a delegation from the Army-Navy Club. But nobody in an official position has ever said so — until now."

Well, the Returning Traveler had something there. A couple of years ago when the Sputniks flew, the same Americans who later cheered Castro were saying that our scientists weren't really any good, and that those foreign scientists in the NATO countries were our only salvation. You'll recall that President Eisenhower, who'd had a small stroke, got out of bed and went to Paris to enlist some brains for our side. But to the extent that any country has challenged Russia in Space, it's been the USA.

"There were days when everything across the water looked better than anything at home," agreed the Returning Traveler. "In this year's NATO meeting, there's been quite a switch. Instead of our begging the allies not to desert us, they're begging us not to cut the money and manpower."

It's a situation where the USA could assert some new leadership in the grand alliance of the Free World. Instead of apologizing for being so big and strong and rich. .

"That's what I'm coming to," insisted the Returning Traveler. "We are neither so rich nor so apologetic as we used to be. All of a sudden Uncle Sam is telling large and small allies that everybody must help contribute to the underdeveloped regions. He is demanding that our military allies pay more of their share in the common defense. He is insisting very strongly that Reciprocal Trade Treaties must work both ways. All this has happened during 1959. It's a perfectly astonishing change in American thinking."

A switch to the idea that you can't blame everything on American isolationism, protectionism, capitalism? A junking of the over-intellectualized hockum that practically everybody is brighter, braver and more deserving than us? A debunking of the foreign policy assumption that the foreigner-can-do-no wrong?

"Something like that," said the Returning Traveler. "And — as a hope for 1960 — maybe a much stronger, more assertive leadership of the half of the world called Free."

Killings By Autos

Magazine Article On Slaughter May Slow Down Speeders

When I rode ambulance years ago, and when I worked in the hospital emergency room I had a front row seat: I saw how auto accidents maimed and killed.

I saw the bashed in skulls, the broken arms and legs, the disfigured faces of young girls. Time has not remedied the awful slaughter.

Car accidents kill over 40,000 Americans every year and injure a million or more. Many who recover, remain in wheelchairs or in their beds for the rest of their remorseful existence.

Readers of this column know of my opinion about car accidents. But in this case, repetition is beneficial. We must not forget. Your car — and the other fellow's car — are potentially deadly missiles. Unless you are always careful, they may blow up in your face and ruin you for life.

Why do I belabor the point today? I have been reading my newspaper. I have learned of the death, in a needless accident, of a father, mother and their four children. And another item tells of two high school boys instantly killed and their teen - age girls maimed. And another item, and another, and another.

When will it stop? What can we do? What can I, as a doctor, suggest?

At other times I have given what I thought were sensible and constructive suggestions. But the accidents keep happening. Therefore, I have thought up something so ridiculous that it seems too silly to mention. Yet it's worth a try.

Here it is, in two parts: 1. — I beg every reader to ask for a reprint of an article that was published in Reader's Digest in August, 1935. It was written by J. C. Furnas and called: —"And Sudden Death."

Try to get it at your library, or see if you can get it from Reader's Digest. I believe it is one of the greatest articles ever written. Read it and see if you don't agree.

It will do more to prevent an accident and save your life than anything I know. It is a vivid description of the horrors of road tragedies.

The only trouble is that we are human. We tend to forget. When the impact of this article fades, we become careless drivers again.

Therefore, here comes the "silly" part of my solution: 2. — Auto manufacturers ought to put parts of the Furnas article on a record; connect it with the starting button.

Every third or fourth time you get into your car to drive away, the record will play — but the car won't start. Not until the record has had its say will the ignition function.

In this way we'll beat into our very unconscious the lesson of "safety in driving." In this way we'll save life and limb. Silly? Of course. But it's only a dream.

But the Furnas article isn't a dream. It's reality — and how! Get it. You may have trouble finding it. But try, try again.

It may be a matter of life and death, you know. Yours? Mine?

RESTLESSNESS

Mr. I. L. J., of Canada writes: "I wish there were a pill for restlessness. I'm a perfectly healthy fellow — but I just can't sit and relax like other people. I have to keep moving. I used to love to read. Now I can't stay put long enough to finish a dozen pages."

COMMENT: I have just come across this expression: Some people are as "restless as a windshield wiper." Does that describe you? Always on the move, even though you may not be going anywhere in particular?

You have lots of company. I have known many patients like you. But not all were perfectly healthy.

Has your doctor recently given you an O.K. on your health, or are you guessing?

Daily Devotional

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart — Luke 2:19.

After giving and receiving presents, attending church services and pageants, hearing choral music, and then clearing away tinsel, ribbons, wrappings and the Christmas tree — the one thing to keep in mind is the real reason for the coming of Christ and to take this truth as a guiding star. There was, at the birth of Christ, you will recall, a multitude of the Heavenly host praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in th ehighest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." Peace should be the goal for the days ahead.

God, our Father, help us to accept the peace, security and fellowship offered us through the risen Lord. In His holy name we pray. Amen.

Guards Become Pickets

Shame was cast upon Minnesota national guardsmen when they were required to take the place of labor union pickets in preventing workers from entering the Wilson Packing Company plant at Albert Lea, Minn.

Commenting on a situation which struck directly at the heart of free enterprise, as he gestured at the bayonet-bearing guardsmen, a union man said:

"It makes a beautiful picket line, doesn't it?"

This man was absolutely right when he said the guardsmen were being deployed in such a way as to promote union objectives.

An outbreak of union terriorism seemed to make it imperative that Governor Orville Freeman take drastic action.

Non - strikers attempting to leave the strike-torn packing plant were set upon by union pickets. According to Associated Press dispatches, "a thousand massed pickets blocked non-union workers from leaving the plant, overturned cars and hurled rocks. Three or four persons were injured. During the previous day non-union workmen had to run through a rain of rocks both going to work in the morning and going home at night."

Governor Freeman's decision to send in the guardsmen may have been justified as a means of preserving order but his simultaneous decision to close the plant constituted action designed to favor the law violators, rather than the non-violators. So far as has been shown, the owners of the plant had violated no law and there was no reason to take punitive action against them. Neither had there been any law violatons by the men who wished to continue working. Only those who attacked the workers were violating the law.

Under ordinary law-enforcement procedure, the only person to be restrained or punished should have been the law-violators. In this case, the non-violating plant, the non-violating workers and the non-violating public were punished, while the state's national guardsmen joined forces with the strikers.

Minnesota's governor should be as much ashamed of his misuse of the troops as of the violence itself. The guardsmen should have been used only to preserve order—not to close the plant.

The guardsmen did make a "beautiful picket line" in the eyes of the union because they accomplished what the mass picket line had set up to accomplish—to keep those who wanted to work from working and to keep the plant from operating unless it met union terms.

It is the duty of government to protect individuals in the peaceful pursuit of their livelihood and to protect property of the owners. When public officials fail to do this they violate their oaths of office. In both respects, in the packing company case in Minnesota, local and state officials not only failed to do this but acted against the interests of the company. Use of national guardsmen would not have been needed if local officials had taken the proper steps to preserve order.

It may be that this sort of favoritism for union bosses in the northern and midwestern states is what is driving business firms into the south.

The right to work, which is guaranteed in most southern states, is a constitutional right that all Americans should enjoy.

They won't be able to do this, however, until congress curbs the massive power of interstate monopoly unionism.

Even in a presidential election year, when politicians have an eye on the power of the union bosses, congress may not be able to ignore public demand for a real labor reform law.

Europe's Trade Disputes

One of the issues concerning President Eisenhower's visit abroad has been the hope for settlement of increasing tensions between western Europe's trade blocs.

Since the end of World War II, two trade associations have built up, one led by France and West Germany and the other by Great Britain. The former is called the six-nation Common Market and the latter is the seven-nation Free Trade Association.

At first, the common market system seemed to be a solution to a problem which had worked to Europe's disadvantage for over two centuries. During the era of colonial expansion, treasuries were full or empty and wars were fought over trade areas and the nations which could gain and maintain control over them.

The working out of common markets for two or more European countries — throwing historical enemies as Germany and France into the same unions—was a new twist indeed.

With these plans in effect for more than a decade now and with European recovery from the war years on the upswing, the commercial rivalry could develop into an all-out trade war similar to the old national conflicts.

The United States is concerned chiefly because of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance. If the two European trade camps become too far apart, there is always the chance that life-and-death economic struggle will lead to military conflict. And with Russia already entrenched in Eastern Europe, this would only assist her march to the European Atlantic coast.

The "big four" of NATO--Chancellor Adenauer of Germany, President De Gaulle of France, Prime Minister Macmillan of England and President Eisenhower, all agree that there must be some plan to curtail western economic rivalry in order to combat a Soviet-led economic and propaganda offensive now building up for the 1960's.

But the details of solving the various differences within the two economic camps cannot be worked out in one sitting. A special negotiating committee was set up at Paris early this week which will meet and make recommendations to an economic cooperation session slated for January 13 .

The negotiating group is made up of France, Germany Belgium and Italy for the Common Market, and Great Britian, Denmark, Portugal and Switzerland for the Free Trade Association. Holland and Sweden representing the "6" and "7" group respectively will alternate at sessions of the group and Greece, Canada and the United States will also sit in.

Along broad lines, the group headed by England extends from Sweden around to Portugal--all seafaring nations--while that headed by West Germany and France comprises a continental bloc., Again, the traditional "balance of power" arrangement bears the British stamp.

It has fallen to the United States to constantly remain both "blocs" that they must combine their economic weight in order to maintain some sort of "balance" with Soviet Russia and the east-European satellites.

Wildlife experts at Virginia Tech tell hunters to judge the age of a squirrel by looking at the flattened underside of its tail.

Bone showing one-third of the way up the tail means the squirrel is less than six months old and much more tender for stewing. The adult squirrel has a bushier tail.

When state police opened the door of a car near a Central Vermont Railway crossing, the driver toppled out. He told police he had been deer hunting all day and fell asleep while waiting for a freight train to pass.

Lagging In Space Race

Will Set Stage For Red - Hot Election Year Oratory When Congress Reconvenes Next Month

WASHINGTON — America's lagging position in the space race will set the stage for red-hot election year oratory when congress re-convenes next month.

Already, the Democrats are blaming the Republican administration for the ineffective way in which the United States is trying to take the space lead away from the Russians. And the Republicans are chipping away at the Democratic - controlled congress for not letting the administration run the space show the way it knows best.

Congressional investigations will pop out all over Capitol Hill and both parties will try to write a record designed to sway the thinking of the 1960 presidential voter. None of this may help launch a single American missile but the voter will be bombarded with a hundred and one reasons why the blame should be placed on this or that party.

The first investigation is scheduled to get off the congressional launching pad on the day congress resumes business — Jan. 6. Rep. Overton Brooks, Dem.-La., chairman of the house committee on science and astronautics, is planning a month - long series of hearings to investigate all aspects of both the civilian and military space programs.

Hearings haven't been ordered on the senate side but a major speech here last week by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas leaves little doubt of what to expect from that body. Johnson, who is also chairman of the senate committee on aeronautical and space sciences, threatened to take the space program out of President Eisenhower's hands and let congress take charge if missile failures persist.

The congressional investigations won't end there. The appropriations committees of both houses will make sweeping reviews of the space program to determine if enough money is being spent and if that money is being spent wisely.

For example, the house military operations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chet Holifield, Dem. - Calif., has indicated it will look into the transfer of the Army ballistic missile agency to the national aeronautics and space administration. It may even go further and investigate the over - all military role in space and its relationship to the civilian space agency.

A wide range of questions will be asked and many of them demand answers. Here are a few:

1. Is the administration providing the proper leadership to help this country catch up with Soviet Russia in the missile race?

2. Should the military and civilian space programs be brought under a single agency similar to the atomic energy commission?

3. How much money is really necessary to give the United States a space program capable of matching that of the Russians?

4. Is our space program bogged down in too much red tape, resulting in costly duplications of effort?

Unfortunately, the United States, unlike Russia, is made to look bad in the eyes of the world every time it has a missile fizzle. That is one of the prices we must pay for a free press. The Soviets grab the big headlines only when they achieve some new success in outer space; nothing is mentioned when they fail. This country, on the other hand, reveals all and so the box - score is nothing to boast about.

In this same vein, the timing of our space shots leaves something to be desired. We seem to have our failures at the most unpropitious times. During Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States we fired a dud at Cape Canaveral. And we did it again during President Eisenhower's global good - will tour.

The United States was pinning a lot of its hopes on "Project Saturn" — development of a rocket engine with a thrust of 1½ million pounds. The time - table called for a static firing this month but now that has been called off. Latest word is that it has been postponed until spring.

When will it stop? What can we do? What can I, as a doctor, suggest?

At other times I have given what I thought were sensible and constructive suggestions. But the accidents keep happening. Therefore, I have thought up something so ridiculous that it seems too silly to mention. Yet it's worth a try.

Here it is, in two parts: 1. — I beg every reader to ask for a reprint of an article that was published in Reader's Digest in August, 1935. It was written by J. C. Furnas and called: —"And Sudden Death."

Try to get it at your library, or see if you can get it from Reader's Digest. I believe it is one of the greatest articles ever written. Read it and see if you don't agree.

It will do more to prevent an accident and save your life than anything I know. It is a vivid description of the horrors of road tragedies.

The only trouble is that we are human. We tend to forget. When the impact of this article fades, we become careless drivers again.

Therefore, here comes the "silly" part of my solution: 2. — Auto manufacturers ought to put parts of the Furnas article on a record; connect it with the starting button.

Every third or fourth time you get into your car to drive away, the record will play — but the car won't start. Not until the record has had its say will the ignition function.

In this way we'll beat into our very unconscious the lesson of "safety in driving." In this way we'll save life and limb. Silly? Of course. But it's only a dream.

But the Furnas article isn't a dream. It's reality — and how! Get it. You may have trouble finding it. But try, try again.

It may be a matter of life and death, you know. Yours? Mine?

RESTLESSNESS

Mr. I. L. J., of Canada writes: "I wish there were a pill for restlessness. I'm a perfectly healthy fellow — but I just can't sit and relax like other people. I have to keep moving. I used to love to read. Now I can't stay put long enough to finish a dozen pages."

COMMENT: I have just come across this expression: Some people are as "restless as a windshield wiper." Does that describe you? Always on the move, even though you may not be going anywhere in particular?

You have lots of company. I have known many patients like you. But not all were perfectly healthy.

Has your doctor recently given you an O.K. on your health, or are you guessing?

Daily Devotional

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart — Luke 2:19.

After giving and receiving presents, attending church services and pageants, hearing choral music, and then clearing away tinsel, ribbons, wrappings and the Christmas tree — the one thing to keep in mind is the real reason for the coming of Christ and to take this truth as a guiding star. There was, at the birth of Christ, you will recall, a multitude of the Heavenly host praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in th ehighest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." Peace should be the goal for the days ahead.

God, our Father, help us to accept the peace, security and fellowship offered us through the risen Lord. In His holy name we pray. Amen.

Tough Policy By Revenue Service Set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is getting set to announce a tougher policy on tax deductions for "business expenses" that actually may be more in the line of monkey business.

Informed sources said Friday that there was a good chance the service will go so far as to include new questions on corporate tax returns asking for information about the deductions a firm claims as "ordinary and necessary" business expenses.

No change would be made in the tax forms filed by some 60-million individual taxpayers.

The new questions would go on next year's corporate forms, not this year's. An announcement of IRS action may be forthcoming next week. This would give companies a full year's notice of the scrutiny due to come on the returns they file in 1961.

Highly placed Revenue Service sources acknowledged that the "get tough" decision was in large part inspired by pressures from congressmen.

Several have told Tax Commissioner Dana Latham they don't know how to answer letters from voters who complain about people who live it up on business expense accounts.

More than 100,000 corporations have net incomes of $25,000 or more and are taxed at the maximum corporate rate of 52 per cent. For them, every dollar of allowed deductions means a savings of 52 cents on their tax bills.

Officials believe recent congressional hearings into tax deductions for lavish trips, fancy night club parties and maintenance of plush hunting lodges have stirred up public opinion. Businessmen defend these practices as being forced on them by competitors or as being expected by customers.

Internal Revenue sources said Latham wants his agents to take a dimmer view when corporations present such outlays as "ordinary and necessary" and therefore tax deductible expenses.

But the tax chief is reported unsure how tough he can get. He has said that he believes the government should collect every cent of tax due it without turning the IRS into a group of hated snoopers.

But Lathan, other administration leaders and key congressmen believe there are many tax dodges, loopholes and evasions that must be eliminated.

Many come in the business area. For example, a firm may send a hard working vice presidetn to a convention. The vice president leaves a week before the convention opens and returns a week after it ends after he and his family wind up their stay at a luxury hotel or a beach cabana.

Tax officials say that the Vice President is getting indirect income which should be taxed, but usually isn't.

One thing reported to be delaying a decision to put the new questions on the corporate return is the memory of the furor kicked up two years ago when the IRS launched — and then dropped — a crackdown on individuals' expense accounts.

The IRS said everyone had to account to the IRS for all business expenses, including those paid for by an employer. Public reaction to the idea of keeping records on 50-cent and two-dollar outlays for the boss was so hostile that the proposal was whittled down to the present rule: employes who account to their employers for their expense accounts need not give a reckoning to the government.

Dampness In Evidence Over Most Of U. S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

About the only ray of sunshine was in the Christmas spirit itself as dampness covered most of the nation Friday.

Rain pelted parts of the Pacific Northwest and Southern California, and spread into most of the Rocky Mountain states. Heavy snow swept some mountain areas. Drizzle was scatered overother plains states and into the mid-Gulf states.

Only the extreme southern part of the country escaped the chill, with temperatures in the 60s and 70s in southern Florida, Texas and California. From the Atlantic into the Rocky Mountain states, readings in the 20s and 30s were common.

Except for the mountainous regions, the white Christmas was gradually disappearing in a melting trend. But drizzle was beginning to freeze in some sections, especially in Wisconsin, making driving hazardous.

Colder weather was predicted for Saturday from the Rockies to the northern half of the plains, bringing scattered snow. Warm air from the south was expected to fan into most of the Atlantic coast states.

CHRISTMAS IN JAIL

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 27-year-old truck driver spent Christmas in jail Friday because he refused to surrender his 2-year-old son to his estranged wife. James E. Card was jailed last week for contempt of court when he refused to disclose where he had hidden his son, James Sidney, who had been placed in legal custody of his mother. Card said he would reveal the child's whereabouts only if the court agreed to place him in a neutral home. The boy was believed staying with relatives.

Steelworkers Petition Set To Be Heard

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A hearing on a petition by the United Steelworkers demanding a pay boost under a cost-of-living escalator clause will be held here Jan. 4.

The union Thursday asked the U.S. District Court here to order 95 steel companies to increase wages four cents an hour as provided by the clause in contracts which expired last June 30.

Arguments will be heard by Judge Herbert P. Sorg, who issued a Taft-Hartley injunction that that sent the striking steelworkers back to work last Nov. 7 following a support ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The injunction marked the start of an 80-day cooling-off period.

The petition said Sorg's order provided that terms of the previous agreement should prevail during the truce period.

Traffic Toll Runs Above '58 Christmas

tion were marshalled to help hold down accidents, mindful of the record traffic toll of 706 during the 1956 four-day observance.

That was an all-time traffic fatality record for any holiday. Also a high record for any holiday was the toll of 884 deaths from accidents of all types during the 1956 Christmas period.

Khrushchev Agrees To Summit Meet

might conflict with De Gaulle's plans to visit the United States and Canada about April 17 or 19. A spokesman said the conference probably would have to be put off until sometime in May.

Other dates crowding the summit calendar are a visit by Khrushchev to Paris for two weeks beginning March 15. De Gaulle will be in Britain April 5-8. A short Western summit is planned in Paris just before the East-West top-level talks.

Both the British and French said, however, they believe the technicalities can be worked out, and that they are happy that Khrushchev has agreed to Paris as the meeting place. The British said they are glad he has agreed by implication to a series of summit conferences.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko summoned the British, French, and American ambassadors from their Christmas Day firesides just before noon and handed them Khrushchev's one-page letters to their chiefs.

Gromyko also called foreign newsmen from their Christmas observances for a news conference to tell them about the letters.

Some Western circles said the Western world's greatest holiday probably was chosen for the delivery to underscore that April 27 would conflict with the May 1 holiday, one of the biggest celebrations in the Communist world.

On that occasion, Khrushchev would expect to be on hand to review a giant parade through Red Square. The Communists observe May 1 as an international workers day.

Americans were reminded, too, that Khrushchev chose another American holiday, Thanksgiving, 1958, to announce that six months was long enough to settle the status of Berlin. Thus he brought on a crisis leading to the present negotiations for a summit conference. Khrushchev later modified the ultimatum-like aspects of his declarations.

Whrushchev's letters to Eisenhower, Macmillan and De Gaulle, all similar, were cordial.

To Eisenhower, he said he had found "profound satisfaction" in the fact the three Western leaders "consider it desirable that, with a view to discussing the major international problems, summit meetings should be held from time to time in countries which are parties to such conferences."

The Western leaders had suggested that after a Paris meeting, a succession of summit conferences might be held in Washington, London and Moscow.

The Soviet government, Khrushchev said, "can only welcome such a declaration" because it believes "it is in this very way, by means of personal meetings between statesmen at the highest level, that urgent international problems can be solved most effectively."

He then expressed readiness to meet in Paris but suggested other dates than April 27.

"I hope, Mr. President, that these considerations will be acceptable to you," he concluded.

Khrushchev made no mention of Western proposals that a summit talk be confined to the four big powers. Apparently he left the question of invitations to East and West Germany, Red China and India — all of whom the Soviet Union has suggested be included — to the future, perhaps at the time a conference convenes.

France Sends Reinforcements To Martinique

station and police headquarters.

Two persons died that night and several policemen were injured.

Violence continued Tuesday, with one more person killed and at least a dozen injured.

The official communique said that order had been restored by Friday. The state-controlled radio in Fort DeFrance continued to broadcast frequent appeals for calm Friday and reports from there said shots were heard in that town Thursday night.

The authorities also have disbanded the "Association of Veterans from North Africa," a group believed to have played a leading role in the riots. It is made up of civil servants who have served in North Africa, and had been against any revision in Martinique's status.

The island technically is a department of France. Recently, the Communist Party and other groups have been demanding a change of status. They want autonomy. Not necessarily independence, for Martinique. Their demands have been emboldened by President Charles de Gaulle's drive to give extensive self-rule to all former colonial possessions.

marshal's office, said Allen would be given a hearing on the arson charge Monday.

"Evidently, his mind was befuddled after his boy died," Zirkle said. "We've heard all kinds of stories about this thing. The father said his son told him the two other boys burned him. Some of the neighbors said the boy set himself on fire. There is nothing definite now. We will have to wait for the hearing."

Allen, who has one other child, was held without bail pending the hearing.

Fishing Boat Goes Down Off Grand Isle

from the scene said the stricken crewman appeared unconscious or dead in the water.

The boat was identified as the Joan of Arc. Its home port and the identity of its crew were not immediately known, the Coast Guard said.

The fishing vessel ran into trouble when it hit the back wash of a storm west of the Mississippi River delta.

The Coast Guard said its skipper evidently tried to beach the craft near Grand Isle, located due south of New Orleans. But huge waves broke up the vessel.

One crewman made it to the beach and hitchhiked 10 miles to the CG Life Boat station at Grand Isle.

An attempt to reach the stricken crewman, spotted floating near the sinking boat, failed.

Engineman Robert Chambers tried to get through heavy swells in a life raft. But the raft capsized and he just did scramble back to the patrol boat.

Coast Guardsmen tried to launch a 16-foot outboard patrol boat from the beach. Roaring waves pounded the men back.

A Coast Guard helicopter took off from New Orleans Calendar Field and swept over the scene. It tried to drop a man in a basket lift for a daring rescue. But the Coast Guard said the sea made the attempt too hazardous.

Coast Guardsmen were making another effort to launch the outboard boat from the beach.

Christmas Leaves Hope For World

the British Embassy in Moscow with a midnight Mass.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, which rarely mentions religious events, said special Christmas services were heavily attended in all Roman Catholic churches throughout the Soviet Union and that special services were held in all of Latvia's Evangelical-Lutheran churches. Evangelical-Lutheran archbishop Gustav Turs in that republic of the U.S.S.R. issued a message emphasizing that Christmas is a festival of peace, Tass reported. The Orthodox Church celebrates Christmas on Jan. 6, and New Year's Day is the traditional time for Russians to exchange gifts.

Poland's Communist press fell in step with the country's ardent Christmas spirit, printing traditional holiday - greetings to its readers. In Communist Yugoslavia, however, business proceeded as usual.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, her family, and a small legion of relatives attended church in Sandringham where the royal family is spending the holidays at the royal country estate. The Queen, who is expecting her third child early next year, recorded in advance her traditional Christmas message for broadcast to the Common-wealth.

President Eisenhower, resting from a strenuous 11-nation trip, spent a quiet day in the White House.

Sir Winston Churchill, 85, having the day with his family at Chartwell - his country home southeast of London- was reported to have successfully thrown off a new round of illness.

Fifty-thousand persons cheered Pope John XXIII as he stepped onto the balcony outside St. Peter's Basilica to deliver his Christmas blessing to the city of Rome and the world. He had just completed celebrating Mass inside the Basilica for 20,000 others.

In a speech from the balcony, the pontiff expressed his hopes for peace and that the light of Bethlehem would illumine all men.

Some 10,000 worshipers attended early Christmas services in Bethlehem's Manger Square, a few hours after Israeli and Syrian troops had exchanged shots along the sea of Galilee. Israel said one Israeli frontier soldier had been killed. Syrians said an Arab had been wounded.

The holiday highway fatality toll rose to 26 in Australia, with a new acident reported to police every five minutes.

On Formosa President Chiang Kai-shek declared the collapse of the mainland Communists is inevitable and said last year's battle of Quemoy had checked Red aggression in Southeast Aisa. He made the statements before the annual Christmas Day meeting of the National Assemblymen's Assn.

Cubans, jittery after a year of revolution, had a generally quiet day, though the government announced the roundup of 25 more counter - revolutionists, and the wounding of a man in a highway shooting. Cuban police and soldiers were on the alert for plots and invasions.

The U.S. Strategic Air Command said a third of its jet bombers were on 15-minute alert as usual at 70 bases throughout the world.

A recorded message by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York currently making his annual Christmas tour of U.S. military bases overseas, warned against "becoming complacent or indifferent" toward communism. His message, broadcast at midnight services in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral, charged Soviet Communists are "avowed enemies of God, democracy, justice and mercy."

ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Billion Shares Traded Since '30

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A billion shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange in 1959 for the first time since 1930.

Prices took off from the springboard of 1958's bull market and worked to greater record highs, attracting an army of investors and speculators.

The upward drive ran into trouble, topping out on Aug. 3. Prices plummeted. The year's gain in The Associated Press average was wiped out by Sept. 22.

Stocks rebounded vigorously from the Sept. 22 low and by late October had recouped half the losses taken since Aug. 3. November was a month of consolidation and doubt. In December the market broke out above its narrow trading range and advanced again.

The prolonged steel strike was a major factor in upsetting Wall Street's confidence. So was the decision of President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to exchange visits. This prompted fears that defense spending might be sharply reduced.

The arrival of Khrushchev in the United States in mid-September, timed as it was with the success of the Soviet moon rocket, gave the market a jolt reminiscent of the "Sputnicked" 1957 market.

These bearish events combined with the lengthening steel strike to bring about a shakeout which culminated in the Sept. 22 low. By that date The Associated Press average of 60 stocks had declined to $214.00 from the Aug. 3 high of $235.80 and the Dow Jones industrial average was down to 616.45 from its closing record of 678.10 reached the same date.

The recovery move climaxed Oct. 16 with the AP average at $224.90 and the Dow industrials at 643.22. A new settlement offer by the striking steelworkers helped spark this rise but hopes of an agreement vanished over a weekend and President Eisenhower invoked the Taft-Hartley law.

Alternate hopes and fears concerning the steel-labor situation were accompanied by up-and-down jigglings on the market for a period of about six weeks. Tax-loss selling and switching also muddied the trend but the market found renewed optimism in early December and surged above the October recovery highs.

The market rise was accompanied by some fantastic gyrations early in the year and these of the major exchanges as well as from the Securities and Exchange Commission which saw plain signs of manipulation.

The Federal Reserve Board also stepped into the picture by ordering stiffer rules for the handling of margined accounts.

It was a year of compact cars in their stocks. The price of American Motors almost quadrupled and this minor manufacturer found itself the most expensive auto stock on the Big Board. Studebaker - Packard's stock almost tripled in price.

The space age stocks went to town early in the year, some of them making stupendous gain). They wilted badly later, especially when the Eisenhower-Khrushchev visit exchange plans were announced. They found renewed strength, however, as the national government made clear it in-tion were marshalled to help hold down accidents, mindful of the record traffic toll of 706 during the 1956 four-day observance.

That was an all-time traffic fatality record for any holiday. Also a high record for any holiday was the toll of 884 deaths from accidents of all types during the 1956 Christmas period.

Khrushchev Agrees To Summit Meet

might conflict with De Gaulle's plans to visit the United States and Canada about April 17 or 19. A spokesman said the conference probably would have to be put off until sometime in May.

Other dates crowding the summit calendar are a visit by Khrushchev to Paris for two weeks beginning March 15. De Gaulle will be in Britain April 5-8. A short Western summit is planned in Paris just before the East-West top-level talks.

Both the British and French said, however, they believe the technicalities can be worked out, and that they are happy that Khrushchev has agreed to Paris as the meeting place. The British said they are glad he has agreed by implication to a series of summit conferences.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko summoned the British, French, and American ambassadors from their Christmas Day firesides just before noon and handed them Khrushchev's one-page letters to their chiefs.

Gromyko also called foreign newsmen from their Christmas observances for a news conference to tell them about the letters.

Some Western circles said the Western world's greatest holiday probably was chosen for the delivery to underscore that April 27 would conflict with the May 1 holiday, one of the biggest celebrations in the Communist world.

On that occasion, Khrushchev would expect to be on hand to review a giant parade through Red Square. The Communists observe May 1 as an international workers day.

Americans were reminded, too, that Khrushchev chose another American holiday, Thanksgiving, 1958, to announce that six months was long enough to settle the status of Berlin. Thus he brought on a crisis leading to the present negotiations for a summit conference. Khrushchev later modified the ultimatum-like aspects of his declarations.

Whrushchev's letters to Eisenhower, Macmillan and De Gaulle, all similar, were cordial.

To Eisenhower, he said he had found "profound satisfaction" in the fact the three Western leaders "consider it desirable that, with a view to discussing the major international problems, summit meetings should be held from time to time in countries which are parties to such conferences."

The Western leaders had suggested that after a Paris meeting, a succession of summit conferences might be held in Washington, London and Moscow.

The Soviet government, Khrushchev said, "can only welcome such a declaration" because it believes "it is in this very way, by means of personal meetings between statesmen at the highest level, that urgent international problems can be solved most effectively."

He then expressed readiness to meet in Paris but suggested other dates than April 27.

"I hope, Mr. President, that these considerations will be acceptable to you," he concluded.

Khrushchev made no mention of Western proposals that a summit talk be confined to the four big powers. Apparently he left the question of invitations to East and West Germany, Red China and India — all of whom the Soviet Union has suggested be included — to the future, perhaps at the time a conference convenes.

France Sends Reinforcements To Martinique

station and police headquarters.

Two persons died that night and several policemen were injured.

Violence continued Tuesday, with one more person killed and at least a dozen injured.

The official communique said that order had been restored by Friday. The state-controlled radio in Fort DeFrance continued to broadcast frequent appeals for calm Friday and reports from there said shots were heard in that town Thursday night.

The authorities also have disbanded the "Association of Veterans from North Africa," a group believed to have played a leading role in the riots. It is made up of civil servants who have served in North Africa, and had been against any revision in Martinique's status.

The island technically is a department of France. Recently, the Communist Party and other groups have been demanding a change of status. They want autonomy. Not necessarily independence, for Martinique. Their demands have been emboldened by President Charles de Gaulle's drive to give extensive self-rule to all former colonial possessions.

marshal's office, said Allen would be given a hearing on the arson charge Monday.

"Evidently, his mind was befuddled after his boy died," Zirkle said. "We've heard all kinds of stories about this thing. The father said his son told him the two other boys burned him. Some of the neighbors said the boy set himself on fire. There is nothing definite now. We will have to wait for the hearing."

Allen, who has one other child, was held without bail pending the hearing.

Fishing Boat Goes Down Off Grand Isle

from the scene said the stricken crewman appeared unconscious or dead in the water.

The boat was identified as the Joan of Arc. Its home port and the identity of its crew were not immediately known, the Coast Guard said.

The fishing vessel ran into trouble when it hit the back wash of a storm west of the Mississippi River delta.

The Coast Guard said its skipper evidently tried to beach the craft near Grand Isle, located due south of New Orleans. But huge waves broke up the vessel.

One crewman made it to the beach and hitchhiked 10 miles to the CG Life Boat station at Grand Isle.

An attempt to reach the stricken crewman, spotted floating near the sinking boat, failed.

Engineman Robert Chambers tried to get through heavy swells in a life raft. But the raft capsized and he just did scramble back to the patrol boat.

Coast Guardsmen tried to launch a 16-foot outboard patrol boat from the beach. Roaring waves pounded the men back.

A Coast Guard helicopter took off from New Orleans Calendar Field and swept over the scene. It tried to drop a man in a basket lift for a daring rescue. But the Coast Guard said the sea made the attempt too hazardous.

Coast Guardsmen were making another effort to launch the outboard boat from the beach.

the British Embassy in Moscow with a midnight Mass.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, which rarely mentions religious events, said special Christmas services were heavily attended in all Roman Catholic churches throughout the Soviet Union and that special services were held in all of Latvia's Evangelical-Lutheran churches. Evangelical-Lutheran archbishop Gustav Turs in that republic of the U.S.S.R. issued a message emphasizing that Christmas is a festival of peace, Tass reported. The Orthodox Church celebrates Christmas on Jan. 6, and New Year's Day is the traditional time for Russians to exchange gifts.

Poland's Communist press fell in step with the country's ardent Christmas spirit, printing traditional holiday greetings to its readers. In Communist Yugoslavia, however, business proceeded as usual.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, her family, and a small legion of relatives attended church in Sandringham where the royal family is spending the holidays at the royal country estate. The Queen, who is expecting her third child early next year, recorded in advance her traditional Christmas message for broadcast to the Common-wealth.

President Eisenhower, resting from a strenuous 11-nation trip, spent a quiet day in the White House.

Sir Winston Churchill, 85, having the day with his family at Chartwell - his country home southeast of London- was reported to have successfully thrown off a new round of illness.

Fifty-thousand persons cheered Pope John XXIII as he stepped onto the balcony outside St. Peter's Basilica to deliver his Christmas blessing to the city of Rome and the world. He had just completed celebrating Mass inside the Basilica for 20,000 others.

In a speech from the balcony, the pontiff expressed his hopes for peace and that the light of Bethlehem would illumine all men.

Some 10,000 worshipers attended early Christmas services in Bethlehem's Manger Square, a few hours after Israeli and Syrian troops had exchanged shots along the sea of Galilee. Israel said one Israeli frontier soldier had been killed. Syrians said an Arab had been wounded.

The holiday highway fatality toll rose to 26 in Australia, with a new acident reported to police every five minutes.

On Formosa President Chiang Kai-shek declared the collapse of the mainland Communists is inevitable and said last year's battle of Quemoy had checked Red aggression in Southeast Aisa. He made the statements before the annual Christmas Day meeting of the National Assemblymen's Assn.

Cubans, jittery after a year of revolution, had a generally quiet day, though the government announced the roundup of 25 more counter - revolutionists, and the wounding of a man in a highway shooting. Cuban police and soldiers were on the alert for plots and invasions.

The U.S. Strategic Air Command said a third of its jet bombers were on 15-minute alert as usual at 70 bases throughout the world.

A recorded message by Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York currently making his annual Christmas tour of U.S. military bases overseas, warned against "becoming complacent or indifferent" toward communism. His message, broadcast at midnight services in New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral, charged Soviet Communists are "avowed enemies of God, democracy, justice and mercy."

ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Billion Shares Traded Since '30

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A billion shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange in 1959 for the first time since 1930.

Prices took off from the springboard of 1958's bull market and worked to greater record highs, attracting an army of investors and speculators.

The upward drive ran into trouble, topping out on Aug. 3. Prices plummeted. The year's gain in The Associated Press average was wiped out by Sept. 22.

Stocks rebounded vigorously from the Sept. 22 low and by late October had recouped half the losses taken since Aug. 3. November was a month of consolidation and doubt. In December the market broke out above its narrow trading range and advanced again.

The prolonged steel strike was a major factor in upsetting Wall Street's confidence. So was the decision of President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to exchange visits. This prompted fears that defense spending might be sharply reduced.

The arrival of Khrushchev in the United States in mid-September, timed as it was with the success of the Soviet moon rocket, gave the market a jolt reminiscent of the "Sputnicked" 1957 market.

These bearish events combined with the lengthening steel strike to bring about a shakeout which culminated in the Sept. 22 low. By that date The Associated Press average of 60 stocks had declined to $214.00 from the Aug. 3 high of $235.80 and the Dow Jones industrial average was down to 616.45 from its closing record of 678.10 reached the same date.

The recovery move climaxed Oct. 16 with the AP average at $224.90 and the Dow industrials at 643.22. A new settlement offer by the striking steelworkers helped spark this rise but hopes of an agreement vanished over a weekend and President Eisenhower invoked the Taft-Hartley law.

Alternate hopes and fears concerning the steel-labor situation were accompanied by up-and-down jigglings on the market for a period of about six weeks. Tax-loss selling and switching also muddied the trend but the market found renewed optimism in early December and surged above the October recovery highs.

The market rise was accompanied by some fantastic gyrations early in the year and these of the major exchanges as well as from the Securities and Exchange Commission which saw plain signs of manipulation.

The Federal Reserve Board also stepped into the picture by ordering stiffer rules for the handling of margined accounts.

It was a year of compact cars in their stocks. The price of American Motors almost quadrupled and this minor manufacturer found itself the most expensive auto stock on the Big Board. Studebaker - Packard's stock almost tripled in price.

The space age stocks went to town early in the year, some of them making stupendous gains. They wilted badly later, especially when the Eisenhower-Khrushchev visit exchange plans were announced. They found renewed strength, however, as the national government made clear it in-

SOUNDS LOGICAL

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — Mayor Sidney E. Baker, presiding in city court, overruled the defense of an unlicensed driver whose car rammed into a utility pole. The defendant pleaded, "I didn't think I needed a license, because I don't know how to drive a car."

Two out of every three housewives found newspapers to be the most helpful advertising medium in the buying of food products, according to an Illinois Consumer Survey.

INSECURITY BIG PROBLEM — This is Sandra Warner, 22-year-old actress-singer-dancer, who says insecurity is the pressing ill among most Hollywood feminine stars. Sandy says she has been approved for several parts in movies by the producer and director only to be dismissed by feminine stars who had contracts giving them the right to approve the cast of the picture. CLOTHES Make Your Man

By Harry Juster

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My husband came home with a new outfit. Listen to this description! Black suit, black tie, white shirt, black hat and black shoes. While it wasn't a happy thought, I couldn't help laughing and told him he was all ready for the undertaker. Honestly, is this the latest for men?

Mrs. G. S.

He's "overdone." A monotone look is exactly what the word implies — monotonous. Black is popular but contrast is needed. A whiteground tie, white breast pocket handkerchief and gray hat will create an entirely different effect. Black still dominates but the contrast breaks it up so that everything about him doesn't remind you of Edgar Allen Poe's "Raven."

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I waited on a woman shopping for gift shirts for her husband. When I asked his size she pointed at a man and said "My husband's just a litle taller and heavier." A great help! Odds are the size I guessed was wrong. The result? Another exchange after Christmas. A few timely words about checking sizes might save shoppers and us "hard working" sales girls a lot of unnecessary headaches.

Wilma D.

Why is it so many women know everything about their men except the sizes they wear? No question, a little beforehand size sleuthing helps eliminate back tracking to stores. It also helps avoid Christmas day disappointments. Playing guessing games about gift sizes can be trying to all concerned. Incidentally, what's YOUR boy friend's shirt measurements?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I have a toast shade polo topcoat and always wear a chocolate brown hat with it. I prefer to wear dark gray or blue suits and black shoes all the time. Now am I wrong in wearing these colors with this coat and hat?

R.S.

Toast and chocolate are a tasty combination—for a topcoat and a hat. Don't worry about its clashing with your suit and shoes. Polo coats are traditionally camel or toast shade. You can consider it a neutral color that goes well with any other color. You've picked the right hat, too, as it always should blend with the coat.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My wife returns practically every present I buy her because she claims I don't pay attention to the kind of things she wears. For instance for her last birthday I bought her a pair of silk pajamas. She claims she hasn't worn silk pajamas for 10 years. Should I stop buying her gifts?

G.C.

Don't stop buying her gifts but start finding out what she wants! This Christmas is a good time to begin. P.S. By the way, what does this have to do with men's clothes?

To Mrs. A. L. Measure the widest part of his palm. That's his glove size.

TIP FOR THE DAY

Ladies, Take Care Or Beware

Ladies, you mother us, feed us, sometime even inspire us. Being men, we thrive on it. But when you try to clothe us, please, a little care! Shy away from bizzare ties, noisy socks, wild pajamas and feakish sportshirts. We'll love you for not trying to make us look like a Christmas tree.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. He also has a booklet, "Guide to Better Dress" which includes a color chart, physical proportions chart, and many tips for improving apperance. The booklet is available free. Send stamped, self-addressed enveloped to Harry Juster in care of this paper.

NEXT WEEK: What do you do with a mother-in-law who gives you loud ties?

Nixons Spend Traditional Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon centered their Christmas celebration Friday on their family and friends with a day of carol singing, gift-saving and good eating.

The day began early when the two Nixon girls, Tricia, 14, and Julie, 11, roused the household for gift opening around a big Christmas tree. What the girls received was not divulged, but there were plenty of presents.

Mrs. Nixon served a big breakfast featuring waffles and sausage, long a Christmas morning custom with the family.

The Nixons invited old friends from their California days for a traditional dinner.

On hand to eat turkey with cranberries and all the trimmings were Mr. and Mrs. George M. Fuller and their son, Bill. Fuller, now a Washington public relations man, lived near the former Nixon residence in the Spring Valley section of the city.

The day also included singing carols around the piano, with the vice president at the keyboard and Bill Fuller playing the ukelele.

Nixon took his daughters Christmas shopping Wednesday, but the gifts he exchanged with his wife and the presents for the children were not divulged. Other members of the family received a new photograph of Nixon, Pat and the girls.

It was understood the vice president will spend the remainder of the holiday week end here.

Annual Radio Message Given By Elizabeth

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth, who is expecting her third child early next year, Friday wished her subjects a Merry Christmas from Sandringham, an estate traditionally occupied by the monarch at yuletime.

In her annual radio message—the shortest she has ever given—she said:

"I do not want Christmas to pass by without sending my best wishes for a happy day to all of you who may be listening, and especially to my own peoples in the Commonwealth.

"Wherever you are and whatever you may be doing, you have my constant interest and affection. I am particularly grateful to the many kind people all over the world who have sent me their good wishes at this time. I am glad to have this chance to thank you all very warmly indeed.

"As the old year passes, let us celebrate Christmas with thanksgiving and carry its message of peace and goodwill into the year ahead. All of us at Sandringham wish you a very happy Christmas. May God bless you all."

The speech was recorded. The Queen was not seen on television.

INSECURITY BIG PROBLEM — This is Sandra Warner, 22-year-old actress-singer-dancer, who says insecurity is the pressing ill among most Hollywood feminine stars. Sandy says she has been approved for several parts in movies by the producer and director only to be dismissed by feminine stars who had contracts giving them the right to approve the cast of the picture. CLOTHES Make Your Man

By Harry Juster

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My husband came home with a new outfit. Listen to this description! Black suit, black tie, white shirt, black hat and black shoes. While it wasn't a happy thought, I couldn't help laughing and told him he was all ready for the undertaker. Honestly, is this the latest for men?

Mrs. G. S.

He's "overdone." A monotone look is exactly what the word implies — monotonous. Black is popular but contrast is needed. A whiteground tie, white breast pocket handkerchief and gray hat will create an entirely different effect. Black still dominates but the contrast breaks it up so that everything about him doesn't remind you of Edgar Allen Poe's "Raven."

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I waited on a woman shopping for gift shirts for her husband. When I asked his size she pointed at a man and said "My husband's just a litle taller and heavier." A great help! Odds are the size I guessed was wrong. The result? Another exchange after Christmas. A few timely words about checking sizes might save shoppers and us "hard working" sales girls a lot of unnecessary headaches.

Wilma D.

Why is it so many women know everything about their men except the sizes they wear? No question, a little beforehand size sleuthing helps eliminate back tracking to stores. It also helps avoid Christmas day disappointments. Playing guessing games about gift sizes can be trying to all concerned. Incidentally, what's YOUR boy friend's shirt measurements?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I have a toast shade polo topcoat and always wear a chocolate brown hat with it. I prefer to wear dark gray or blue suits and black shoes all the time. Now am I wrong in wearing these colors with this coat and hat?

R.S.

Toast and chocolate are a tasty combination—for a topcoat and a hat. Don't worry about its clashing with your suit and shoes. Polo coats are traditionally camel or toast shade. You can consider it a neutral color that goes well with any other color. You've picked the right hat, too, as it always should blend with the coat.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: My wife returns practically every present I buy her because she claims I don't pay attention to the kind of things she wears. For instance for her last birthday I bought her a pair of silk pajamas. She claims she hasn't worn silk pajamas for 10 years. Should I stop buying her gifts?

G.C.

Don't stop buying her gifts but start finding out what she wants! This Christmas is a good time to begin. P.S. By the way, what does this have to do with men's clothes?

To Mrs. A. L. Measure the widest part of his palm. That's his glove size.

TIP FOR THE DAY

Ladies, Take Care Or Beware

Ladies, you mother us, feed us, sometime even inspire us. Being men, we thrive on it. But when you try to clothe us, please, a little care! Shy away from bizzare ties, noisy socks, wild pajamas and feakish sportshirts. We'll love you for not trying to make us look like a Christmas tree.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. He also has a booklet, "Guide to Better Dress" which includes a color chart, physical proportions chart, and many tips for improving apperance. The booklet is available free. Send stamped, self-addressed enveloped to Harry Juster in care of this paper.

NEXT WEEK: What do you do with a mother-in-law who gives you loud ties?

Nixons Spend Traditional Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon centered their Christmas celebration Friday on their family and friends with a day of carol singing, gift-saving and good eating.

The day began early when the two Nixon girls, Tricia, 14, and Julie, 11, roused the household for gift opening around a big Christmas tree. What the girls received was not divulged, but there were plenty of presents.

Mrs. Nixon served a big breakfast featuring waffles and sausage, long a Christmas morning custom with the family.

The Nixons invited old friends from their California days for a traditional dinner.

On hand to eat turkey with cranberries and all the trimmings were Mr. and Mrs. George M. Fuller and their son, Bill. Fuller, now a Washington public relations man, lived near the former Nixon residence in the Spring Valley section of the city.

The day also included singing carols around the piano, with the vice president at the keyboard and Bill Fuller playing the ukelele.

Nixon took his daughters Christmas shopping Wednesday, but the gifts he exchanged with his wife and the presents for the children were not divulged. Other members of the family received a new photograph of Nixon, Pat and the girls.

It was understood the vice president will spend the remainder of the holiday week end here.

Annual Radio Message Given By Elizabeth

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth, who is expecting her third child early next year, Friday wished her subjects a Merry Christmas from Sandringham, an estate traditionally occupied by the monarch at yuletime.

In her annual radio message—the shortest she has ever given—she said:

"I do not want Christmas to pass by without sending my best wishes for a happy day to all of you who may be listening, and especially to my own peoples in the Commonwealth.

"Wherever you are and whatever you may be doing, you have my constant interest and affection. I am particularly grateful to the many kind people all over the world who have sent me their good wishes at this time. I am glad to have this chance to thank you all very warmly indeed.

"As the old year passes, let us celebrate Christmas with thanksgiving and carry its message of peace and goodwill into the year ahead. All of us at Sandringham wish you a very happy Christmas. May God bless you all."

The speech was recorded. The Queen was not seen on television.

LETTERS SHOW

Some For, Some Against Benson

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Stick by your guns." "Stay in there and keep swinging."

"You ought to resign. You are ruining the farmers."

These are some of the comments letter-writing citizens are making to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson in applauding or criticizing his rejection of suggestions by some party leaders that Republican chances would be improved next November if he stepped aside.

More than 125 letters have come in since Benson said, in a statement issued from a hospital bed where he was recovering from a gall bladder operation, that he intended to stay on the job and fight for a "free agriculture."

The latest of a series of suggestions that he resign because of controversy over his farm policies was made at a meeting of the Republican National Committee at Chicago early this month.

Benson's office said the letters —coming from all parts of the country and from many walks of life—were running about 20-1 in support of the secretary.

A reporter, permitted to scan the letters on condition that the writers not be identified, found that many of them had come from city and town residents—bankers, businessmen, educators, housewives. Not all of the letters were signed.

Many of the writers condemned "the politicians." A woman in West Newton, Mass. wrote that Benson seemed to be "the only one in Washington above politics and trying to do what is right."

Those who urged that he resign said he had helped to ruin farmers, especially small farmers. One written by a Bunker Hill, Kan., man, who referred to himself as a small wheat farmer, said Benson and Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, have done more than any 10 men to put farmers "in such an unfavorable light with the general public."

Benson and Shuman hold the same general views about getting government out of agriculture by eliminating controls and reducing price supports.

A New York City well-wisher wrote that Benson's critics are "playing cheap politics rather than thinking of the good of the farmer and the country."

A Hanover, N. H., housewife wrote: "Hang on. You are doing nobly. Get well first. We need you."

An aide to a Republican senator from a major farm state urged Benson not to "allow a few vociferous, nervous Republicans to sway your common sense approval of the idiocy of subsidies."

A Bryan, Tex., farmer who wrote that he was on the "losing end of the hog business," endorsed Benson's position, saying, "I don't want to run a farm from directives from Washington" and adding that "many around here feel the same way."

A Breda, Iowa, farmer, upset over declining hog prices, wrote Benson that he ought to resign, saying, "You sit in Washington and sell the farmer down the river with double talk."

A Montana publisher told the secretary to "hold fast. History is in your corner."

A critic in St. Petersburg, Fla., wrote that "the whole farm area will go Democratic in 1960 if you don't retire."

A correspondent at Paducah, Tex., identifying himself as a Republican county chairman, wrote: "I assure you the Republican organization in Texas is solidly behind you."

Actress Sara Berner Booked On Suspicion

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Radio-TV actress Sara Berner, 47, who plays the telephone operator on the Jack Benny show, was booked Friday on suspicion of endangering the life of her 7 - year - old daughter.

Mrs. Berner was arrested late Thursday after officers answered her call asking for police protection. She claimed her ex-husband, Milton Rosner, 37, was on the way to her home to kill her.

When police arrived at the home they were met by the daughter, Eugenia Rosner. When they asked for her mother, Mrs. Berner called to them from the bedroom. They found the actress in bed, her bedroom littered with papers, clothing and cigaret butts.

The officers said they tried to reason with her on her demand for police protection, but reported that she became "abusive and started screaming." They said it was necessary to handcuff her to restrain her as she allegedly tried to attack them.

She was removed to Lincoln Heights Jail and her daughter was turned over to Rosner.

Court Accepts Three-Fourths Of JD Views

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin said Friday the Supreme Court accepted the Justice Department's views in three-fourths of the cases involving the federal government it heard this year.

Rankin, who represents the government in cases before the high court, said in a year-end report to Attorney General William P. Rogers that the government's arguments prevailed in 63 of 80 cases.

Rankin said that from the many government cases presented him for possible appeal to the high court he chose only 30. He said the decision on which cases to carry before the high court was one of his most important duties.

He reported that of the 30, the court agreed to hear 70 per cent, while 20 per cent of the appeals are pending.

Only 12 per cent of the petitions filed by parties opposing the government were granted by the court over the government's opposition, he said. Some 273 such petitions were filed.

Algiers Bloody As Four Killed, 65 Injured

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Algerian Nationalists made Christmas a time of bloodshed with four persons dead and 65 injured.

A Christmas Eve bomb blast in Algiers killed two and injured 51. The bomb was placed in an old automobile parked in front of a big department store and went off as Christmas shoppers jammed the area. Many of the injured were women and children.

Outside the city on the road to Douera, rebels shot down and killed the driver of a military truck and burned the vehicle.

The train from Bougie to Algiers struck a mine and 10 persons were injured by the blast and derailment.

Movements Of Troops By Iran Reported

TEHRAN (UPI) — Iranian newspapers Friday reported new troop movements to the Iraqi border as tension between the two countries heightened.

Radio Tehran depicted Premier Kassem of Iraq as a "red servant of black imperialism" who served oil trust interests rather than his people.

According to the newspaper reports, troops and artillery were being moved to a region which Iraq claims as its own.

Palace sources said the newlywed Shah of Iran delayed his honeymoon until Saturday in order to confer at length with military advisers.

The Shah and his new 21 -year-old Queen, Farah, who were married Monday, will honeymoon at the Caspian resort of Ramsar.

Press reports said Britain and the United States were trying to settle the Iranian - Iraqi dispute because they fear the Arabian oil refinery might be destroyed if fighting broke out.

Radio Tehran claimed Kassem had not shared oil benefits with his people. A broadcast said Iran would further unmask "the present Iraqi rulers before the loyal and decent Iraqi people."

Two Persons Die In Crash Of Airplane

IONIA, ich. (UPI)—Two persons were killed early Friday in the crash of a private plane about five miles north of Ionia.

State police have identified the victims as Robert and Elizabeth Hagstrom of Denver, Colo.

A police spokesman said the plane crashed very close to Michigan Highway 91. Authorities believe the pilot may have been attempting to land on the highway.

The plane apparently ran out of gasoline, authorities said, and crashed in a field alongside the highway.

A SCRAMBLE OF VALUES FOR EVERYONE — A STORE-FULL OF YEAR-END EXCITEMENT AND SAVINGS

Milstead's Passing Makes Gray Squad Slim Favorite

By DAN COGGIN

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A young Texan who sizes up pass openings and tough math problems with equal ease will guide the favored Southerners in the Blue-Gray football game Saturday.

victory in five outings, but are

Charlie Milstead, ace quarterback from Texas A & M, is one big reason why oddmakers give the Rebel All-Stars a 4½-point edge over Northern college standouts in the annual intersectional affair.

The 21-year-old married senior, whose impressive grid record matches his "B" average as an industrial engineering major, is the South's main hope to outdo a repeat-prime North squad.

Yankee forces racked up a 16-0 triumph last year for their third yet to win two straight. They are fiercely determined to do ft this time, and pack the potential.

But with forecasts for a wide-open air battle, the Southerners have built their aerial attack around Milstead as No. 1 quarterback and offensive co-captain.

Milstead, who spreads his lean 187 pounds over a 6-2 frame, boasts one of the best passing records south of the Mason-Dixon. This season his right arm bulleted 117 passes, completing 62 of them—better than half — for 752 yards and four touchdowns.

It's a safe bet many of Milstead's passes will be aimed at Carroll Dale, Virginia Tech flanker whose spot on the AP All-America second team makes him the highest rated player on either side.

Head North coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, however, has a passing attack just as formidable as that of Vanderbilt's Art Guepe, coaching boss for the Grays.

Bulwarking Yankee aerial strength are quarterbacks Jack Lee of Cincinnati and Ross Fichtner of Purdue and Dwight Nichols, Iowa State halfback. Nichols, also a hard runner, and Fichtner were teammates in the All-America third-string backfield.

Rated the nation's No. 2 passer this year, Lee amassed 132 completions out of 232 for 1,535 yards and seven touchdown. Only six of his passes were intercepted.

A near capacity crowd of 20,000 is expected for the 2 p.m. (EST) kickoff. The weather forecast is for fair and mild. The game will be televised nationally over NBC.

Giants Paint Rosy Picture For Howell

"We're much better off this year than last," he said. "Last December we had to concentrate on winning a playoff from Cleveland before we could even think of the championship.

"When we did start the game with the Colts, Rosy Grier found he couldn't play on his sprained ankle. So Frank Youso, who had never played defensive tackle as a pro, had to take over.

"Furthermore, our secondary defense is much stronger this year with Dick Nolan and Dick Lynch in it."

The Colts won last year's championship game, outlasting the Giants, 23-17, in a sudden death playoff.

"Yes," he continued, "we're in fine shape. Our morale is excellent. We're ready to play a good game and I think we're good enough to win."

He added that Pat Summerall, place-kicking specialist, is ready to fill in at offensive end if needed, and that halfback Alex Webster will be ready for full-time duty although he has not completely recovered from the effects of a bad back.

Rangers Rally To Whip Wings

DETROIT (AP)—The New York Rangers rallied with four straight goals to overcome a 2-1 deficit and hand the Detroit Red Wings a 5-2 beating in a Christmas night hockey game here.

Brian Cullen scored two of the Rangers' goals within 16 seconds in the final period.

Bruins Break Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP) — Boston center Don McKenney had a hand in four goals Friday night as the aroused Bruins handed Chicago a 5-1 National Hockey League defeat.

Utilizing his great speed, McKenney scored two goals and assisted on two others as Boston ended a four-game losing streak.

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — The first modern Olympic games, held here in 1896, included only track and field events. The winter Olympic games were officially added to the program in 1924, with the first contest staged at Chamonix, France.

EDGE KNICKS

Celtics Register 14th Straight Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Celtics caught fire in the final quarter Friday night and whipped the New York Knickerbockers 123-119 to extend their winning streak to 14 games in the National Basketball Assn.

The league champion Celtics, who trailed by 13 points after three periods and had been down by as much as 21 in the first half, outscored the Knicks 34-17 in the final period before 14,870 at Madison Square Garden.

The last-place Knicks scored only six field goals in the final quarter.

The late Boston drive was led by speedy Sam Jones, who tallied 27 points—23 in the second half —and ended up as high man for the Celtics.

Boston, down 111-103, scored 14 consecutive points to move ahead for good. Two foul shots by Tommy Heinsohn with 3:51 remaining gave the Celtics the lead for the first time in the game, 113-111.

By winning, Boston moved closer to the league's all time victory streak of 17 set by the defunct Washington Capitols during the 1946-47 season.

New York Coach Carl Braun played the game under protest after a disputed basket late in the first period by Boston's Bill Sharman as the 24-second buzzer sounded was allowed.

The Knicks spurted to a 38-29 first quarter lead and twice built up leads of 21 points in the second period, but the Celtics, paced by Sharman, Bob Cousy, and Bill Russell, whittled the gap to eight, 71-63, at halftime.

Richie Guerin with 26 points and Willie Naulls with 24 were the scoring leaders for New York.

Feeling ran high throughout the contest and with three minutes left, Guerin and K. C. Jones traded punches. Players on both teams poured onto the court, but order was restored quickly.

Wilt Scores 45 Points In Warrior Win

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain poured in 45 points to lead the Philadelphia Warriors to a 129-121 victory over the Syracuse Nationals in a National Basketball Assn. game at Hershey Arena Friday night.

Chamberlain scored eight points in the last four minutes to clinch the triumph. Wilt also grabbed 34 rebounds.

The Nats caught fire early in the third period, after 67-49 halftime deficit, on the jump shooting of rookie Dick Barnett. The former Tennessee A&I star dumped in seven baskets to pull Syracuse up to 76-72. But that was the closest the Nats could get.

Royals Beat Pistons, Snap Loss String

CINCINNATI (AP) — Arlen Bockhorn and Jack Twyman teamed up in a second half scoring spree Friday night that helped Cincinnati's Royals whip Detroit 121-103 in a National Basketball Assn. game.

Bockhorn sank nine points and Twyman only three in a rocky first half, but their second half output—Bockhorn 18 and Twyman 22—broke the Royals six-game losing streak.

Detroit led during most of the early going, but the Royals got hot in the second half, squelched an early Piston rally and took firm command early in the last quarter.

While Bockhorn wound up with 27 points and Twyman 25, Walt Dukes was best for the Pistons with 19.

The first half was nearly even, with each squad sinking 21 of 51 field goal tries and snaring 38 rebounds apiece. Cincinnati had a slight scoring edge, 52-50.

Chatham To Host Hoop Tripleheader

CHATHAM, La. (Special) — A basketball tripleheader featuring Calhoun's soaring Chieftains and a pair of classy independent teams will be played here tonight.

The Calhoun Independents, composed of several top-notch performers from past Calhoun High School teams, will take on the Chatham All-stars in the feature game of the night at 8:30.

In preliminary games Calhoun's "B" team meets the Chatham second stringers at 6:30 and Jerry Lovett's Calhoun varsity tangles with Coach Hood's varsity quint at 7:30.

Heading the roster for the visiting independents will be Richard Mitchell, who was Calhoun's first all-state cager in 1955, Jerry Aulds, an all-stater last year, Hugh Calhoun, Billy Ray Calhoun, Percy Golson, Dickie Fuller, Johnny Aulds and Lovett, a former Louisiana Tech star.

Chatham will field a squad anchored by Jimmy and George Moore, Ralph Malone and Jimmy White.

Led by high-scoring Scottie Sims and Spike Smith, the Calhoun varsity has chalked up 21 victories while losing only to Ringgold and unbeaten Forest.

BATTLE TONIGHT

North, South Set After Short Drills

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The North and the South all-stars, as ready as possible with only five days of practice, meet Saturday night in the 12th annual Shrine football game at the Orange Bowl with the athletes from Dixie slim two-point favorites.

A crowd approaching 35,000 is expected for the duel, which looms as a battle of forward passes, although each team has backs who can go on the ground. Kickoff time is 8:15 p.m., EST.

Neither Dale Hall of Army, coach of the North squad, nor Wade Walker, in charge of the South, has any illusions about the uncertainty of the outcome, but both declare: "We didn't come here to lose."

The North will have a big weight edge in the line, but some critics believe the South is the speedier team, and if its passing is nullified by the North defenders it might have an edge in running the ball.

The game will be played under pro rules, with free substitutions, quarterbacks permitted to come to the sideline to talk to a coach during timeouts, and with the trailing team having the choice of receiving the kickoff.

Hall's own Army players will provide the nucleus of the North offense. He has his passer, quarterback Joe Caldwell; his lonely end and star pass grabber, Bill Carpenter, and ace halfback who also shines at receiving passes, Bob Anderson. He also has his own center, Bob Oswandel.

Walker has only two of his Mississippi State players—end Lavalle White and halfback Willis Daniel but he has passers of unquestioned ability from other schools.

Fran Curci, diminutive University of Miami quarterback and a fine southpaw passer, is due to start offensively, but Walker also has a fine passer in Jack Cummings of North Carolina, and still a third able tosser in Navy's Joe Tranchini.

If punting and placekicking are vital factors, the South will have the edge. It has Gordon Speer of Rice, who can place kick far and accurately and punt for distance. Speer also is a decided running threat with his great speed and shiftiness.

DON'T KNOCK THE ROCK

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Notre Dame football teams coached by the great Knute Rockne from 1918 until his death in 1930 won 105 games and lost only 12 with five ties — a winning percentage of .898.

TALLY HIGH

BOSTON (UPI) — The highest scoring game in pro basketball history took place here on Feb. 27, 1959, when the Boston Celtics beat the Minneapolis Lakers, 173-139. The Celtics sank 50 per cent of their shots, the Lakers 38 per cent.

Aerial Artists May Decide Issues In All-Star Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They are expecting all kinds of passes in the trio of all-star college football games on Saturday's program.

In the annual Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., which pits teams of selected players from North of the Mason - Dixon line against a team from south of it, the coaches are building their attacks around Charlie Milstead of Texas A&M of the Rebels and Jack Lee of Cincinnati for the Yanks. Each is a quarterback and a daring but precise passer.

At the Copper Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., where a team of Southwestern seniors opposes a National squad, Willie Wood of Southern California and possibly the ailing Richie Lucas of Penn State will do the flinging for the Nationals while Joe Majors of Florida State is the expected pitcher for the Southwesterners.

Joe Caldwell, Army's quarterback, and his favorite Cadet target, end Bill Carpenter, make up the battery for the North team in the annual Shrine battle at Miami. Frank Curci of Miami and Jack Cummings of North Carolina are on tap for the Southern aggregation.

The Montgomery game, expected to lure 22,000 through the turnstiles, starts at 2:30 p.m. (EST) and will be televised nationally (NBC). Because of Milstead's presence and the fact that his reserve is Harvey White of Clemson, the Gray team is favored by 4½ points.

Despite a squad that numbers only 22, compared with 27 for the Southwest, the National team is rated a touchdown favorite at Tempe. The kickoff is listed for 3:30 p.m. (EST) and the game also will be televised nationally (CBS). The expected attendance is 20,000.

Miami's contest will be played in the 78,000 - seat Orange Bowl Stadium and some 30,000 players probably will show up. The South is a two-point favorite although the Dixie clan is outweighed in both the line and backfield. Game time is 8:15 p.m. There is no television.

Dale Hall, Army mentor, is coach of the Miami North team and Wade Walker of Mississippi State is the bossman of the South aggregation.

At Montgomery, Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue is coaching the North and Art Guepe of Virginia will mastermind for the Gray forces. The National All-Stars, at Tempe are being guided by Rip Engle of Penn State and Don Clark, who recently quit the Southern California job. The Southwest squad will be directed by Frank Kush of Arizona State and Ben Martin of the Air Force.

In all three cases, gate receipts go to various hospital funds.

NFL Completes Banner Season

By EARL WRIGHT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1959 National Football League season was marked by:

—Successful defenses of the division titles by the Baltimore Colts and New York Giants.

—The death Oct. 11 of Bert Bell, 65, league commissioner since 1946 and the man mainly responsible for the growth of professional football during the past decade.

—Another banner financial campaign with the 12 clubs attracting more than three million fans to 72 regular season games for the second straight year.

The rising threat of a talent and financial "war" with the newly-organized American Football League.

Baltimore, the defending league champion, experienced a mid-season slump but retained the Western Division title by sweeping its last five games.

New York also had trouble midway in the season, failing to score a touchdown during 11 straight periods while quarterback Charlie Conerly nursed an ankle injury. When Conerly recovered, the Giants unleashed a scoring flurry. They clinched their second straight Eastern title a week before the season ended.

The Giants clinched Eastern honors with a 48-7 triumph over the team they most enjoy beating —the Cleveland Browns. It was the second worst defeat in Cleveland's history and marked the first time the Browns have gone two straight seasons without winning a division crown.

The new American League, composed of teams with franchises in Boston, Buffalo, Dallas, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis and New York, held its first draft of college players in November. This move, forced the NFL, which usually holds only four rounds of its draft late in the season, to complete the full 20 rounds at a meeting in Philadelphia Nov. 30.

Many of 1959's college stars were drafted by both circuits and may benefit from spirited bidding by the rival leagues.

Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, Charlie Conerly of New York, Ray Berry of Baltimore and Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers captured the top 1959 individual titles in NFL play.

Brown won the rushing title for the third straight year with 1,329 yards while setting a season record of 290 attempts. Conerly, in his 12th season as New York's quarterback, won the passing crown for the first time with an average gain of 8.79 yards for each of his 194 throws. Berry won the pass catching title with 66 receptions and Hornung won the scoring crown with 94 points.

John Unitas, Baltimore's quarterback, set a season record by throwing 32 touchdown passes in 12 games. The old mark of 28 in 10 games was set by Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in 1943.

Cincinnati Choice In Holiday Meet

By JOE SARGIS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Top-ranked Cincinnati is favored to win the annual Holiday Festival basketball tournament which begins at Madison Square Garden Saturday with two doubleheader programs.

Cincinnati earned its favorite's role off a perfect record through six games and the presence of Oscar Robertson, the 6-5 All-American who in 1957 beat out Seattle's Elgin Baylor and Kansas' Wilt Chamberlin for the national scoring title while a sophomore. Chamberlain and Baylor now are stars in the National Basketball Association.

Manhattan (4-1) and St. Joseph's (Pa.) (5-1) open the afternoon program with St. John's (N.Y.) (5-2) meeting Iowa (6-1) in the second game. New York University (5-0) plays Dartmouth (2-0) in the first game of the Saturday evening program while Cincinnati meets St. Bonaventure (2-2) in the windup game.

Cincinnati has averaged a shade more than 100 points a game on offense and allowed opponents 67 points per game.

Of course, Robertson is the big gun and barring injury should be named the tourney's most valuable player. When he copped the national scoring title, Oscar averaged 35.1 points per game. Last season he slipped a couple of notches to 32.6, but is up 59 42.2 this time around, his last as a collegian.

If he can maintain his current rate of production, the 6-5 Robertson has a good chance to rewrite the tourney record book. The tourney high of 90 set by Tom Gola of LaSalle certainly seems within reach.

Robertson already holds the Garden all-time single game high of 56 points, which he scored against Seton Hall during the 1957-58 season.

Backing up Robertson are such teammates as 6-4 Ralph Davis (16.6 points per game average), 6-9 Paul Hogue (12.0), 7-4 Bob Wiesenhahn (8.2), 6-6 Larry Willey (6.2) and Carl Bouldin (6.0).

Of the other teams in the tourney, N.Y.U. is given the best seasons in years and have a dangerous scorer in 6-6 Tom Sanders.

The Iowa-St. John's game will be televised in 13 Midwest states. Iowa is ranked 17th nationally and boasts two 6-9 players and ace rebounder Nolden Gentry. St. John's top player is 6-4 Tony Jackson.

Greek Page Saddled With Top Weight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fifteen 2-year-olds were entered Friday for the $10,000-added City of Miami Beach Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth at Tropical Park Saturday.

Highweight will be Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Greek Page, winner of the flash at Saratoga and the Tyro at Monmouth Park, carrying 122 pounds with Steve Brooks up.

Second at 119 pounds, with J.L. Rotz Riding, is S.I. Crew's Cuvier Relic, winner of a division of the Dade Metropolitan Handicap last Saturday.

Other stakes winners in the final handicap race for 2-year-olds this year include R.F. McMahan Sr.'s Breaux, under 117 pounds, and the L. and L. Stable's Leon K., assigned 114 pounds.

The field is completed by Power Dam 107, Ron Rickles 114, Sun Tan Man 113, Navy Best 109, Estival 110, Royal Sonata 110, Gaylad 111, Yomolka 111, Spit Ball 106, Colonel Vala 110 and New Commander 112 pounds.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — End Paul Maguire of The Citadel was signed Friday by the Los Angeles Chargers of the New American Football League.

Maguire, an outstanding pass receiver and kicker for The Citadel, is in Phoenix to play in the second annual Copper Bowl game.

Rivals In Rose Bowl Planing Double Drills

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Rose Bowl rivals Wisconsin and Washington called a truce Friday as both squads quietly celebrated Christmas.

But the coaches promised double drills Saturday to catch up on rained-out practices.

Cocking an eye at clouded skies, Washington Coach Jim Owens said: "Looks like we've brought our hometown weather with us."

Goose Wanders Same As Man

By DION HENDERSON (AP)
Associated Press Staff Writer

Whither doth the gray goose wander?

Even as you and old dad would, junior, if we had the chance.

For the gray goose doth wander where the host offers the best grub, the nicest accommodations and the most pleasant company. He not only wanders, but he lingers. And as a result, some of the muted yowls of anguish among goose hunters along the great flyways are breaking out into full fledged kicking and screaming.

Take the events of the past few years in the 14 states of the Mississippi flyway, for instance. Not so long ago, the laments were coming chiefly from Wisconsin and Illinois, where hunters complained that "we're not getting our share of the geese." Their colleagues in nature's long-established wintering grounds to the south kept low in the blinds and felt sorry for them. Between shots.

Wisconsin and Illinois finally were forced to the step that many a traditionalist regards as a fate worse than death: They decided to spend some money to remedy the goose situation. Their wildlife managers set up development plans for places like the Horshoe Lake complex in Ilinois and the Horicon Marsh and Crex Meadows areas in Wisconsin.

After a deceptively modest period, they did business. Their captive flocks multiplied, the guests began dropping in, the guests had friends; they came earlier, stayed longer. Suddenly, it seemed, hunters along the firing line at Horicon talked about 100,000 Canadas "coming out" of the refuge area in a single morning. Suddenly Horshoe was the goose hunting capital of the world.

And somewhere along the line, the nature-endowed hunter down the flyway discovered that the lonesome honker he'd been trying to call in was just another guy with a goose call.

The "short-stop" of the flyway's goose population of course won't cut off the migration entirely, or perhaps even appreciably by total numbers if the Canada continues its flourishing comeback. But it's enough to hurt, and to hurt other than the far southern states.

Michigan's game chief, Harry Ruhl, told his state's hunters some of the harsh facts in their current conservation department magazine. Wisconsin and Illinois—and to some extent Missouri, because of its fringe share in the Horshoe complex—not only are shortstopping southbound geese, they're draining away the geese from both sides of the flyway.

"The main difficulty," Ruhl says, "is that Michigan has not done as much for the birds, nor done it as early, as had been done elsewhere."

And he added, "Do the goose hunters want to pay extra charges to enlarge the program?"

The answer is one that goose hunters will have to answer soon, and in more places than Michigan. Eventually the time to answer will come for more than the goose hunters.

And for any in doubt, this the magic word: Money.

Charlie Boy Cops First At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Charlie Boy ran down Pundit in the stretch for a length victory in the $5,000 Christmas Handicap at the Fair Grounds Friday.

W. W. Carroll's four-year-old gelding, favored in the six-horse field, stepped the six furlongs distance in 1:11 1-5—fastest time of the meeting.

Charlie Boy paid $5.60, $3.40, and $2.60. Pundit returned $7.20 and $4.80. Grand Wizard paid $2.80 to show.

Pundit set the pace until the top of the stretch. There, Charlie Boy moved up from fourth and responded to mild urging from jockey Robert Baldwin. It was Charlie Boy's third straight victory.

The daily double paid $252. Side Wind ($32.80) won the first and Black Question ($7.20) won the second.

A crowd of 11,051 bet $491,172 on the nine races.

New Group To Confer With Champ

NEW YORK (AP)—Three representatives of the 10-man group seeking to put on a heavyweight title fight in New York in June left Friday night by plane for a face - to - face meeting with world champion Ingemar Johnasson in Sweden.

The trio expressed confidence the Johansson-Floyd Patterson return bout would be made. One of them, Bill Fugazy, went so far as to say the rematch "is all set," as a result of trans-Atlantic telephone conversations with Johansson.

Johansson, however, said in Goteborg, Sweden, Thursday that he won't sign any papers until he comes to New York in mid-January. He is to receive the Boxing Writers Assn.'s "Boxer of the Year" trophy at the annual dinner in New York Jan. 14.

Fugazy and lawyers Roy Cohn and Tom Bolon flew to Paris. They are scheduled to meet with Johansson and the Swede's adviser, promoter Edwin Ahlquist, in Stockholm next Tuesday.

The 10 - man group purchased the return bout contract from Vincent J. Velella and Bill Sosensohn a few days ago.

Racing Slated At Four Tracks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bettors get a chance to display their new Christmas wallets at four tracks Saturday with a double feature on the season's inaugural card at Santa Anita probably the biggest lure.

Racing also will be held at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, Tropical Park at Miami and Charles Town at Charles Town, W. Va.

The two races on the opening Santa Anita card are the $20,000-added Palos Verdes Handicap of 6 furlongs for 3-year-olds and up and the $35,000-added California Breeders' Trial Stakes of 7 furlongs for 2-year-olds.

Eleven older horses were named for the Palos Verdes, with Neil McCathy's Ole Fols the probably favorite despite the load of 125 pounds. Ole Fols will go as an entry with Seaneen. Others expected to finish in the money are Fleet Nasrullah, the highweight with 126 pounds, and Demobilize, 120.

Warfare, the champion 2-year-old of 1959, is the stickout in the select field of six in the Breeders' Trial Stakes. T. V. Lark and Noble Noor are the chief contenders. All will carry 118 pounds.

The $10,000 Sugar Bowl Handicap for 2-year-olds is the New Orleans feature with Joseph Cavegnano's Fighting King the highweight at 119 and the probable favorite in the 6-furlong affair. Others in the field of 16 are T. A. Grissom's Spring Broker, with 116, and Tony Graffagnini's Tony Graf at 118.

Cuvier Relic, an entry with Colonel Bala, is expected to fight it out with Greek Page in the mile and a sixteenth $10,000-added Miami Beach Handicap at Tropical Park. Greek Page, at 122, gives three pounds to Cuvier Relic while Colonel Bala is in with 110.

The feature at Charles Town is a $2,000 allowance race of 7 furlongs for 2-year-olds. Eleven entered with the George W. Parker entry of Captain Hook and Black Jet, each carrying the top weight of 114, the probably early favorite.

Stratmat Nips Rare Rice In Stretch Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moe Finegold's Stratmat, who could have been claimed last summer for $3,500, Friday won the $10,000-added Christmas Handicap at Tropical Park and broke a 12-year-old track record in the process.

He nailed Rare Rice by a head in the final strides, with Mariners Guide third. The favored Petare was sixth.

Stratmat had to withstand a foul claim before his victory was made official and a $14.20 payoff flashed on the tote board. It was the 13th victory of the year for the colt.

The foul claim was lodged by Charlie Burr, rider of Mariners Guide. At the sixteenth pole Stratmat was making his move at Rare Rice but he started to bear in on Mariners Guide. Jockey George Gibb stood straight up on Stratmat, checked him momentarily, yet still managed to run down Rare Rice in the final strides.

Stratmat was timed in 1:47 2-5, fracturing the track record of 1:48 1-5 set in 1947 by Westminster.

A crowd of 12,513 wagered $1,017,626 on the nine-race card. It was the first million dollar handle of the meeting.

Many Pros Lack College Stardom

By MALCOLM ALLEN

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Television fans will see the names of 72 of the nation's finest football players Sunday when they consult their rosters during the New York Giant - Baltimore Colt clash for the National League title. But how many of those players will be remembered by fans for their college play?

Not many. The Baltimore and New York teams are typical professional football squads, selected strictly for playing ability rather than the bulk of their press notices. Only professional scouts and similar observers noticed many of Sunday's players when they were playing college ball with Saturday's heroes.

There are a few exceptions. There's Kyle Rote (No. 44), offensive captain and end for the Giants, who was an All-America in 1950 with Southern Methodist. Halfback Frank Gifford 16 and quarterback Charlie Conerly (42) also came to the Giants with lots of press notices but most of the other members of the current team had little national publicity.

Roosevelt Brown (79), one of New York's most versatile and valuable players, came from Morgan State, a small Negro college. Andy Robustelli (81), New York's defensive captain, came from Arnold, a college that doesn't exist any more.

It's the same story when you go down Baltimore's roster.

Alan Ameche (35), Baltimore's fullback, was an All-American in 1954 and Jim Parker (77), all-league offensive tackle, was a 1956 All-American. But don't look for any more with similar credentials.

As every pro football fan knows, Baltimore's big hope Sunday is John Unitas (19), a quarterback who went to college at Louisville because he couldn't get a scholarship to one of the major football schools. A number of All - America and all-conference quarterbacks have passed in and out of NFL camps in the last three years while Unitas emerged as the game's top passer.

And how about Andy Nelson (80), one of Baltimore's top defensive backs? Andy was a quarterback at Memphis State. He didn't believe he could make a pro team but friends talked him into trying. The six passes he intercepted this year brought his total to 19 for three NFL seasons.

Longest punt return in the Big Ten Conference last season was turned in by Darrell Harper of Michigan. He went 83 yards against Minnesota.

If he can maintain his current rate of production, the 6-5 Robertson has a good chance to rewrite the tourney record book. The tourney high of 90 set by Tom Gola of LaSalle certainly seems within reach.

Robertson already holds the Garden all-time single game high of 56 points, which he scored against Seton Hall during the 1957-58 season.

Backing up Robertson are such teammates as 6-4 Ralph Davis (16.6 points per game average), 6-9 Paul Hogue (12.0), 7-4 Bob Wiesenhahn (8.2), 6-6 Larry Willey (6.2) and Carl Bouldin (6.0).

Of the other teams in the tourney, N.Y.U. is given the best seasons in years and have a dangerous scorer in 6-6 Tom Sanders.

The Iowa-St. John's game will be televised in 13 Midwest states. Iowa is ranked 17th nationally and boasts two 6-9 players and ace rebounder Nolden Gentry. St. John's top player is 6-4 Tony Jackson.

Rivals In Rose Bowl Planing Double Drills

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Rose Bowl rivals Wisconsin and Washington called a truce Friday as both squads quietly celebrated Christmas.

But the coaches promised double drills Saturday to catch up on rained-out practices.

Cocking an eye at clouded skies, Washington Coach Jim Owens said: "Looks like we've brought our hometown weather with us."

SAYS SCRIBE

Goose Wanders Same As Man

By DION HENDERSON (AP)
Associated Press Staff Writer

Whither doth the gray goose wander?

Even as you and old dad would, junior, if we had the chance.

For the gray goose doth wander where the host offers the best grub, the nicest accommodations and the most pleasant company. He not only wanders, but he lingers. And as a result, some of the muted yowls of anguish among goose hunters along the great flyways are breaking out into full fledged kicking and screaming.

Take the events of the past few years in the 14 states of the Mississippi flyway, for instance. Not so long ago, the laments were coming chiefly from Wisconsin and Illinois, where hunters complained that "we're not getting our share of the geese." Their colleagues in nature's long-established wintering grounds to the south kept low in the blinds and felt sorry for them. Between shots.

Wisconsin and Illinois finally were forced to the step that many a traditionalist regards as a fate worse than death: They decided to spend some money to remedy the goose situation. Their wildlife managers set up development plans for places like the Horshoe Lake complex in Ilinois and the Horicon Marsh and Crex Meadows areas in Wisconsin.

After a deceptively modest period, they did business. Their captive flocks multiplied, the guests began dropping in, the guests had friends; they came earlier, stayed longer. Suddenly, it seemed, hunters along the firing line at Horicon talked about 100,000 Canadas "coming out" of the refuge area in a single morning. Suddenly Horshoe was the goose hunting capital of the world.

And somewhere along the line, the nature-endowed hunter down the flyway discovered that the lonesome honker he'd been trying to call in was just another guy with a goose call.

The "short-stop" of the flyway's goose population of course won't cut off the migration entirely, or perhaps even appreciably by total numbers if the Canada continues its flourishing comeback. But it's enough to hurt, and to hurt other than the far southern states.

Michigan's game chief, Harry Ruhl, told his state's hunters some of the harsh facts in their current conservation department magazine. Wisconsin and Illinois—and to some extent Missouri, because of its fringe share in the Horshoe complex—not only are shortstopping southbound geese, they're draining away the geese from both sides of the flyway.

"The main difficulty," Ruhl says, "is that Michigan has not done as much for the birds, nor done it as early, as had been done elsewhere."

And he added, "Do the goose hunters want to pay extra charges to enlarge the program?"

The answer is one that goose hunters will have to answer soon, and in more places than Michigan. Eventually the time to answer will come for more than the goose hunters.

And for any in doubt, this the magic word: Money.

New Group To Confer With Champ

NEW YORK (AP)—Three representatives of the 10-man group seeking to put on a heavyweight title fight in New York in June left Friday night by plane for a face - to - face meeting with world champion Ingemar Johnasson in Sweden.

The trio expressed confidence the Johansson-Floyd Patterson return bout would be made. One of them, Bill Fugazy, went so far as to say the rematch "is all set," as a result of trans-Atlantic telephone conversations with Johansson.

Johansson, however, said in Goteborg, Sweden, Thursday that he won't sign any papers until he comes to New York in mid-January. He is to receive the Boxing Writers Assn.'s "Boxer of the Year" trophy at the annual dinner in New York Jan. 14.

Fugazy and lawyers Roy Cohn and Tom Bolon flew to Paris. They are scheduled to meet with Johansson and the Swede's adviser, promoter Edwin Ahlquist, in Stockholm next Tuesday.

The 10 - man group purchased the return bout contract from Vincent J. Velella and Bill Sosensohn a few days ago.

Charlie Boy Cops First At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Charlie Boy ran down Pundit in the stretch for a length victory in the $5,000 Christmas Handicap at the Fair Grounds Friday.

W. W. Carroll's four-year-old gelding, favored in the six-horse field, stepped the six furlongs distance in 1:11 1-5—fastest time of the meeting.

Charlie Boy paid $5.60, $3.40, and $2.60. Pundit returned $7.20 and $4.80. Grand Wizard paid $2.80 to show.

Pundit set the pace until the top of the stretch. There, Charlie Boy moved up from fourth and responded to mild urging from jockey Robert Baldwin. It was Charlie Boy's third straight victory.

The daily double paid $252. Side Wind ($32.80) won the first and Black Question ($7.20) won the second.

A crowd of 11,051 bet $491,172 on the nine races.

Racing Slated At Four Tracks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bettors get a chance to display their new Christmas wallets at four tracks Saturday with a double feature on the season's inaugural card at Santa Anita probably the biggest lure.

Racing also will be held at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, Tropical Park at Miami and Charles Town at Charles Town, W. Va.

The two races on the opening Santa Anita card are the $20,000-added Palos Verdes Handicap of 6 furlongs for 3-year-olds and up and the $35,000-added California Breeders' Trial Stakes of 7 furlongs for 2-year-olds.

Eleven older horses were named for the Palos Verdes, with Neil McCathy's Ole Fols the probably favorite despite the load of 125 pounds. Ole Fols will go as an entry with Seaneen. Others expected to finish in the money are Fleet Nasrullah, the highweight with 126 pounds, and Demobilize, 120.

Warfare, the champion 2-year-old of 1959, is the stickout in the select field of six in the Breeders' Trial Stakes. T. V. Lark and Noble Noor are the chief contenders. All will carry 118 pounds.

The $10,000 Sugar Bowl Handicap for 2-year-olds is the New Orleans feature with Joseph Caveg-nano's Fighting King the highweight at 119 and the probable favorite in the 6-furlong affair. Others in the field of 16 are T. A. Grissom's Spring Broker, with 116, and Tony Graffagnini's Tony Graf at 118.

Cuvier Relic, an entry with Colonel Bala, is expected to fight it out with Greek Page in the mile and a sixteenth $10,000-added Miami Beach Handicap at Tropical Park. Greek Page, at 122, gives three pounds to Cuvier Relic while Colonel Bala is in with 110.

The feature at Charles Town is a $2,000 allowance race of 7 furlongs for 2-year-olds. Eleven entered with the George W. Parker entry of Captain Hook and Black Jet, each carrying the top weight of 114, the probably early favorite.

Stratmat Nips Rare Rice In Stretch Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moe Finegold's Stratmat, who could have been claimed last summer for $3,500, Friday won the $10,000-added Christmas Handicap at Tropical Park and broke a 12-year-old track record in the process.

He nailed Rare Rice by a head in the final strides, with Mariners Guide third. The favored Petare was sixth.

Stratmat had to withstand a foul claim before his victory was made official and a $14.20 payoff flashed on the tote board. It was the 13th victory of the year for the colt.

The foul claim was lodged by Charlie Burr, rider of Mariners Guide. At the sixteenth pole Stratmat was making his move at Rare Rice but he started to bear in on Mariners Guide. Jockey George Gibb stood straight up on Stratmat, checked him momentarily, yet still managed to run down Rare Rice in the final strides.

Stratmat was timed in 1:47 2-5, fracturing the track record of 1:48 1-5 set in 1947 by Westminster.

A crowd of 12,513 wagered $1,017,626 on the nine-race card. It was the first million dollar handle of the meeting.

Many Pros Lack College Stardom

By MALCOLM ALLEN

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Television fans will see the names of 72 of the nation's finest football players Sunday when they consult their rosters during the New York Giant - Baltimore Colt clash for the National League title. But how many of those players will be remembered by fans for their college play?

Not many. The Baltimore and New York teams are typical professional football squads, selected strictly for playing ability rather than the bulk of their press notices. Only professional scouts and similar observers noticed many of Sunday's players when they were playing college ball with Saturday's heroes.

There are a few exceptions. There's Kyle Rote (No. 44), offensive captain and end for the Giants, who was an All-America in 1950 with Southern Methodist. Halfback Frank Gifford 16 and quarterback Charlie Conerly (42) also came to the Giants with lots of press notices but most of the other members of the current team had little national publicity.

Roosevelt Brown (79), one of New York's most versatile and valuable players, came from Morgan State, a small Negro college. Andy Robustelli (81), New York's defensive captain, came from Arnold, a college that doesn't exist any more.

It's the same story when you go down Baltimore's roster.

Alan Ameche (35), Baltimore's fullback, was an All-American in 1954 and Jim Parker (77), all-league offensive tackle, was a 1956 All-American. But don't look for any more with similar credentials.

As every pro football fan knows, Baltimore's big hope Sunday is John Unitas (19), a quarterback who went to college at Louisville because he couldn't get a scholarship to one of the major football schools. A number of All - America and all-conference quarterbacks have passed in and out of NFL camps in the last three years while Unitas emerged as the game's top passer.

And how about Andy Nelson (80), one of Baltimore's top defensive backs? Andy was a quarterback at Memphis State. He didn't believe he could make a pro team but friends talked him into trying. The six passes he intercepted this year brought his total to 19 for three NFL seasons.

Longest punt return in the Big Ten Conference last season was turned in by Darrell Harper of Michigan. He went 83 yards against Minnesota.

Ewbanks Praises Colts For Comeback After Tailspin

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts "stunk" at the halfway point of the season, Coach Weeb Ewbank said Friday.

But the Colt mentor praised them for getting off the spot to repeat as winners of the Western Conference and qualify for another National Football League championship game Sunday against the New York Giants.

"We were on the spot all season long, it seemed," Ewbank said. "The other teams either were pointing to us as the defending champion or seemed to be overdue for a victory.

"For that reason, I feel we played several good games in winning nine times.

"But at Washington, we stunk. I was ashamed. I felt like a little kid who had made a mess. We 'earned' the spot that put us in."

That "spot," a 27-24 loss to Washington, lowered the Colt record to 4-3 and put them two games behind San Francisco. With only five games to go, many thought the Colts were out of the race.

But the Colts recovered and won their last five, including two trouncings of San Francisco.

Ewbank's blunt criticism of his players undoubtedly had a lot to do with jacking them up. He went so far as to chew out quarterback John Unitas for throwing a touchdown pass!

That was the second time the Colts beat San Francisco. They were leading 27-14 with three minutes to play and Unitas passed toward the sideline to halfback Lenny Moore who ran for another touchdown.

"It could have been an interception and a different ball game," fumed Ewbank. "I know it sounds silly to second guess a touchdown play, but to gamble when you have a victory in your hand is wrong.

"I just hope I impressed Unitas with the idea."

Ewbank also criticized Unitas, voted the best pro player of the year, for throwing a pass down the middle late in the game against Washington with the score tied 24-24. It was intercepted and enabled Washington to kick the winning field.

"But I guess he's entitled to some bad plays since he makes so many more good ones," Ewbank added.

A stickler for routine, Ewbank had practice as usual Christmas Day, while in New York, the Giants took the day off.

East, West Clubs Suffer One Casualty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Both the West and East Shrine football squads suffered a casualty Friday.

Ray Smith, UCLA fullback on the West team, suffered a pulled muscle in his right leg during a workout at Palo Alto. Smith probably will be able to make only a token appearance in the charity game Jan. 2.

The East team, practicing at Santa Clara, also lost a player, at least temporarily. Lou Cordileone, the 6-foot, 245-pound tackle from Clemson, had a high temperature and a heavy cold. He may rejoin the squad later.

West Coach Bill Meek of SMU said Smith's injury put the team in a bad position. Only one other fullback, Jack Spikes of Texas Christian, now is available.

Meek said he will review his entire backfield to see who can be moved into the fullback spot to replace Smith.

The last member of the East squad checked in Thursday last night. He is center Bob Scholtz from Notre Dame.

Festivities Open For Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Cotton Bowl festivities officially get under way Saturday when the first world series rodeo starts its five-day contests.

Climaxing the events will be the 1960 Cotton Bowl football classic on New Year's Day when the undefeated Orangement of Syracuse meet the Longhorns of the University of Texas.

Sixty-nine top rodeo cowboys have qualified for the first U.S. national finals Rodeo at the Livestock Coliseum at State Fair Park. Go-rounds will be held daily at 2 and 8 p.m. from Saturday through Dec. 30.

One of Broadway's long-run champions, "My Fair Lady," will open on Monday at the State Fair Music Hall for a week's engagement. Nightly performances at 8:15 and matinees on Dec. 30, and Jan. 2, at 2:30 will star Michael Evans and Diane Todd with Charles Victor and Hugh Dempster.

The cotton Bowl parade at 10:20 a.m., Dec. 31, will feature some 100 units with nearly a score of floats. Grand Marshals of the parade, which also will include 33 bands and marching units, parade horses and antique cars, will be the five world champion cowboys which will be determined the previous night and the world champion barrel racer, Jane Mayo of Okemah, Okla.

Highlight of he parade will be the floats carrying the Cotton Bowl queen, Diane Lander; Miss Syracuse, Janet Mary Ross, and the Southwest Conference princesses.

Other sports events of the Cotton Bowl festival will be the 20th annual high school basketball tournament, the Cotton Bowl basketball and bowling tournaments, and the third annual junior indoor tennis tournament.

The high school cage tournament which starts Saturday at the P.C. Cobb Field House will pit 32 outstanding high school cage teams of Texas.

Eight of the best small college teams will meet for the Cotton Bowl basketball tournament in the Automobile Bldg. at State Fair Park, Dec. 28-31.

National and regional bowling stars are already competing in the annual Cotton Bowl bowling tournament. Remaining dates are Saturday, Sunday, Dec. 31, Jan. 1, 2 and 3.

The State Fair midway will be open from 1 to 6 p.m. daily Saturday through Dec. 30.

Nationals Picked In Copper Bowl

By BOB WOOD

TEMPE., Ariz. (AP) — An all-star team selected from the Southwest and one picked from the rest of the nation clash Saturday in the second annual Copper Bowl football game at Arizona State University Stadium.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected for the nationally televised game (CBS 1:30 p.m., MST), playd for the benefit of the United Cerebral Palsy Fund.

The National All-Stars, coached by Don Clark of the University of Southern California and Rip Engle of Penn State, are outweighed and outnumbered but still rank as one-touchdown favorites.

The Nationals get the nod on the basis of a fast, rugged and mobile line led by Bill Burrell, All-America guard from Illinois; Chuck Janerette, 234-pound tackle from Penn State; tackle Ron Mix of Southern Cal and Indiana guard Elvin Caldwell.

The Southwesterners will try to puncture that line with a set of outstanding backs including quarterback Joe Majors of Florida State; halfbacks Don Perkins, New Mexico, and Wayne Schneider, Colorado State, and fullback Prentice Gautt, Oklahoma.

The Southwest squad is directed by Frank Kush of Arizona State and Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy.

The manpower problem may be the biggest headache for the Nationals. When the teams reported last Monday all 27 of the Southwest All-Stars were present. The Nationals counted only 24 when a couple of linemen failed to show.

Now fullback Clark Holden of USC and quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State are on the injury list. Holden hurt a shoulder during practice and Lucas still is hobbled by a hip injury suffered in the Liberty Bowl victory over Alabama.

The Southwesterners, representing the Bigh Eight, Skyline, Southwest, Rocky Mountain and Border conferences, won last year's battle 22-13.

The game will be played under the free-substitution system.

DECLINE TRACK INVITATIONS

NEW YORK (UPI) — High jumper John Thomas of Boston University and sprint champion Ray Norton of San Jose State have declined invitations to compete in Australia next March. Both gave the pressure of school studies as the reason for pasisng up the trip.

Missouri Club Treated With Big Welcome

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Missouri Tiger party of 81, including 48 rugged - looking players, received the red-carpet treatment as it arrived by plane Friday for the Jan. 1 Orange Bowl game against Georgia.

The athletes immediately boarded buses for their Miami Beach headquarters. Coach Dan Devine called a brief limbering-up workout for the squad at a field adjoining the hotel.

Saturday afternoon the players will get down to the serious business of preparing for the Bulldogs.

Devine said the athltees were in good shape with one exception. Starting fullback and ace defensive man Ed Mehrer suffered a knee injury in the final game of the season against Air Force and will not be available.

Devine said the players had six or seven practice sessions before leaving Columbia, and last Friday had a tough scrimmage.

"To date we haven't concentrated on Georgia," he said, expressing a great admiration for Wally Butts' team.

"Georgia was ranked No. 5, and might have been No. 1," he said. "I've looked at a lot of films of their games, and I'm greatly impressed. They may have weaknesses, but they scored three touchdowns in the first half against Georgia Tech. We're going to have to open up our offense, as you have to score plenty against a team like that."

This will be Missouri's sixth bowl encounter. The Tigers have yet to win.

Argentine Champ Wants Only One Match In U. S.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine welterweight champion Luis Federico Thompson was quoted by a sports magazine Friday as saying he is willing to go to the United States for "just one fight"—against world champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles for the title.

Thompson knocked out Jordan in the fourth round of a non-title 10-round fight in Buenos Aires Dec. 12.

In an interview with the magazine "El Grafico," Thompson declared:

"My wish would be to go to the United States for just one fight against Jordan. But I don't like the idea of fighting against the sixth boxer in the ranking, then with the fourth-placed—Supposing I win the first bout—then with the second-placed . . .I don't like that. The title fight against the champion never comes off."

Missouri Club Treated With Big Welcome

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Missouri Tiger party of 81, including 48 rugged - looking players, received the red-carpet treatment as it arrived by plane Friday for the Jan. 1 Orange Bowl game against Georgia.

The athletes immediately boarded buses for their Miami Beach headquarters. Coach Dan Devine called a brief limbering-up workout for the squad at a field adjoining the hotel.

Saturday afternoon the players will get down to the serious business of preparing for the Bulldogs.

Devine said the athltees were in good shape with one exception. Starting fullback and ace defensive man Ed Mehrer suffered a knee injury in the final game of the season against Air Force and will not be available.

Devine said the players had six or seven practice sessions before leaving Columbia, and last Friday had a tough scrimmage.

"To date we haven't concentrated on Georgia," he said, expressing a great admiration for Wally Butts' team.

"Georgia was ranked No. 5, and might have been No. 1," he said. "I've looked at a lot of films of their games, and I'm greatly impressed. They may have weaknesses, but they scored three touchdowns in the first half against Georgia Tech. We're going to have to open up our offense, as you have to score plenty against a team like that."

This will be Missouri's sixth bowl encounter. The Tigers have yet to win.

Argentine Champ Wants Only One Match In U. S.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine welterweight champion Luis Federico Thompson was quoted by a sports magazine Friday as saying he is willing to go to the United States for "just one fight"—against world champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles for the title.

Thompson knocked out Jordan in the fourth round of a non-title 10-round fight in Buenos Aires Dec. 12.

In an interview with the magazine "El Grafico," Thompson declared:

"My wish would be to go to the United States for just one fight against Jordan. But I don't like the idea of fighting against the sixth boxer in the ranking, then with the fourth-placed—Supposing I win the first bout—then with the second-placed . . .I don't like that. The title fight against the champion never comes off."

East, West Clubs Suffer One Casualty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Both the West and East Shrine football squads suffered a casualty Friday.

Ray Smith, UCLA fullback on the West team, suffered a pulled muscle in his right leg during a workout at Palo Alto. Smith probably will be able to make only a token appearance in the charity game Jan. 2.

The East team, practicing at Santa Clara, also lost a player, at least temporarily. Lou Cordileone, the 6-foot, 245-pound tackle from Clemson, had a high temperature and a heavy cold. He may rejoin the squad later.

West Coach Bill Meek of SMU said Smith's injury put the team in a bad position. Only one other fullback, Jack Spikes of Texas Christian, now is available.

Meek said he will review his entire backfield to see who can be moved into the fullback spot to replace Smith.

The last member of the East squad checked in Thursday last night. He is center Bob Scholtz from Notre Dame.

BY TOUCHDOWN

Nationals Picked In Copper Bowl

By BOB WOOD

TEMPE,. Ariz. (AP) — An all-star team selected from the Southwest and one picked from the rest of the nation clash Saturday in the second annual Copper Bowl football game at Arizona State University Stadium.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected for the nationally televised game (CBS 1:30 p.m., MST), playd for the benefit of the United Cerebral Palsy Fund.

The National All-Stars, coached by Don Clark of the University of Southern California and Rip Engle of Penn State, are outweighed and outnumbered but still rank as one-touchdown favorites.

The Nationals get the nod on the basis of a fast, rugged and mobile line led by Bill Burrell, All-America guard from Illinois; Chuck Janerette, 234-pound tackle from Penn State; tackle Ron Mix of Southern Cal and Indiana guard Elvin Caldwell.

The Southwesterners will try to puncture that line with a set of outstanding backs including quarterback Joe Majors of Florida State; halfbacks Don Perkins, New Mexico, and Wayne Schneider, Colorado State, and fullback Prentice Gautt, Oklahoma.

The Southwest squad is directed by Frank Kush of Arizona State and Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy.

The manpower problem may be the biggest headache for the Nationals. When the teams reported last Monday all 27 of the Southwest All-Stars were present. The Nationals counted only 24 when a couple of linemen failed to show.

Now fullback Clark Holden of USC and quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State are on the injury list. Holden hurt a shoulder during practice and Lucas still is hobbled by a hip injury suffered in the Liberty Bowl victory over Alabama.

The Southwesterners, representing the Bigh Eight, Skyline, Southwest, Rocky Mountain and Border conferences, won last year's battle 22-13.

The game will be played under the free-substitution system.

DECLINE TRACK INVITATIONS

NEW YORK (UPI) — High jumper John Thomas of Boston University and sprint champion Ray Norton of San Jose State have declined invitations to compete in Australia next March. Both gave the pressure of school studies as the reason for pasisng up the trip.

Farmerville Society Has Holiday Party

Phi Chapter, the Union Parish chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, held its Christmas party Tuesday evening in the Home Economics cottage at Farmerville High School, with Mrs. Lucille Stewart, Mrs. Gladys Rabun, Mrs. Ruth Dawkins, Mrs. Reita Davis, Mrs. Mary Louise Johnston, Mrs. Corrie Armstrong, Mrs. Debbie Nettles, and Mrs. Faye Futch as hostesses.

Decorations throughout the house carried out the holiday theme. On the table at the entrance hall was a Madonna, filled with red holly berries. The living room mantel was festive with an arrangement of pink poinsettias, candles, and pink flocked pine interspersed with sprays of pink baubles. A large lighted Christmas tree was in the dining room, and on a table nearby was a driftwood tree sprayed with white and filled with gleaming ornaments.

The hostesses alternatted in greeting the members, while Mrs. Johnston received each one's gift and placed it under the tree. Christmas music was played softly as all were assembling. Each white-covered table in the dining room was centered with an arrangement of holly and groupings of red candles in star-shaped crystal candleholders. Red maline down the center of each table, seasonal napkins and place cards all helped carry out the holiday decor.

Mrs. Nettles read a poem she had composed, a parody to "The Night Before Christmas", in which each member present was mentioned. Mrs. Armstrong led the group in a game wherein each person received an unexpected gift. Group singing followed and Christmas gifts were exchanged.

Members present were Mrs. Larue Barron, Mrs. Lucia Black, Mrs. Blondell Davis, Mrs. Clyta Cole, Mrs. Elizabeth Colvin, Miss Eunice Cole, Miss Ruth Dudley, Mrs. Ruby Edwards, Miss Doris Gaston, Mrs. Lallage Golden, Mrs. Minnie Dell Glaze, Mrs. Louise McDonald, Mrs. Mary Lee Phillips, Mrs. Lucille Porter, Mrs. Gertie Mae Richardson, Mrs. Wilma Tucker, Mrs. Helen Sims, Mrs. Clarisse Thaxton, Mrs. Nell Tucker, Miss Elva Upshaw, Mrs. Minne Watson and Mrs. Lorraine Walsworth.

Bird Home Setting For Christmas Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bird entertained at a dinner party at their home last Friday evening, with Mr. and Mrs. John Barr Burgess as co-hosts.

Throughout the Bird home on Point Drive were festive holiday arrangements, and the front door was wrapped as a Christmas package in green foil paper and gold ribbon and centered with a gold medallion and multi-colored balls. On the chest in the entrance hall was a manger scene before a large branch of greenery and red berries.

Guests were greeted by the hostesses, both wearing for the occasion black dresses, and invited into the living room which was festive in traditional colors of green and red. Dinner was served buffet style from the dining table covered with a green cloth, caught at intervals with small bunches of holly. A seven-branched brass candelabra holding red candles was decorated with red carnations, holly and fern. The buffet held a large brandy snifter filled with gold and silver balls nestled in red angel hair around a large red candle. At the base of the snifter was white angel hair and small gold and silver balls.

Guests who were seated at small tables centered with red candles and holly berries included Mr. and Mrs. Davis Lea, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ramsey of Sterlington, and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Walton.

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q.—Picture a living room painted white. Regency sofa is white and gold brocade. Tables are mahogany and antique lamps are tall and gold. Rug is a gold twist. I have two fireside chairs and one club chair to be recovered. I want wall - to - wall draperies. Should they match the walls or rug?

A.—If you want a very subtle color scheme add pale grayish celadon green to your gold and white color scheme. The two fireside chairs might be in that shade while the club chair could be the gold of the twist rug. There are no rules on whether draperies should match rug or walls. It depends entirely upon the proportions of the room. When the area is very small it is wise to carry the wall color onto the window treatment. In your case I would recommend gauzy white draperies printed with gold.

Q.—I would like some ideas for a boy's bedroom. The room is quite small and has only one window. I would like to make it appear larger. Bedspread and curtains are corduroy in a golden brown. Rug is gray wall-to-wall. Chest of drawers and night table are blond. What color do you advise painting walls and woodwork? Would you suggest painting chest and table? How about throw pillows?

A.—Paint walls and woodwork he color of the chest of drawers—or as close as you can get to it. As long as the wood is a pleasant color it seems a shame to cover it with paint. The blond tone, like any light color, will make room seem larger. For pillows try oranges and rusts.

Q.—We are going to redecorate our bedroom and would like suggestion for color and carpet. The room gets morning sun. The furniture is cherry mahogany in modified modern style. Accessories are white and gold. Should I get a rug the same color as the walls or in contrasting shade? I am very partial to sandalwood or cocoa but am afraid this would be too dull.

Use the sandlewood you are partial to on wall behind bed and carry this same color up onto the ceiling. Other three walls and all woodwork including doors and window frames should then be painted a pale harmonizing beige to avoid too "heavy" a look. Then use a sharp true color on the floor: orange, emerald green, sharp red, even a true truquoise.

Q.—I need help on living room of our as-yet-unfinished home. The room is 15 feet square with natural stone fireplace on end wall, large picture windown on street wall and solid unbroken wall opposite window. We have rose-beige sofa and chair, beige and brown chair. We plan to buy dark tables. Can you help us on other pieces, ideas for wall, draperies, rugs, accessories? Woodwork and door are natural wood.

A.—Your room sounds rather bland—brown and tan-now, and can use some warm color to pep it up. However since your woodwork is natural I would keep beige for walls and draperies, add color elsewhere. An orange rug and floor pillows in a deeper orange would be a nice touch. Your dark coffee table might have a leather top—also in orange. A black lacquer desk with matching chair and beige seat would be an interesting accent. Try copper accessories with this scheme.

There Is No Blueprint For Child-Rearing Now

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

As parents we learn by experience how to get the best response from our children. We find that it works better to be somewhat strict with Jane; who otherwise has demands which know no limits. We can be lenient with Ken who has a ready-made philosophy expressed by "You have to humor these parents."

Parents discover that however good the suggestions made by authorities — who point out what works best with the most children — blueprints for exact behavior cannot be used. How they work depends too much on the individual mother and the individual children.

Teachers who learn "methods," discover that the same methods do not work the same for every teacher. The verbal exchange between pupil and teacher, the clash of individual temperament, the very air a teacher adopts when she imparts knowledge or utters criticism—make her successful or unsuccessful despite identical methods.

Parents and children also have temperaments which grate on each other, even if the parent is sure she loves each child as much as some other. But she has to admit that she gets along better with Sara than with Dick. The first is submissive to her words and so reasonable.

Wears Mother Out

The second is argumentative, wearing his mother out answering why he should do this or that, what good is it, can't they discover a better way to do this? She is limp with her efforts to get him to conform to the ordinary pattern of the household.

When parents were very new at this business of rearing children according to the book—and not by the lore of grandparents and aunts — they demanded formulas for what to do. They needed these to escape from the old paterns which had existed for so many centuries.

Has Passed

Today this need has passed. For 50 or more years child rearing practices, child psychology, child development, have become familiar to successive generations of parents and they have the courage to throw away formulas and to be themselves.

It is plain that it isn't so much what you do, as the type of parent you happen to be. If you are loving, emotionally mature, healtily spontaneous and flexible, you will be able to rear a child successfully, even if you don't follow all the rules.

The keynote of the modern parents—along with our diets — seem to be naturalness, instead of stiff, formal and prescribed ways of acting. But we'll probably have to wait 20 years to discover the results of this parental behavior. Who knows what will be in vogue then?

If you would like to have our 10-cent booklet "The First Six Months" which will help the mother to get a start with her baby, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

DINNER

Another compliment to Miss Haley and Mr. Maxwell was a small dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McLemore and Brown McLemore, Jr. at their home in Gilbert, on Saturday, December 19, at six - thirty o'clock.

Christmas Customs Have Early Origins

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Legends about the original Santa Claus and some of our Yule trimmin's make heartwarming food for thought this eleventh hour of Christmas Eve.

The original Santa Claus, historians claim, was a Cupid's helper—even though he was a bishop. His name was Nicholas, bishop of Myra. He was born about 280 A.D. in Asia Minor.

Nicholas, sainted after his death aided three poor sisters who needed dowries to marry.

FAMILY WAS MYSTIFIED

When each of these damsels in distress reached marriageable age, the good bishop reportedly tossed a bag of gold through their window.

The family was mystified the first two times, but when it came time for the third daughter to marry—if she got the dowry—the momma and poppa kept a vigil.

Sure as Christmas, a third bag of gold was flung through the window one night. The old bishop was caught in his charitable act.

The modern Santa is the mythical descendant of that old St. Nick.

The legend about the three bags of gold is one reason stateus of St. Nicholas frequently depict him carrying a bag of gold.

Historians claim Italian banks first used the symbol of three golden balls, for the three bags of gold for the maidens, to advertise their practice of lending money. Pawn brokers picked up the symbol later.

The sumbol of St. Nick came to America in 1630. Records show a Dutch ship, the Goede Vrouw, carried his likeness on the prow when the ship docked in New York.

Legends about favorite Christmas trimmin's are romantic too.

The poinsettia, discovered in Mexico in 1828 by Dr. Joel Poinsett, the first United States minister to that country, was called "Flower of the Holy Night."

Petals of the flower, according to the legendary origin, depict drops of blood that fell from broken hearts of maidens disappointed in love.

Mistletoe, a kissin' twig in contemporary times, was a symbol of hope and peace in Roman times. It was used at truces. People pledged frienship under its branches and this may have been the origin of the kissing custom.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Embarrassment Will Seem Humorous In Time

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and madly in love with a fellow who doesn't even know I exist. He took me out in September and the evening was a horrible flop. Ted's a wonderful dancer and I was so nervous I couldn't follow him. We tried talking instead and neither of us could think of anything to say.

He never asked me out again and I can't blame him. We pass each other in the halls every day and he says "Hi" and walks on.

When I feel blue (which is every evening), I eat ice cream, candy, pie and popcorn. I've gained 15 pounds and my mother is having a fit because my clothes are so tight, and my skin is a mess. My grades are down because I can't concentrate on anything but Ted.

Don't tell me to forget him because I CAN'T. He's the only boy I will ever love and I'd rather be alone than settle for second best. What's your advice?—DESPONDENT

Dear Despondent: So you can't forget him and you don't want that kind of advice. Well, how's this?

Continue to mope around, eat yourself out of shape, ruin your complexion, get poor grades in school and cut yourself off from teenage friends. You'll wind up plenty alone, miserable and a physical and mental mess. Is this what you want? It's the alternative, so make up your mind.

Dear Ann: I hope your answer will show my wife how foolish she is to be upset over this thing.

Last week we attended her high school reunion. Each member of the class was asked to get up at the banquet and state briefly what had happened since graduation. When it was my wife's turn she was very nervous and said the following:

"Dick and I were married right after graduation. We moved out to his farm after that. We've had six children in seven years and that's about all I've done." Then she sat down.

The hall shook with laughter and the crowd couldn't be quieted for a full five minutes. My wife turned white and I thought she'd faint dead away. Now she says she has made such a fool of herself that she can't face her high school friends again. Can you suggest something to help her get over this?—DICK R.

Dear Dick: Time is your best ally. The less said for several weeks the better. In a couple of months, when she is less sensitive, mention the reunion casually and try to get her to see the humor in it.

There Is No Blueprint For Child-Rearing Now

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

As parents we learn by experience how to get the best response from our children. We find that it works better to be somewhat strict with Jane; who otherwise has demands which know no limits. We can be lenient with Ken who has a ready-made philosophy expressed by "You have to humor these parents."

Parents discover that however good the suggestions made by authorities — who point out what works best with the most children — blueprints for exact behavior cannot be used. How they work depends too much on the individual mother and the individual children.

Teachers who learn "methods," discover that the same methods do not work the same for every teacher. The verbal exchange between pupil and teacher, the clash of individual temperament, the very air a teacher adopts when she imparts knowledge or utters criticism—make her successful or unsuccessful despite identical methods.

Parents and children also have temperaments which grate on each other, even if the parent is sure she loves each child as much as some other. But she has to admit that she gets along better with Sara than with Dick. The first is submissive to her words and so reasonable.

Wears Mother Out

The second is argumentative, wearing his mother out answering why he should do this or that, what good is it, can't they discover a better way to do this? She is limp with her efforts to get him to conform to the ordinary pattern of the household.

When parents were very new at this business of rearing children according to the book—and not by the lore of grandparents and aunts — they demanded formulas for what to do. They needed these to escape from the old paterns which had existed for so many centuries.

Has Passed

Today this need has passed. For 50 or more years child rearing practices, child psychology, child development, have become familiar to successive generations of parents and they have the courage to throw away formulas and to be themselves.

It is plain that it isn't so much what you do, as the type of parent you happen to be. If you are loving, emotionally mature, healtily spontaneous and flexible, you will be able to rear a child successfully, even if you don't follow all the rules.

The keynote of the modern parents—along with our diets — seem to be naturalness, instead of stiff, formal and prescribed ways of acting. But we'll probably have to wait 20 years to discover the results of this parental behavior. Who knows what will be in vogue then?

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE SKIN DURING PREGNANCY

Pregnancy leads to many temporary alterations in the body, including the skin. Excess pigment forms and hair grows where it didn't exist before. In half of the women puffiness of the ankles occurs. Others develop acne or experience hair loss, cracking of the nails, flushing of the skin, goose flesh, or hives. Such changes sound worse than they really are and are too trivial to discourage motherhood.

Nevertheless, mothers to - be are no more susceptible to skin disorders than are other women. Itching is a prevalent complaint, especially during the middle or later periods of pregnancy. The area between the thighs frequently is involved — and occasionally, the entire body. It is most bothersome at night and likely to be worse during the summer.

The cause usually escapes detection but in most instances itching disappears shortly after the baby is born. Treatment ranges from mild sedatives for those who are nervous to the usual soothing solutions such as calamine and the antihistaminic drugs.

In some women the veins in the fact, chest, and arms become more prominent. They have been dubbed spider veins because of their fine branches and darker center point. They usually appear in the second to fifth month and increase slowly in size and number.

Pigmentation is most noticeable in the skin of the breasts, abdomen, and face. The forehead, cheeks, and nose may be covered with a brown stain (mask of pregnancy) that cannot be wiped off. Darkening of the eyelids takes place also, especially in brunettes. These changes cannot be avoided any more than the usual and expected changes in abdominal contour.

In some women, pigmented moles enlarge or new ones develop. This presents a problem because physicians always recommend removal of a mole that enlarges or changes color. The rule should be adhered to, especially when the lesion is in an area where it might be irritated under an elastic band, shoulder strap, or maternity corset.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

CLOT IN VEIN

T. S. writes: In phlebitis, does the leg become red and swollen?

REPLY

It depends upon the location of the inflamed vein (phlebitis). Redness is more marked when a surface vein is involved, and swelling is more pronounced when a deeper vein is affected. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on phlebitis.

WEAK AFTER GOOD SLEEP

D. T. writes: I sleep like a rock all night but feel weaker than the devil during the day. Would you suggest some reasons for this?

REPLY

A physical or mental illness may be responsible. For example, an infection might make you so weak you sleep well at night but drag around all day.

EPILEPSY AND ALLERGY

W. K. writes: Is epilepsy related in any way to allergy?

REPLY

A number of attempts have been made to link the two but none has withstood the test of time. Both disorders may co-exist, however.

EVERYDAY RADIATION

L. F. writes: Does radiation from TV and fluorescent light encourage the formation of cataracts?

REPLY

This has never happened, to my knowledge.

Man Who Said He Killed Toughy Braggart

LINCOLN, Ill. (UPI)—A service station attendant who boasted to a young hitchhiker that he killed former Chicago mobster Roger Touhy turned out to be merely a braggart and not a killer, Chicago police said Friday.

Authorities here and from Chicago questioned him for several hours Thursday after George Green, 17, Chicago, who had hitched a ride with the man, reported that the driver had shown him a shotgun in the car and said he was responsible for killing Touhy Dec. 16.

Touhy was shot down on the steps of a West Side home, 23 days after he got out of Joliet penitentiary. Police have found few clues to his assailant, except for the shotgun shells found at the scene.

Police said the driver was found "dead drunk" seven miles north of Lincoln, where his car had crashed into a ditch. After he regained consciousness, state police questioned him.

At Lockport, Ill., the man's wife said her husband left home two days before Christmas, saying he was going hunting somewhere between Illinois and California.

German Cops Hunt Painters Of Synagogue

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — City and state detectives were out in force Friday hunting the persons who desecrated the city's newly inaugurated synagogue on Christmas Eve.

The walls of the synagogue were smeared with red-painted swastikas and the words: "Germans, we demand: Jews, get out!"

Presumably the same persons poured a busketful of black paint over the city's monument to the victims of the Nazi rule.

The city and the state government of North Rhine-Westphalia promised rewards up to $3,570 for any clues leading to arrests in the case.

Chiang Reports Red Strength Grows Weaker

TAIPEI (UPI)—Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kei-shek said Friday that the firm stand taken by Nationalist China and the Western nations has greatly weakened the Communist strength and averted another world war.

Chiang said the non-Communist world's refusal to retreat any more not only solved the Berlin crisis, but also forced the Communist Peiping regime to the brink of total collapse.

The president made an analysis of the world situation and Nationalist China's influence in the world's struggle against Communism in a 25-minute speech at the annual meeting of the National Assemblymen's Association.

He said the Nationalist Chinese troops in the Quemoy battle last year "stopped the Communists from making a single step into the Pacific area prevented Communist aggression in Southeast Asia and averted another world war."

Man Jailed In Shooting Of Woman

HERRIN, Ill. (UPI)—Walter J. Goodpaster, 46, brother of a White House official, was jailed Friday in the fatal shooting of a woman and the wounding of her companion after what police were told was an argument over a barking dog.

He denied any knowledge of the shootings.

Goodpaster, a Carterville, Ill., optometrist, is the brother of White House Staff Secretary Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster.

He was questioned in the death of Mrs. Margaret Strunk, 51, Carterville, whose body was found floating in a pond not far from Goodpaster's home. Bernard Dobraski, 32, Herrin, was shot twice in the back of the head, but was able to give police a statement.

Dobraski was taken to a St. Louis hospital.

He told police that he and Mrs. Strunk had made the rounds of several taverns early Christmas morning and were on their way home when their car broke down near Goodpaster's home.

Dobraski said as they walked by Goodpaster's home in search of aid, a huge dog came out and started barking.

Dobraski said he threw stones at the dog and cursed the animal in an effort to drive it off.

Dobraski told police that Goodpaster came out and threatened him with a gun.

He said that he and Mrs. Strunk continued to walk up the road, but that a short time later Goodpaster rode up in a truck, got out of the vehicle and said: "You've had it."

Dobraski said he heard Mrs. Strunk shout "don't, don't shoot" and then shots rang out.

Dobraski said he ran from the scene and stumbled into a nearby house.

Police apprehended Goodpaster at his home. He denied any knowledge of the shooting, police said.

Mrs. Strunk's body was found floating in a nearby pond of water. Police said it appeared that she had been dragged to the pond and thrown in.

Police were still attempting to find the weapon, which Dobraski described as a derringer.

Goodpaster was being held in the Herrin jail. No bond was set for his release.

Man Shoots Former Wife And Baby

RICHMOND, Mo. (AP)—A man who pleaded afterward with officers to kill him, too, shot his former wife and baby daughter to death early Friday then turned the .22-caliber rifle on himself, police said.

James Magill, 26, succeeded only in wounding himself in the chest, and is expected to recover.

Dead were his divorced wife, Sherry Magill, 22, and their 15-month-old daughter, Lee Ann.

Mrs. Magill's body was found lying in the bathtub of her apartment, the child clutched in her arms. Each had been shot in the head. Both were wearing night clothing. Magill was found in the kitchen.

"You may as well go ahead and put a bullet in my head," he told officers as they lifted him to an ambulance stretcher.

Mrs. Magill had telephoned police, saying her former husband was trying to break into her apartment. The shootings occurred before officers could get there.

The Magills were divorced Nov. 5 and Magill has since remarried. He left his second wife in Colorado Springs on their honeymoon, telling her he was going to Nebraska for a job. Instead, police said, Magill returned to Richmond and began accosting his former wife.

She reported him and a warrant for his arrest on a charge of assault was out at the time of the shootings.

FROM WHEELCHAIR

Handicapped Dr. Helps Patients

By HEDRICK L. SMITH
United Press International

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (PI) — You don't think of Dr. Harold Truebger as handicapped when you speak to him on the telephone. He has a strong, clear voice and he talks about his 200 paraplegic patients in a friendly manner, just as you'd expect any doctor to.

You don't realize what a remarkable man Truebger is—until you visit his office at Kennedy Veterans Hospital here. Then you get an idea of what it's like to be a quadraplegic. The doctor with the direct, blue eyes explains that he is paralyzed from the chest down. He has no feeling in his legs, his arms are partially crippled and his fingers are as limp as those of an empty glove.

Truebger, at 44, is confined to a wheel chair and a bed. He has been for 13 years. Someone has to turn him over every two hours as he sleeps so his blood circulation won't be cut off. He eats with special silverware.

But that doesn't mean Truebger is what you'd call "flat on his back." He runs the out-patient clinic for paraplegics — people less handicapped than himself. He's in his office five days a week, and like any doctor is on call at odd hours.

Truebger's office is full of gadgets such as the desk set on blocks to let him roll his wheel chair up to it without bumping his knees. He has a writing arm — a hollow cast that holds his pen. He's learned to lift the telephone by slipping his thumb through a special hook on the back of it, and he dials numbers with a metal pencil that fits onto the palm of his hand. With two such pencils, Truebger can punch out a three-page letter in an hour, using an electric typewriter.

But life hasn't always been even that good for Truebger.

Truebger earned his M.D. at Vanderbilt University, went into the Army in 1943 and found himself in North Africa in 1946. One day before dawn, his neck was broken in a jeep accident, when his driver tried to pass an Arab cart being pulled by a donkey and a camel.

During a painfully slow recovery, Truebger tried to get a position with the X-ray staff at Kennedy Hospital. For three years hes truggled to prepare himself, but the job didn't pan out.

To make matters worse, on one of his visits home, his wife hurt herself taking care of him and she became bedridden. Then, in 1951, his only son — Harold Jr., then six — came down with polio. Truebger hit rock bottom.

"I was deep in the dumps," he recalls. "I was considered one of the more difficult patients — and I knew it."

That was when Dr. Benjamin Moeller, Chief of the Spinal Cord Injury (Paraplegic) Division, suggested Truebger take up medicine again. "I was a little hesitant," he admitted. "I knew I was out of date. All I had been reading was dime novels."

But Moeller convinced him he could do it. Gradually, Truebger said, "he let me do more and more where I now do virtually all as far as out-patients are concerned — all that my physical capacity will allow."

Other doctors help out by performing physical examinations and surgery, but Truebger runs the clinic.

He tells with effort of his adjustment to wheel-chair living. His choice of words is deliberate and slow. His breath comes hard like a man walking up a long, hard hill, but when he reaches today, Truebger smiles and says cheerfully, "And here I am!"

The "here" is the job as doctor without pay — because Truebger receives full disability benefits for his injury. But the job is its own reward, he said. "It has been the greatest psychological boost I have ever had."

MAN, 21, KILLED

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—Donnie Frazier, 21, of Meridian was killed Friday when an auto skidded off the highway during a rainstorm near here and overturned several times.

Highway patrolmen said Bobby Quinn, 19, also of Meridian, was critically injured. Quinn reportedly was driving.

Chiang Reports Red Strength Grows Weaker

TAIPEI (UPI)—Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kei-shek said Friday that the firm stand taken by Nationalist China and the Western nations has greatly weakened the Communist strength and averted another world war.

Chiang said the non-Communist world's refusal to retreat any more not only solved the Berlin crisis, but also forced the Communist Peiping regime to the brink of total collapse.

The president made an analysis of the world situation and Nationalist China's influence in the world's struggle against Communism in a 25-minute speech at the annual meeting of the National Assemblymen's Association.

He said the Nationalist Chinese troops in the Quemoy battle last year "stopped the Communists from making a single step into the Pacific area prevented Communist aggression in Southeast Asia and averted another world war."

FROM WHEELCHAIR

Handicapped Dr. Helps Patients

By HEDRICK L. SMITH
United Press International

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (PI) — You don't think of Dr. Harold Truebger as handicapped when you speak to him on the telephone. He has a strong, clear voice and he talks about his 200 paraplegic patients in a friendly manner, just as you'd expect any doctor to.

You don't realize what a remarkable man Truebger is—until you visit his office at Kennedy Veterans Hospital here. Then you get an idea of what it's like to be a quadraplegic. The doctor with the direct, blue eyes explains that he is paralyzed from the chest down. He has no feeling in his legs, his arms are partially crippled and his fingers are as limp as those of an empty glove.

Truebger, at 44, is confined to a wheel chair and a bed. He has been for 13 years. Someone has to turn him over every two hours as he sleeps so his blood circulation won't be cut off. He eats with special silverware.

But that doesn't mean Truebger is what you'd call "flat on his back." He runs the out-patient clinic for paraplegics — people less handicapped than himself. He's in his office five days a week, and like any doctor is on call at odd hours.

Truebger's office is full of gadgets such as the desk set on blocks to let him roll his wheel chair up to it without bumping his knees. He has a writing arm — a hollow cast that holds his pen. He's learned to lift the telephone by slipping his thumb through a special hook on the back of it, and he dials numbers with a metal pencil that fits onto the palm of his hand. With two such pencils, Truebger can punch out a three-page letter in an hour, using an electric typewriter.

But life hasn't always been even that good for Truebger.

Truebger earned his M.D. at Vanderbilt University, went into the Army in 1943 and found himself in North Africa in 1946. One day before dawn, his neck was broken in a jeep accident,when his driver tried to pass an Arab cart being pulled by a donkey and a camel.

During a painfully slow recovery, Truebger tried to get a position with the X-ray staff at Kennedy Hospital. For three years hes truggled to prepare himself, but the job didn't pan out.

To make matters worse, on one of his visits home, his wife hurt herself taking care of him and she became bedridden. Then, in 1951, his only son — Harold Jr., then six — came down with polio. Truebger hit rock bottom.

"I was deep in the dumps," he recalls. "I was considered one of the more difficult patients — and I knew it."

That was when Dr. Benjamin Moeller, Chief of the Spinal Cord Injury (Paraplegic) Division, suggested Truebger take up medicine again. "I was a little hesitant," he admitted. "I knew I was out of date. All I had been reading was dime novels."

But Moeller convinced him he could do it. Gradually, Truebger said, "he let me do more and more where I now do virtually all as far as out-patients are concerned — all that my physical capacity will allow."

Other doctors help out by performing physical examinations and surgery, but Truebger runs the clinic.

He tells with effort of his adjustment to wheel-chair living. His choice of words is deliberate and slow. His breath comes hard like a man walking up a long, hard hill, but when he reaches today, Truebger smiles and says cheerfully, "And here I am!"

The "here" is the job as doctor without pay — because Truebger receives full disability benefits for his injury. But the job is its own reward, he said. "It has been the greatest psychological boost I have ever had."

Man Jailed In Shooting Of Woman

HERRIN, Ill. (UPI)—Walter J. Goodpaster, 46, brother of a White House official, was jailed Friday in the fatal shooting of a woman and the wounding of her companion after what police were told was an argument over a barking dog.

He denied any knowledge of the shootings.

Goodpaster, a Carterville, Ill., optometrist, is the brother of White House Staff Secretary Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster.

He was questioned in the death of Mrs. Margaret Strunk, 51, Carterville, whose body was found floating in a pond not far from Goodpaster's home. Bernard Dobraski, 32, Herrin, was shot twice in the back of the head, but was able to give police a statement.

Dobraski was taken to a St. Louis hospital.

He told police that he and Mrs. Strunk had made the rounds of several taverns early Christmas morning and were on their way home when their car broke down near Goodpaster's home.

Dobraski said as they walked by Goodpaster's home in search of aid, a huge dog came out and started barking.

Dobraski said he threw stones at the dog and cursed the animal in an effort to drive it off.

Dobraski told police that Goodpaster came out and threatened him with a gun.

He said that he and Mrs. Strunk continued to walk up the road, but that a short time later Goodpaster rode up in a truck, got out of the vehicle and said: "You've had it."

Dobraski said he heard Mrs. Strunk shout "don't, don't shoot" and then shots rang out.

Dobraski said he ran from the scene and stumbled into a nearby house.

Police apprehended Goodpaster at his home. He denied any knowledge of the shooting, police said.

Mrs. Strunk's body was found floating in a nearby pond of water. Police said it appeared that she had been dragged to the pond and thrown in.

Police were still attempting to find the weapon, which Dobraski described as a derringer.

Goodpaster was being held in the Herrin jail. No bond was set for his release.

Man Shoots Former Wife And Baby

RICHMOND, Mo. (AP)—A man who pleaded afterward with officers to kill him, too, shot his former wife and baby daughter to death early Friday then turned the .22-caliber rifle on himself, police said.

James Magill, 26, succeeded only in wounding himself in the chest, and is expected to recover.

Dead were his divorced wife, Sherry Magill, 22, and their 15-month-old daughter, Lee Ann.

Mrs. Magill's body was found lying in the bathtub of her apartment, the child clutched in her arms. Each had been shot in the head. Both were wearing night clothing. Magill was found in the kitchen.

"You may as well go ahead and put a bullet in my head," he told officers as they lifted him to an ambulance stretcher.

Mrs. Magill had telephoned police, saying her former husband was trying to break into her apartment. The shootings occurred before officers could get there.

The Magills were divorced Nov. 5 and Magill has since remarried. He left his second wife in Colorado Springs on their honeymoon, telling her he was going to Nebraska for a job. Instead, police said, Magill returned to Richmond and began accosting his former wife.

She reported him and a warrant for his arrest on a charge of assault was out at the time of the shootings.

Red Chinese Build Road

KATMANDU, Nepal, (AP) — The Chinese Communist army is building a road inside Nepal linking a Tibetan military depot with Khojernath, adjoining India's Almora district in Uttar Pradesh, the newspaper Swatantra Samachar reported Friday.

The paper quoted "a high Nepali official" as saying the Reds were constructing the road 50 miles inside the extreme northwest end of Nepal linking Taklakot military depot in Tibet with Khojernath.

It also said Chinese intelligence agents are operating inside Nepal disguised as Tibetan refugees.

AFTER 373-MILE WALK

Woman Says She's Ready To Go Again

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Barbara Moore, who spent the week before Christmas walking 373 miles, was awakened Friday by aching feet.

Then she refused the traditional English Christmas dinner, and dined on fruit and nuts, but she's ready to walk around the world, she said.

The 56-year-old dietician walked seven days and seven nights from Edinburgh to London. She staggered Thursday night to Marble Arch, in the center of London, on badly blistered feet, in a state of collapse and 14 pounds lighter.

The cheers of 10,000 Christmas Eve revellers greeted her. Police rushed her to a hospital.

"I feel fine except for my feet," said the walking woman Friday. "They ache very much. I slept from the time they put me to bed until this morning when my feet woke me up."

For Marcher Barbara Moore the past week were seven days that changed her world.

"They hardened my toughness," she said. "If somebody challenged me to walk around the world, I think I would take it on."

But at the moment she was more interested in getting a lift in a car if the hospital lets her leave for her home in nearby Surrey Saturday.

Her husband, Harry Moore, a sculptor, motored to London Friday morning and was at her bedside with a Christmas kiss.

"I know I'm tough," exclaimed Dr. Moore, her blue eyes sparkling and her cheeks glowing. "I want to be tough. Those seven days and nights hardened my toughness. But that doesn't mean I don't want to look feminine."

And with that she preened her hair, gazing at herself in a hand mirror she had carried in a bag down the long road from Scotland.

"Somebody described your walking as elegant," said her husband.

Dr. Moore actually blushed.

She made her long march, she said, to show that women can be as tough as men. What's needed is the right food—and a life of "mastered sex," she added.

She wants a baby, but prefers to wait until she's 100. She intends to live 200 years.

Thousands Of Tourists Visit Square

Bethlehem, Jordan (AP)—Thousands of tourists and pilgrims visited Manger Square Friday and renewed the faith and hope that was kindled with the birth of the Christ child there so many centuries ago.

Though the focal point of the Christmas observance in the Holy Land was a midnight Mass culminating in services in the Church of the Nativity in the early hours of the day, a steady stream of cars continued over the winding road across the valley between Jerusalem and Bethlehem as more and more visitors arrived throughout the day.

They wandered through the city's streets and over the rock-strewn fields where shepherds still watch their flocks.

Chartered planes, at the rate of 10 a day, continued to pour visitors into Jerusalem Airport on pilgrimages to this crowded little Arab market town.

For Dec. 25 is only the beginning of Christmas in Bethlehem.

Calendar differences among the various Christian churches account for three different dates for Christmas here—the Western one today, the Orthodox anniversary Jan. 6 and the Armenian Jan. 19.

Pilgrims coming for each celebration differentiate Bethlehem from other small Palestinian towns. Otherwise, 20th century Bethlehem would have no importance other than as a barter place for Bedouins.

Bethlehem is becoming more and more tourist-conscious.

In the past, almost all pilgrims stayed in hotels in Jerusalem and drove back and forth to Bethlehem. But this year a small inn opened on Manger Square opposite the tiny 1,400-year-old Church of the Nativity. Another small hotel opened in Shepherd's field, just outside Bethlehem where tradition says the angel came to shepherds watching their sheep and heralded the birth of the Savior.

Some 10,000 persons, at least 6,000 from abroad, jammed Manger Square and the vicinity on Christmas Eve for Lutheran, Presbyterian, Anglican and Roman Catholic services. About 1,700 of them were Arab Christians from the Israeli side, permitted to cross no man's land by special arrangement for the Savior's birthday.

Focal point for those attending Catholic services was a crib in a manger near the silver altar which tradition says stands where Christ was born. This is in a smoke-blackened grotto under the Church of the Nativity. In the crib lay a small statue, dressed in swaddling clothes.

BABY GOES HOME

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— The finest gift received by Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Doles Friday came wrapped not in colorful Christmas tissue but in a heavy, warm blanket. They were allowed to bring home their daughter who had been doomed to die because she was born 10 weeks prematurely on Oct. 14 and weighed only one pound 13 ounces. Physicians gave little Christine Michele one chance out of 100,000 to survive, but she defied the odds with the help of the Valley Presbyterian Hospital staff and her own natural vigor.

Soviets Fire New Blast At West Germany

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia interrupted its goodwill Christmas messages to the West Friday to charge West Germany with trying to thwart the coming summit talks by pushing a plan the Soviet Union has already rejected.

The Soviet newspaper Izvestia said West Germany was "trying to galvanize" the package plan the Russians rejected at this year's Foreign Ministers' Meeting in Geneva.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, quoted an article by M. Mikhailov:

"That plan, which heaped up disarmament issues, the German problem, the Berlin question and the rest of the international issues, is so demonstrably incapable of providing any basis for the talks that it has been greeted with irony everywhere.

"And if Bonn has set about advertising it at once, is it not only with the purpose of complicating the coming summit talks?"

The article said that although all the Western powers had approved the summit meeting, England and the United States seemed willing to make concessions to circles who do not want it.

Tass quoted the report as saying that although American NATO leaders pledged "their devotion to the idea of disarmament," they "called for billions for arms . . . for stepping up construction of new American rocket bases on the territories of NATO member states."

Shoplifters Busy During Season

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — People are busy Christmas shopping all over America. Some are just as busy shoplifting, and it's the plush season too for the pickpocket.

While there are no exact figures, it has been reasonably estimated — on the basis of arrests, interrogations, apprehended shoplifters — that 83 per cent of shoplifters are amateurs.

"This may be the housewife who had an argument with her husband over mounting bills, or it may be the opportunist who sees an easy chance to get away with something for nothing, or it may be a down-and-outer," says Sgt. Neil Behan of New York City's pickpocket and confidence detail.

"Most of these amateurs may shoplift only once in their lives and they can usually find a thousand ways to rationalize what they've done."

LOSS IS STAGGERING

The National Retail Merchants Assn. says that shoplifting losses are lumped together with pilferage, damage and other such types of loss which are recorded as paper shortages. Its 11,500 members — who represent 10 per cent of the nation's merchants — do an annual business of 20 billion dollars and figures show they suffered a paper loss of 1.3 per cent of their net owned retail sales. This is a whopping 260 million dollars.

Norman Jaspan, head of a management consultant firm which has done considerable work in combating business losses, says supermarkets, discount houses and department stores are the chief targets of these petty criminals.

"Part of the blame belongs to management," Jaspan says. "Some organizations simply do not know how to display goods properly and this entices a number of people who will act impulsively and take things. Certain stores are known to professionals as pushovers."

Sgt. Behan says the amateurs include kleptomaniacs but that shoplifters come from all strata of society.

"Amateurs don't work in the way that professionals do. The pros use all sorts of devices, from trick boxes that look tightly wrapped but have spring openings from specially constructed coats with huge pockets, women with bloomers that can hold an amazing amount of goods. There are so many it would be impossible to enumerate. But even a housewife will use a trick worked by a pro sometimes. This is then they start trying on dresses and walk out wearing a new dress under their old one, says Behan.

Merchants have no set pattern for handling the problem. Admittedly it is particularly tough during the Christmas season when they have extra, inexperienced help who haven't enough training to spot shoplifters. Because of varying state laws some stores will not attempt to prosecute persons caught in the act. Catching them also poses a problem because a shoplifter must be stopped outside the store.

"You stop someone in your store," explains one merchant—"and you can create ill-will or even face the possibility of a charge of false arrest. After all, they can offer any number of excuses."

The professionals, like the amateurs, operate all year long, but the bulk of shoplifting losses — about 25 per cent of the annual total — occur during the Christmas season.

To protect themselves, many large stores have security departments. Others have various check systems and still others post signs warning that violators will be prosecuted.

OFFICER'S ADVICE

Both amateur shoplifter as well as the ordinary, honest shopper, stand the chance of being victimized by a pickpocket. Sgt. Behan suggests that women particularly — since they do most of the shopping — follow one stern rule: keep tight grip on your purse at all times.

"The pickpocket operates on an axiom that goes: distract and extract. It's amazing how easily you can be distracted," he says. "This is the season that the moll buzzers (pickpockets who specialize in women) are particularly active. So if you are suddenly jostled in a crowd or caught in any unnecessary pushing, keep your mind on your money and hang onto your parcels."

Group To Study Chemicals Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm spokesmen may soon ask the government to create an independent commission to study problems raised by the use of chemicals in agriculture and in foods.

The tentative decision to seek an unbiased government-endorsed study was made at a meeting of farmer organization leaders here earlier this week. A final decision is expected to be reached at another meeting shortly after New Year's Day.

The move stems from the fear of farm leaders that recent government crackdowns on cranberry and caponette growers may shake the confidence of consumers in the purity and safety of the nation's food supply.

The farm leaders involved do not question the need for rigid policing to insure food purity. But they say they are opposed to the use of nationwide publicity in food contamination cases involving only a small percentage of producers.

Say Innnocent Hurt

This, they say, results in innocent as well as guilty growers being hurt.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, recently acted to halt distribution of cranberries and caponettes found to be contaminated with substances that had produced cancer in laboratory animals.

Some national farm leaders were bitterly critical of what they considered unnecessary fanfare accompanying his actions. Charles B. Shuman, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, charged that Flemming had an ambitious eye on the 1960 Republican vice presidential nomination.

Others questioned not only the publicity, but whether there was any real danger to consumers that warranted Flemming's crackdown.

Flemming, however, points to federal law requiring removal from the market of foods containing any trace of agents that cause cancer in laboratory animals. The law sets no tolerance levels.

The farm leaders are believed to fear that unless the government takes some dramatic action, there will be continuing public agitation about chemicals in agriculture—possibly some heavily-publicized congressional investigations of the subject.

The farm spokesmen feel this may be avoided if congressional leaders and the Administration agree on the quick appointment of a study commission. One possibility is a group appointed by the President from among well-informed scientists both in and out of government service.

Top Agriculture Department officials are known to feel also that it would be helpful to have an independent appraisal of the food safety picture.

Present thinking among the farm leaders would call for the selection of men who are already well-informed in the field but are not connected in any way with commercial interests or enforcement of food laws. The experts might be drawn from a private, non-profit foundation.

The men behind the commission plan feel that such a group could make a quick report to the Administration and Congress on how farmers, food processors, and the government should deal with any dangers arising from ues of chemicals in agriculture.

Sends Cards Of Children Who Were Killed

WASECA, Minn. (UPI)—"Merry Christmas and a happy and holy New Year from heaven," the Christmas card read.

The smiling faces of six children beamed from the picture on the card.

It was sent by their father, Jim Zimmerman, whose family was wiped out in an automobile wreck Sept. 11.

The six children and his wife died when a train struck the station wagon in which they were riding, heading for school.

"I was busy that morning, or I would have taken them myself," Jim said. "But I guess God didn't plan it that way."

"I still try to do the best job possible," said the 36-year-old farmer. "I've always thought I should leave this world just a little better than the way I found it."

For Jim there are memories of past Christmases with his family.

He recalls the big decorated Christmas tree up to the ceiling and piles of gay wrapping paper after presents were opened.

Now he has only memories. Upstairs are three bedrooms, empty now.

The rooms remain as the children left them. In one room a stuffed teddy bear lies upside down on a table. In another miniature furniture is stacked neatly next to a doll house.

Jim said he seldom goes to the rooms any more.

"I try to keep busy," Jim said. "That's the best way to keep my mind off what happened."

ATLANTA (UPI)—Three children perished in a Christmas morning fire that destroyed their frame house in a heavily-wooded rural area near here.

The victims were identified as Bobby Jean Mitchell, 12, her brother, Robert Don Mitchell, 8, and their 7-year-old nephew, Alvin Mosley.

Police said three other relatives fled to safety. The Mitchell children's mother, Mrs. AMamie Mitchell, 45, and the Mosley boy's brother, Russell, 8, escaped injury.

However, another relative, John Mosley, 50, was burned when he grabbed an ax and attempted to hack his way into the flaming house where the children were trapped.

Two bus passengers, Belinda 45, both of Brownsville, Tex., were admitted to Weslaco Medical Center with severe cuts and bruises. Two other women were treated and released. They were not identified.

Highway patrolmen said a witness told them the car darted out of a side road into the path of the bus, which was going east on U. S. highway 83, three miles east of Weslaco.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Jimmie Davis Tells Plans For Campaign

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Former Gov. Jimmie H. Davis said Friday he and members of the Davis-Aycock ticket would use the period between the Christmas and New Years' holidays for a four-day intensive stumping campaign through South Louisiana.

Davis said he and the ticket return to the stump Sunday at Church Point.

"We are campaigning in the second primary the same way we did in the first, "Davis said." We have adhrerd to the record and have discussed the issues over the state to bring our proposed program to the people for their approval election day."

The former chief executive said there are things which to him are more important than winning a campaign. He said he will continue to campaign in such a way that he can face any man in the state of Louisiana following the election with the assurance that he sought the office of governor in accordance with the dictates of his conscience.

"I learned a long time ago, when I entered politics that a man either has intergrity or he doesn't, "Davis said. "And, to me, if a man doesn't have integrity he has nothing. Before I would vilify the good name of a man, his wife, his friends and his neighbors, I would risk losing the election."

The full itinerary released by Davis follows:

Sunday: Church Point, 10:30 a.m.; Elton at 1:30 p.m.; Lake Arthur at 3:30 p.m. and Hayes at five p.m.

Monday: local rallies in Orleans and Jefferson parishes.

Tuesday: Starks at 11 a.m.; Vinton at 1:30 p.m.; Westlake at 4:30 p.m. and Lake Charles at 6:30 p.m.

Wednesday: Oakdale at 11:00 a.m.; Kinder at 1:30 p.m.; Mermentau at four p.m. and Easterwood at 5:30 p.m.

On Saturday Davis will meet with leaders of the fifth and

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Jimmie Davis Tells Plans For Campaign

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Former Gov. Jimmie H. Davis said Friday he and members of the Davis-Aycock ticket would use the period between the Christmas and New Years' holidays for a four-day intensive stumping campaign through South Louisiana.

Davis said he and the ticket return to the stump Sunday at Church Point.

"We are campaigning in the second primary the same way we did in the first, "Davis said." We have adhrerd to the record and have discussed the issues over the state to bring our proposed program to the people for their approval election day."

The former chief executive said there are things which to him are more important than winning a campaign. He said he will continue to campaign in such a way that he can face any man in the state of Louisiana following the election with the assurance that he sought the office of governor in accordance with the dictates of his conscience.

"I learned a long time ago, when I entered politics that a man either has intergrity or he doesn't, "Davis said. "And, to me, if a man doesn't have integrity he has nothing. Before I would vilify the good name of a man, his wife, his friends and his neighbors, I would risk losing the election."

The full itinerary released by Davis follows:

Sunday: Church Point, 10:30 a.m.; Elton at 1:30 p.m.; Lake Arthur at 3:30 p.m. and Hayes at five p.m.

Monday: local rallies in Orleans and Jefferson parishes.

Tuesday: Starks at 11 a.m.; Vinton at 1:30 p.m.; Westlake at 4:30 p.m. and Lake Charles at 6:30 p.m.

Wednesday: Oakdale at 11:00 a.m.; Kinder at 1:30 p.m.; Mermentau at four p.m. and Easterwood at 5:30 p.m.

On Saturday Davis will meet with leaders of the fifth and

HARD MAN TO FIND

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The city of Philadelphia searched without success for a smithy to shoe the 64 horses of the Fairmount Park Commission.

It decided none was available in this city of 2,200,000 persons and changed residence requirements opening the full-time job to residents of other areas.

The problem received publicity that resulted in applications for the job from points as distant as New Mexico. Inquiries were received from Ireland, England, Italy and Germany.

Finally hired was Rocco Romani, a Philadelphia resident. He, too, was attracted by the publicity and made himself available.

Debutantes Like The Lanin Way

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—This is high society's debutante season, when the calendar glitters with coming out parties for the daughters of the Biddles, the Vanderbilts, the Rockefellers and others of the social register.

But no one this season will be coming out more often or in finer financial style than beaming, balding Lester Lanin.

Every night from Dec. 20 to Jan. 6, bandleader Lanin will climb into a Brooks Bros. tuxedo—he wears out 10 a year—and come out to the St. Regis Roof, the beach houses of Southampton, the mansions of Chevy Chase and similar haunts of the haut monde to fulfill engagements booked as far back as 1954. And, as frequently happens, Lanin will park his baton on the bandstand long enough to sign up new customers for as far ahead as 1968.

For, as every hep heiress knows music with a distinct society beat —I.E. the fast foxtrot known as the Peabody—is as indispensable an ingredient of a correct soiree as a just right souffle, gowns by Dior and a carefully culled guest list.

Along with Meyer Davis, Emil Coleman and a few others, Lanin has made a specialty of catering to the musical tastes of the gentry.

Saturday night his bouncy beat —midway between Guy Lombardo and Stan Kenton—heralds the debut of Laurence Rockefeller's daughter, Lucy at the Rainbow Room.

Friday night it beat for the swank New York Cotillion on the St. Regis Roof. In past weeks it has tooted for a private party given by Sen. John F. Kennedy, for the Hunt Ball at Piping Rock Country Club, the Imperial Ball at the Astor, for Philadelphia's famed First City Troop and for diamond-studded charity events.

Over the years Lanin has provided anything from an accordion player—at $50 a night—to a 65-piece band — $15,000 a night—for such notables as President Eisenhower, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Vincent Astor, Walter Chrysler, John Hay Whitney, Henry Cabot Lodge, Mrs. Harvey Firestone, Mrs. Edsel Ford, the Duke of Windsor, Perle Mesta, Elsa Maxwell and just about every foreign government with an embassy in Washington or a delegation at the U.N.

"Essentially, I'm a businessman," says Lanin, who carries business to the point of advertising in the Wall Street Journal. "Dance music is my business. If everyone is up dancing, the party is bound to be a success."

To get everyone up dancing, Lanin's well paid, well-tipped musicians adhere to a strict set of negatives: no drinking on engagements, no smoking in the ballroom no sheet music on the stand, no rock 'n' roll numbers, no hit songs except from Broadway shows, no instrument cases in sight, and, unless the hostess requests otherwise, no vocalists.

Continuous music is a Lanin trademark. The band plays without let-up from the regular 8 p.m. starting time to the 2 a.m. "Good Night Ladies," often longer if the customer is willing to pay the overtime. Bandsmen take their union breaks in a rotation system, with Lanin himself spelling the drummer or the pianist. Sometimes the party goes on until breakfast — noon is the Lanin record—or splinter groups from the band go home with the guests for more partying.

"My musicians," says Lanin, "are the best fakers in the business. They must know at least 400 songs by heart and be able to fake 400 more. We never say 'no' to a request, no matter how old or in what language. I hire men from a variety of nationalities to take care of requests for French, Irish, Italian, Greek, Jewish or German requests. If one guy knows it, the rest can fake it."

Last year from his plush offices at 1776 Broadway, businessman Lanin mailed out withholding slips to 667 musicians, who with or without the maestro traveled to most of the 50 states, Havana, Paris, London and Rome to provide "music in the Lanin manner." Says Lanin, "I control the quality. My bands are as alike as cans of soup."

Hostesses on the verge of hysteria have been known to ask him to hop a jet to Palm Springs, Calif., or Shaker Heights, Ohio, to check on the decor and preparations for a big blast.

"I'm no interior decorator," says Lanin, "but I know what makes a good dance. Maybe the room is too hot, too cold, too bright. Maybe the bar is too far away. Maybe the favorite team has lost a big football game or someone in the family has lost an election. I have to gauge my music to fit the mood of the crowd. Or maybe the floor is just too sticky."

To remedy the last condition, Lanin politely pushes the guests to the sidelines and sprinkles the floor with a small can of wax that he carries to every engagement.

"I'm there to be of service," he says. "If the Duke of Windsor wants to play the drums, I let him. The same with Mrs. Firestone on the piano or Gary Cooper on the bongos. In this business, the guest is always right. And the hostess is even righter."

Killer Who Cut Off Head Still At Large

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) —The killer who cut off the head of a young woman here Wednesday night was still at large Friday.

Police said Thursday night they believed the man may have got away on a city bus. They followed the route of the bus in loudspeaker - equipped cars, calling for anyone who might be able to help to come forward.

The victim was 29-year-old Stephanie Baird. Her headless body was discovered in a YWCA hostel here Wednesday night.

Detectives continued their house-to-house questioning in the murder district.

Long-Standing Tradition Said Broken

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (UPI)—Luther Britt broke a long-standing tradition Friday for the first time in 29 years he failed to spend Christmas in jail.

A sympathetic judge helped bring about the occasion.

Britt has spent the last 27 Christmases in custody of local or state officers for various offenses, usually public drunkeness.

On Dec. 5 Britt was released from jail but was back in custody a few hours later on the usual complaint.

City Recorder's Court Judge Derb S. Carter suspended a 30-day sentence for him, but two hours later police arrested him again. And again the charge was public drunkeness.

Judge Carter recited a poem for Britt in court and then continued judgment.

"Not drunk is he who
from the floor,
"Can either rise or drink some more;
"But drunk is he who prostrate lies,
"And cannot either drink or rise."

A few hours after he walked from the courtroom Britt was in the lockup a third time for the day . . . this time for begging.

"I'm trying to keep you out of jail for Christmas," Judge Carter told Britt, "but it doesn't look like we're going to make it."

But he did.

Tuna Clipper Is Abandoned In Pacific

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — A 125-foot tuna clipper—the Sea Boy —was abandoned Friday after radioing a distress signal that it was sinking 330 miles south of here.

The Coast Guard at Long Beach, Calif., reported the crew of 12 was transferred to the freighter Fra Benlanga shortly before noon. There were no casualties. The Fra Benlanga then headed for San Francisco.

A Japanese freighter, Laplanta Maru, was the first rescue vessel to reach the scene and first took aboard the crew members of the disabled vessel. The Laplanta Maru pulled alongside the tuna boat shortly before 1 p.m. e.s.t. At that time, the Sea Boy was still afloat, although it had earlier reported it was going down about a mile off the Baja California coast.

In its distress call, the Sea Boy radioed it was taking water and had a fire in the pumps.

4 Children Spend Lonely Christmas Day

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Four young children spent a lonely Christmas with their widowed mother Friday unaware that a hit-and-run driver killed their father on Christmas Eve.

The father, Kenneth L. Boyd, 34, of suburban Midwest City, was run down late Thursday afternoon as he pushed a new bicycle home as a gift for his three boys and one girl, ranging in age from 2 to 11.

Boyd had just purchased the bicycle and was wheeling it alongside the curb, when a car veered toward him and knocked him on to the parkway. He received multiple fractures and internal injuries.

The bicycle was demolished.

Police searched for the driver.

Boyd's wife, Edith, 33, was at his bedside when he died about three hours later in an Oklahoma City hospital.

"How do you tell four little children on Christmas Eve that their daddy is dead?" she sobbed.

Plane Crash

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z., (UPI) —A U.S. Navy R4D8 plane crashed at Byrd Station in the Antarctic the morning of Dec. 23, a report from the scene disclosed Friday.

Lt. Garland M. Renegar of Statesville, N.C., the pilot, received minor injuries and the rest of the crew was not hurt, the Navy said. Names of the crew were not disclosed.

Celebration To Be Held By Jews 8 Days

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Friday night, when Christians are winding up their celebration of Christmas, Jews will begin their observance of the eight-day holiday of Chanukah.

Chanukah is the Jewish festival of religious freedom. It commemorates a great victory in 165 B.C. when Jewish patriots led by Judah Maccabaeus overthrew a despotic Syrian ruler who had forbidden Jews to worship in their ancient temple at Jerusalem.

Judah Maccabaeus re-dedicated the temple to Jewish worship and proclaimed an eight-day festival of rejoicing. Jews have celebrated the holiday annually as Chanukah ever since. This year's observance begins at sunset Friday night.

Candles will be lighted in Jewish homes each night, beginning with one candle Friday night, two Saturday night, three the third night and so forth until on the final night eight candles will burn in the special Chanukah candelabrum.

The traditional candle ceremony has given the observance the popular name "festival of lights."

Memorable Christmas For 2-Year-Old

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — For two-year-old Diane Marie Garton, this Christmas was a memorable day of wondrous lights and the most beautiful presents she had ever seen.

They were only bright colored balls, some dolls, a play telephone, a wooden dog and a rocking chair, but they had a magical look. They were the first presents she had been able to see.

Diane was born blind, with cataracts covering both eyes. Early this month, Fresno doctors successfully removed the cataract from her left eye. Since then, she has been able to see her way around with the aid of thick-lensed glasses.

Her father, George, said she was awed by the tree, set up two days ago, and fascinated by the lights and ornaments.

Friday the maple rocking chair was the first to catch her eye. Then she opened her other presents before her parents, their other three children and relatives.

And as a special present, the family made plans for Diane to undergo a second operation in a few months to remove the cataract from her other eye.

Brigitte Plans To Name Baby Nicolas If Boy

PARIS (UPI) — Brigitte Bardot, who expects a baby at any time now, plans to name her first born Nicolas, but not in honor of St. Nicholas.

Saint Nick is known in France as "Papa Noel" and friends said they chose the name Nicolas merely because they liked it. Brigitte and her husband also have refused to consider the possibility the baby might be a girl.

Brigitte was quoted in Paris newspapers as saying X - rays showed she would not have twins, but she and her matineeidol husband Jacques Charrier, have fibbed to the press so often twin-gossip failed to die down.

The twin-talk started when two white cradles were delivered this week to the Charrier residence where the actor has been spending most of his time since being discharged from the army because he was so nervous.

Johnny Digs Way Out Of Yule Cards

SIDONIA, Tenn. (UPI)—Johnny Kesterson, a five-year-old who lost his right leg in a recent corn conveyor accident, was digging his way out from under 5,000 Christmas cards Friday.

The cards and Christmas packages were sent by people who heard of Johnny's convalescence in Weakley County Hospital in Milan. Relatives told newsmen how much he enjoyed cards and letters that came from all parts of the country.

Mrs. Thomas Kesterson, Johnny's mother, said the family was "overwhelmed" by the kindness.

German Orphans Entertained

BERLIN (UPI)—American soldiers entertained German orphans refugees and retarded children at Christmas parties Friday in this isolated city.

In turn, about 200 U.S. soldiers accepted Christmas dinner invitations to West Berlin homes.

During the Christmas season, American soldiers held about 50 parties for some 3,500 orphans, refugees, retarded children and other under-privileged persons.

16 Russians Nearing Pole

MOSCOW (AP)—Sixteen Soviet scientists in tractor-drawn sleds were within 62 miles of the South Pole Friday, Tass reported.

The Russians were trying to establish radio contact with their American counterparts at a U.S. base near the pole. It has taken them 16½ days to cover about 750 miles.

HARD MAN TO FIND

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The city of Philadelphia searched without success for a smithy to shoe the 64 horses of the Fairmount Park Commission.

It decided none was available in this city of 2,200,000 persons and changed residence requirements opening the full-time job to residents of other areas.

The problem received publicity that resulted in applications for the job from points as distant as New Mexico. Inquiries were received from Ireland, England, Italy and Germany.

Finally hired was Rocco Romani, a Philadelphia resident. He, too, was attracted by the publicity and made himself available.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Friday night, when Christians are winding up their celebration of Christmas, Jews will begin their observance of the eight-day holiday of Chanukah.

Chanukah is the Jewish festival of religious freedom. It commemorates a great victory in 165 B.C. when Jewish patriots led by Judah Maccabaeus overthrew a despotic Syrian ruler who had forbidden Jews to worship in their ancient temple at Jerusalem.

Judah Maccabaeus re-dedicated the temple to Jewish worship and proclaimed an eight-day festival of rejoicing. Jews have celebrated the holiday annually as Chanukah ever since. This year's observance begins at sunset Friday night.

Candles will be lighted in Jewish homes each night, beginning with one candle Friday night, two Saturday night, three the third night and so forth until on the final night eight candles will burn in the special Chanukah candelabrum.

The traditional candle ceremony has given the observance the popular name "festival of lights."

Memorable Christmas For 2-Year-Old

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — For two-year-old Diane Marie Garton, this Christmas was a memorable day of wondrous lights and the most beautiful presents she had ever seen.

They were only bright colored balls, some dolls, a play telephone, a wooden dog and a rocking chair, but they had a magical look. They were the first presents she had been able to see.

Diane was born blind, with cataracts covering both eyes. Early this month, Fresno doctors successfully removed the cataract from her left eye. Since then, she has been able to see her way around with the aid of thick-lensed glasses.

Her father, George, said she was awed by the tree, set up two days ago, and fascinated by the lights and ornaments.

Friday the maple rocking chair was the first to catch her eye. Then she opened her other presents before her parents, their other three children and relatives.

And as a special present, the family made plans for Diane to undergo a second operation in a few months to remove the cataract from her other eye.

Brigitte Plans To Name Baby Nicolas If Boy

PARIS (UPI) — Brigitte Bardot, who expects a baby at any time now, plans to name her first born Nicolas, but not in honor of St. Nicholas.

Saint Nick is known in France as "Papa Noel" and friends said they chose the name Nicolas merely because they liked it. Brigitte and her husband also have refused to consider the possibility the baby might be a girl.

Brigitte was quoted in Paris newspapers as saying X - rays showed she would not have twins, but she and her matineeidol husband Jacques Charrier, have fibbed to the press so often twin-gossip failed to die down.

The twin-talk started when two white cradles were delivered this week to the Charrier residence where the actor has been spending most of his time since being discharged from the army because he was so nervous.

Johnny Digs Way Out Of Yule Cards

SIDONIA, Tenn. (UPI)—Johnny Kesterson, a five-year-old who lost his right leg in a recent corn conveyor accident, was digging his way out from under 5,000 Christmas cards Friday.

The cards and Christmas packages were sent by people who heard of Johnny's convalescence in Weakley County Hospital in Milan. Relatives told newsmen how much he enjoyed cards and letters that came from all parts of the country.

Mrs. Thomas Kesterson, Johnny's mother, said the family was "overwhelmed" by the kindness.

German Orphans Entertained

BERLIN (UPI)—American soldiers entertained German orphans refugees and retarded children at Christmas parties Friday in this isolated city.

In turn, about 200 U.S. soldiers accepted Christmas dinner invitations to West Berlin homes.

During the Christmas season, American soldiers held about 50 parties for some 3,500 orphans, refugees, retarded children and other under-privileged persons.

16 Russians Nearing Pole

MOSCOW (AP)—Sixteen Soviet scientists in tractor-drawn sleds were within 62 miles of the South Pole Friday, Tass reported.

The Russians were trying to establish radio contact with their American counterparts at a U.S. base near the pole. It has taken them 16½ days to cover about 750 miles.

5 New Yorkers Killed In Auto Accident

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (UPI)—Five New Yorkers were killed Friday when their car skidded through a bridge guard rail and plunged into the Currituck Sound.

The state Highway Patrol said the car was approaching the Wright Memorial Drawbridge and was on a temporary bypass when it crashed through a guard rail, plunging into the water.

The patrol identified the victims as Fannie Plowden, 35, James Smith, 25; Allia Mae Peartree, 45; Walleier Eugene Smith, 21, and Jerrard Williams, 8, all Negroes of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Highway patrolman A. F. Fields said the driver of the car, Milton L. Gibbs, 41, escaped from the vehicle.

The car submerged before anyone but Gibbs could get a door open.

NEGRO KILLED

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — Louis Harbison, 26-year-old Negro airman stationed at Bossier Base, was struck and killed by a Bossier City police car here Friday

Lt. J. A. Jones, driver of the car, said Harbison was walking along the shoulder of the road and suddenly stepped in front of the auto.

5 New Yorkers Killed In Auto Accident

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (UPI)—Five New Yorkers were killed Friday when their car skidded through a bridge guard rail and plunged into the Currituck Sound.

The state Highway Patrol said the car was approaching the Wright Memorial Drawbridge and was on a temporary bypass when it crashed through a guard rail, plunging into the water.

The patrol identified the victims as Fannie Plowden, 35, James Smith, 25; Allia Mae Peartree, 45; Walleier Eugene Smith, 21, and Jerrard Williams, 8, all Negroes of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Highway patrolman A. F. Fields said the driver of the car, Milton L. Gibbs, 41, escaped from the vehicle.

The car submerged before anyone but Gibbs could get a door open.

NEGRO KILLED

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — Louis Harbison, 26-year-old Negro airman stationed at Bossier Base, was struck and killed by a Bossier City police car here Friday.

Lt. J. A. Jones, driver of the car, said Harbison was walking along the shoulder of the road and suddenly stepped in front of the auto.
